U. S. COURT MAKES HEDGES RECEIVER FOR N. Y. RAILWAYS

American Brake Shoe and Foundry Co. Brings About Action Through Suit for $36,806.

INABILITY TO PAY ADMITTED

Interborough Rapid Transit and Interborough Consolidated Not Included.

FLOATING DEBTS $1,600,000

Job E. Hedges, lawyer, noted after-dinner speaker, and one-time Republican candidate for Governor, was appointed receiver of the New York Railways Company yesterday by United States Judge Mayer. The petition was presented by the American Brake Shoe and Foundry Company, a Delaware corporation which is a creditor to the amount of $36,806.26. An answer filed by the Railways Company at the same time that the petition was presented admitted all the allegations made in the complaint. The concurrence of the defendant in the action makes the transfer of the railroad property to the court a friendly proceeding.

As soon as the receiver had qualified he went to the company's offices at 165 Broadway, where Theodore P. Shonts, the President, was awaiting him. After a brief conference newspaper reporters were called into Mr. Shonts's office and were introduced to Mr. Hedges. In response to a request for a statement Mr. Shonts said:

"I have no statement prepared and simply want to say this. On looking back to the time that we began our campaign for increased revenue for the railways I find this booklet entitled: 'Why a Charge for Transfers is Justified.' It was issued under date of May 22, 1917, and from that time until now we have been trying to educate the public and the public authorities as to the necessity for increased revenue, because of increased costs of maintenance and operation which had to be faced as the result of the war.

"I remember that last Summer the situation with regard to the Railways Company became so serious that we thought that if we could live through Sept. 30 we would indeed be fortunate. We did get by Oct. 1, however, and then we wondered if we could get by Dec. 31 and Jan. 1. But we managed to live through those dates by the grace of God and the indulgence of our friends, and in addition nature was kind to us and we did not have to carry the usual burden of bad Winter weather.

No Encouragement for Bankers.

"We continued to run on, hoping that before the axe should fall there would be some relief extended, or at least that there would be a promise of relief, so that we could go to our bankers for our financial requirements. If the recent bill had passed in Albany, and if the Board of Estimate had shown any inclination to aid in the situation, the banks would undoubtedly have helped us over our period of strain. We had lived through December and January, which were the worst months we had experienced, but when our creditors began to press us and to demand payment and a statement of our cash situation there was only one thing for us to do.

"I called a special meeting of our Board of Directors and read them the financial condition of the company, and they agreed upon the receivership. I did not know earlier in the day that the action would be taken today, but I did know that it was imminent."

Mr. Shonts said the American Brake Shoe Company had filed the bill and had served it upon him earlier in the afternoon. He also said that if authority to charge an eight-cent fare had been granted it would have been possible to weather the storm. He also said that the company had been receiving only 3.42 cents as revenue for each passenger carried because of transfers.

"And here we are," he concluded, "with the new boss on the job," introducing Mr. Hedges. Asked for a statement, Mr. Hedges said:

"The problem is one that will have to be worked out. I assume that in choosing me to act as receiver Judge Mayer, who is an old classmate of mine and with whom I have been intimate, believed that I would approach it with a fallow mind. It is a problem that can be worked out in some normal manner, and until I am more familiar with the company I cannot comment further."

Mr. Shonts was asked how the receivership would affect the Interborough Consolidated and the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, and declined to comment except to make it clear that only the New York Railways Company had been put into the hands of the court.

In the financial district it had been known for some months that the New York Railways Company had been in straits more than once in half a year. The recent failure of the Directors to declare a dividend on Interborough Rapid Transit Company stock aroused interest in the Interborough Consolidated, the holding company which has interest to pay on April 1 on Interborough-Metropolitan bonds. The holding company has depended almost entirely

Ex-Emperor Charles Is to Live in Switzerland

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, March 20. — Emperor Charles, it is reported, will soon leave for Switzerland to live, complying with a wish expressed by the Austrian Government. The Emperor has been urged formally to abdicate his throne, but so far has not done so, though his declaration to submit the decision to the National Assembly is held by the foreign office as equivalent to abdication.

The ex-Emperor, it is said, will be accompanied by British officers as an escort. Three of his children are already in Switzerland.

The ex-Emperor's aide de camp, Captain Schonta, who is at Eckartsau Castle, declares the news of the Emperor's departure is unknown there. The report is credited, however.

GENEVA, March 20, (Associated Press.)—The Swiss Government has received a formal demand from ex-Emperor Charles of Austria requesting permission for him to live in Switzerland. As the Allies, through Arthur J. Balfour, the British Foreign Secretary, when sounded on the subject recently, made no objection to such residence, the request of Charles probably will be granted.

The matter is now in the hands of the Political Department, the request having been favorably considered by the Federal Council.

Reports from Neuchatel, twenty-five miles west of Berne, say that ex-Empress Zita, wife of Charles, has arrived there incognito, and is living in a private house.

INDICT DR. WILKINS ON MURDER CHARGE

Is Locked in Cell at Mineola and Will Plead Today.

Acting on evidence presented by District Attorney Charles R. Weeks, the Grand Jury of Nassau County, sitting at Mineola, L. I., late yesterday afternoon filed with the Supreme Court an indictment charging Dr. Walter Keene Wilkins with the murder of his wife. Twenty minutes before the Grand Jury had announced the result of its deliberations, the elderly physician had entered a cell in the county jail adjoining the courthouse, having been committed on a warrant charging him with the commission of the crime. He will be arraigned today before Supreme Court Justice Albert H. F. Seeger for formal pleading to the indictment, which alleges that he is guilty of murder in the first degree.

In commenting on the outcome of his investigations, District Attorney Weeks said that he was prepared to bring Dr. Wilkins to trial at the May term of the Supreme Court. He also made public the fact that ex-District Attorney Charles N. Wysong of Nassau County had been retained by Dr. Wilkins as special counsel for the defense.

The indictment of the physician followed an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Julia Wilkins, his wife, who was murdered on the night of February 27, just outside the door of the Wilkins Summer home at Long Beach, L. I. Although Dr. Wilkins reported to the police that his wife had been killed and he had been beaten into unconsciousness by thieves whom they had discovered robbing their house, the subsequent conduct of the physician, coupled with the discoveries made by detectives assigned to the case, caused the District Attorney to discredit his story. The William J. Burns Detective Agency was celled into the case to aid the county officials. Additional evidence uncovered by the authorities which implicated Dr. Wilkins caused District Attorney Weeks to decide on Tuesday night to lay his case before the Grand Jury for their action. The taking of testimony occupied nearly two days.

Arraigned in Justice's Court

Dr. Wilkins, whose whereabouts was unknown to the authorities from 11 o'clock on Sunday morning until 8 o'clock on Wednesday night, when he was arrested in the Pennsylvania Station on a warrant, was arraigned at noon yesterday before Justice of the Peace Cassius Coleman at Long Beach, and held without bail. From Long Beach he was taken to Mineola and questioned by the county officials before being placed in a cell.

While waiting yesterday morning for the lineup at Police Headquarters in this city, where he spent the night, Dr. Wilkins talked about his flight and the charges pending against him, according to Deputy Sheriff Carman Plant and Detective Allen O. Myer, who took him to Long Island. He protested his innocence and said that his character had never been impeached "until this devilish charge came up." The reason he had fled from the jurisdiction of this State, notwithstanding his promise to remain in New York, he said was because he felt that everybody was against him. In telling of his flight and voluntary return Dr. Wilkins said:

"After I had made an engagement by telephone with Louis G. Friess, my attorney, I decided to go to Washington to see my stepdaughter. On the train I

PLAN TO RUN DOWN THE BOLSHEVIKI IN THIS STATE

State Senators Unanimous for Resolution to Investigate Their Propaganda.

ASSEMBLY SOON TO ACT

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 20.—Acting on secret information received from official sources which indicate that Bolshevism with heavy financial backing is making rapid headway in New York and soon may become a menace to organized government in the State and nation, J. Henry Walters, President pro tem. of the Senate, introduced today a concurrent resolution providing for a legislative investigation to trace the dangerous movement to its source and devise legislation to curb its seditious activities.

The resolution was adopted as offered from the floor unanimously, practically without debate, and without resort to the usual practice of sending it to the Finance Committee, although it carried a $50,000 appropriation. John J. Boylan, acting minority leader, said the State should devote all its resources if necessary to pulling the props from under the revolutionary movement.

The resolution will come up for final action in the Assembly on Monday night if the attendance is such as to justify bringing up a measure of such importance. There is no doubt as to what the lower house will do, for Speaker Sweet is committed to the resolution; but in all probability the appropriation will be reduced to $30,000 so as not to make too heavy inroads on the rather slim contingent fund of the Legislature.

While it is stated in the resolution that disclosures made before the sub-committee of the Judiciary Committee of the United States Senate at its recent investigation into Bolshevist activities are in part responsible for the proposal to investigate and if possible lay bare the origin of Bolshevist propaganda in this country, it became obvious from what Sentor Walters said in an interview tonight that the Legislature was spurred to its prompt and decisive action by reports more recent, more startling, and more immediately concerned with this State.

Among other things, Senator Walters, without disclosing the sources of his information, said that the authorities recently had intercepted in transmission a foreign draft for almost $500,000 sent from Europe as a contribution to the Bolshevist movement in the City of New York.

> Whereas, it is a matter of public knowledge that there is a large number of persons within the State of New York engaged in circulating propaganda calculated to set in motion forces to overthrow the Government of this State and of the United States; and
> Whereas, sufficient facts were adduced by the sub-committee of the Senate of the United States investigating this subject during the last session of Congress to indicate the necessity of further inquiry and action; and
> Whereas, it is the duty of the Legislature of the State of New York to learn the whole truth regarding these seditious activities and to pass, when such truth is ascertained, such legislation as may be necessary to protect the Government of the State and to insure the maintainance of the rights of its citizens.
>
> Now, therefore, be it resolved, (if the Assembly concurs,) That a joint committee of the Senate and Assembly be and is hereby created, to consist of four members of the Senate, to be appointed by the temporary President of the Senate, and five members of the Assembly, to be appointed by the Speaker of the Assembly, of which joint committee the temporary President of the Senate and the Speaker of the Assembly shall be members ex officio, to investigate the scope, tendencies and ramifications of such se-

Luxemburg Premier Wires of Vote for Independence

By Cable to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LUXEMBURG, March 20.—Following a discussion and vote on a referendum to the whole people about the form of government for Luxemburg, the Parliament, sitting on March 19, adopted unanimously the following motion in the Chamber affirming the unshakable will of the Luxemburg people to maintain its independence and autonomy:

"The Chamber, confident about the treaties concerning our country and the generous principles proclaimed by our deliverers guaranteeing free disposal of themselves to the nations, expresses the will of the Luxemburg people to maintain its independence and autonomy and passes on to the order of the day."

EMILE REUTER,
Prime Minister.

LONDON, March 20.—The Luxemburg Chamber of Deputies passed a bill on March 18, by a vote of 30 to 20, calling for a plebiscite to decide whether the present dynasty will be maintained, a new dynasty created, or a republic established, according to dispatches received here.

SHIP FLYING BOAT TO CROSS OCEAN

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 19.—The flying boat Porte, which is named after Lieut. Col. John C. Porte, who designed it, will be shipped on a vessel across the Atlantic tomorrow for the purpose of making from Newfoundland what may be practically described as the official attempt to fly over the Atlantic.

The Porte machine comes from the Government workshop, and will carry the hopes and blessings of the Air Ministry.

LONDON, March 20.—Following successful trials of new British dirigibles of the rigid type, the Government, according to The Mail, has ordered the building of two enormous airships.

Each will be 800 feet in length, and have a capacity of 3,000,000 cubic feet. They will be driven by six engines, which will generate 1,800 horsepower, and will have a lifting power, it is said, of 80 tons, compared with 29 tons, the largest load carried by any known to be in existence.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 20.—A party of airmen and meteorological experts from England have arrived here to take observations on air conditions in connection with plans for transatlantic flights. They expect to remain several months, making a study of wind currents and meteorological conditions generally through the Spring and Summer. Members of the party have been assigned to visit various parts of the island to fix on the most suitable point for observations.

The announcement from England that Harry S. Hawker had already shipped a machine to Newfoundland with a view to attempting a flight across the ocean soon has aroused great interest here. Dominion officials have no information regarding the plan.

It now seems that the special cable refers to another machine than that in which Hakwer is to attempt to fly across the Atlantic, shipment of which was announced in a special cable to THE TIMES from London Tuesday, and that the British Government will make a double attempt to win the "blue ribbon of the air."

The dispatch of Tuesday said that the machine was a Sopwith two-seater with a twelve-cylinder, 375 horse power Rolls-Royce Eagle engine that it was built in two months, and was then on the way to Newfoundland, with Hawker designated as pilot and Lieut. Commander Mackenzie Grieve, R. N., as navigator.

Three days before a special cable to THE TIMES announced that the R-34,

Bolsheviki Put to Death Mme. Jakovleva Who Had Been in Charge of Executions

COPENHAGEN, March 20.—A Bolshevist newspaper of Petrograd publishes a long list of persons who have been executed in connection with the counter-revolution. Among the names on the list is that of Mme. Sternberg-Jakoleva, President of the committee dealing with executions, who herself had been held responsible for thousands of executions.

No reason is assigned for her execution.

Last Autumn a woman named Mme. Jakovleva was placed at the head of the Commission for Suppression of Counter-Revolutions, with its headquarters at Petrograd. Possibly she may be the "Mme. Sternberg-Jakoleva" who has just been executed.

Soon after her appointment the Soviet press declared that Mme. Jakovleva was too fainthearted and did not act as did the women prison officials, who have been accused by foreign observers of being more cruel than the men.

In speaking about the work of Mme. Jakovleva an Associated Press dispatch, dated Stockholm, Oct. 23, says:

"It is greatly to her credit that the terror has abated somewhat under her administration. She apparently hesitates to shoot and imprison with the same indifference that characterized the régimes of Moses Uritzky and William Shatoff, an American-trained anarchist, who held the post for a short time after Uritzky was assassinated late in August."

COAL COMMISSION FOR CONCESSIONS TO BRITISH MINERS

SUGGESTS NATIONALIZATION

ACCEPTED BY GOVERNMENT

Bonar Law Says It Will Fight a Strike Against the Award.

LONDON, March 20.—The interim report of the Coal Commission, of which Justice Sir John Sankey is Chairman, issued tonight, recommends seven hours of work underground, instead of eight, from July 16, and six hours from July 13, 1921, subject to the economic position of the industry.

The report recommends an increase in wages of 2 shillings per shift for colliery workers now under sliding scales, and an advance of 1 shilling for workers under 16 years.

In the interest of the country the colliery workers, it is further recommended, shall have an effective voice in the direction of the mines.

The present system of ownership and system of working is condemned, and it is declared that a substitute must be found either in nationalization or unification by national purchase or joint control.

The Sankey report points out that the recommendations mean the distribution annually of £30,000,000 additional in wages, and that it should be considered whether a penny per ton should be collected at once on coal brought to the surface to improve the housing in the colliery districts. This would be equal to £1,000,000 yearly.

Sir John's report is also signed by Arthur J. Balfour, who was Master Cutler of Sheffield in 1911-12, and has been connected with various advisory commissions; Sir Arthur Duckham, Director General of Aircraft Production, and Sir Thomas Royden, member of the Shipping Control Committee.

Two Minority Reports.

Another report, by the mine owners on the commission, recommends an increase of eighteen pence a day in wages and a reduction of working hours to seven.

A third report, by the miners' representatives, signed by Robert Smillie, the miners' leader; Frank Hedges, Sir Leo Chiozza Money, Sidney Webb and others, recommends acceptance in full of the miners' demands, including nationalization.

The mine owners' report states that the miners received wage increases of 106 per cent. during the war, while the cost of living rose 115 per cent. The majority of the miners received free coal and houses. The miners' demand is for a 30 per cent. increase on the war wages.

The workers' report largely deals with social conditions. It says that one-tenth of all the nation's children are born and raised in mining villages, a large proportion in Scotland living under the soul-destroying conditions of single-room houses. A majority have no more than two rooms. There are between 160,000 and 176,000 casualties yearly, of which from 1,500 to 1,700 are fatal.

Andrew Bonar Law, the Government spokesman, in a statement in the House of Commons this evening, said that the Government accepted the report of the Commission, including its undertaking to report on the question of nationalization by May 20 and to issue interim reports from time to time on the problem of improvements in the coal industry.

Proposals of this nature would be put into immediate operation, Mr. Bonar Law declared. This involved the continuance of coal control for two years.

With reference to the Sankey report, which he explained was signed by three representatives of the employers not directly concerned in the coal industry and granted the miners two-thirds of their demands in wages, Mr. Bonar Law said that the signers of the report recommended a further reduction in hours in 1921, because they assumed that by then the output of 1913, namely, 287,000,000 tons, would be reached. The estimated cost of what was recommended was for the current year £43,000,000.

It was proposed that the profits of the coal masters should be limited to 14d per ton. Taking all things into consideration, the estimated cost to the taxpayers would be nearly £30,000,000.

Mr. Bonar Law also announced that the employers had made what he himself and the Labor Minister considered reasonable proposals to the transport workers, and he had reason to believe that these would prove acceptable to the men.

The negotiations with the railroad men had not been concluded. A detailed statement of the men's demands and the sum involved, together with details of the Government's offer, would be published.

Meanwhile, said the speaker, the Government had definitely proposed that wages, including the war bonus, should be retained at the present level until the end of the current year. The men had, in addition to that, however, pressed further demands involving an estimated additional expenditure of more than £10,000,000, which, in the present posi-

WILSON AND PREMIERS SEEK AGREEMENT OVER REPARATIONS AND FRENCH FRONTIER; THESE PROBLEMS OVERSHADOW LEAGUE

Swiss Offer Amendment to Guard Monroe Doctrine; Other Changes in Covenant Urged by Neutrals

PARIS, March 20.—Neutral countries of Europe, Asia, and America had an opportunity today to express their views and propose amendments to the League of Nations plan, meeting in response to the invitation of the Supreme Council.

The meeting was held at the Hotel de Crillon, the American headquarters, in the same room where the covenant was framed.

Lord Robert Cecil of Great Britain was Chairman and Premier Venizelos of Greece, Dr. M. R. Vesnitch of Serbia, Paul Hymans of Belgium, Colonel E. M. House of the United States, and Leon Bourgeois of France sat as members of the sub-commission.

The meeting proved an impressive occasion. Thirteen neutral powers were represented by Ambassadors, Ministers and delegates, with retinues of military and civilian attachés. The nations directly represented were Norway, Persia, Salvador, Switzerland, Argentina, Spain, Holland, Denmark, and Sweden.

At the close of the session it was announced that no serious differences or disagreements had developed and that the discussion was proceeding satisfactorily.

This official bulletin was issued:

> Representatives of neutral States were received informally this afternoon by a small committee of the League of Nations Commission.
> A draft of the covenant, as read at the plenary session held Feb. 14, was the basis of discussion and delegates from neutral countries proposed amendments after the first fifteen articles had been read.

Switzerland offered the largest number of amendments, being largely changes in phraseology. The Spanish delegate, Manuel G. Hontorio, personal friend of King Alfonso, also took an active part in the discussion. The Argentine Minister reserved action until instructions were received from his Government.

A Swiss amendment concerning the Monroe Doctrine was offered in writing and was placed at the foot of the program for discussion tomorrow. It was favorably regarded in American quarters as expressing adherence to the doctrine in such form as might prove acceptable and at the same time safeguard national sovereignty.

Other amendments suggested urged an increase in the number of small nations admitted to the executive control of the League, the reduction of armaments, and the control of munition manufacturers.

JAPAN WILL SEEK EQUALITY CLAUSE

BRITISH OPPOSE THE PLAN

PARIS, March 19, (Associated Press.)—A Japanese amendment to the covenant of the League of Nations providing that the contracting parties shall agree to grant "equal and just treatment" to all aliens within their borders who are nationals of States members of the League, will be submitted to the Supreme Council, it is learned by Reuter from Japanese sources.

The standpoint of the Japanese is that all citizens of nations deemed sufficiently advanced to become members of the League, should have equal rights when traveling or living in foreign countries, it is said.

While the Japanese delegates do not accept the view that treatment of foreigners and discriminating immigration laws are purely matters of domestic policy, they say they are content to ask from the League only a recognition of the claim of their people now loving in foreign countries to equal rights with other aliens.

The Dominion delegates here heartily concur in the view of the British delegation that the question of equality of treatment of all nationalities throughout the world is not a matter for the League of Nations. A prominent Australian expressed the opinion that the Commonwealth was not prejudiced against the Japanese, but had a great admiration for them. Nevertheless, he said, Australians believed that it would be better for the future world if each race should develop along its own distinctive lines.

The chief consideration, the Australian continued, was the industrial one. Australia aimed at building up in the most rapid manner an all-British population of over fifteen millions, and her chief attraction was her high wages and pleasant industrial conditions. The Asiatic worker, as known in Australia, however, was a cheap worker, and, therefore, the Australian continued, if the doors were opened to Asiatic immigration they would have to be closed to Europeans.

A Canadian delegate held that the question of immigration must be settled individually by each country. Canada, he said, has had no complaint regarding the Japanese in Canada. Their immigration was limited, he pointed out, and only a few hundred were admitted yearly.

SPARTACIDES PUT OFF STRIKE.

LONDON, March 20.—A New York dispatch, published in both The Times and The Daily Mail, states that an anti-British twist is being given by the Republicans to the League of Nations controversy. Headlines stating that the League makes "the United States a vassal of Great Britain" and "the League gives England world hegemony" are cited in proof of this.

It is not stated from what papers these captions are taken, but the correspondent later in his dispatch says that Colonel Harvey's Indianapolis speech and other denunciations of the League on the ground that it makes America a guarantor of the British Empire receive the widest publicity by the Hearst papers and The New York Sun.

The Times devotes a column article to deprecating that the bitterness of the party controversy in America should react on Great Britain and to stating the reasons for the British support of President Wilson.

The Star holds that the headlines cited are "paraphased from Harvey and not newspaper opinions," and says that Premier Lloyd George, Lord Robert Cecil and General Smuts merely played the parts of mediators between the Old World and the New in reconciling French and American views as to ending the war.

The arrival of the Republicans' courier in this country is awaited with considerable interest in newspaper circles here. In conversation with various editors the suggestion that the newspapers would boycott the service from policy was scouted, and it was pointed out that today, for instance, the Lodge-Lowell debate was reported at length in several papers.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent has not yet had opportunity to ascertain whether the British censorship would intervene. A definite position in the matter could hardly be taken up until further knowledge was obtained of the methods whereby the Republican Senators proposed to extend their domestic controversy to this country.

The governing rule of the British censorship for some time has been that no censorship existed over foreign telegrams or discussion of foreign affairs, although two London papers discovered yesterday that exceptions had been made to this rule.

CUTTING DOWN CLAIMS

Commission on Reparation Gets Bill Against Germany to $40,000,000,000.

PARIS, March 20.—The impression that peace with Germany is being delayed by the League of Nations is entirely unfounded.

While President Wilson, Lloyd George, and the other Premiers are working on the League and Lord Robert Cecil, M. Bourgeois, and Colonel House are holding night sessions for a similar purpose, entirely different matters are now delaying the peace conclusions.

If such problems as the left bank of the Rhine, reparations, economic agreements, and territorial settlements in Southern Europe, Syria, and Morocco could be disposed of, there would be no postponement because of the League of Nations.

All the causes of delay are connected with the immediate pressing difficulties, whereas the League deals with future security.

Smoothing Out Differences.

PARIS, March 20, (Associated Press.)—President Wilson, M. Clemenceau, the French Premier, and David Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister, are holding a series of meetings for the adjustment of differences between them.

They conferred today at the residence of Mr. Lloyd George, the session lasting from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until late in the evening.

The differences relate to some of the larger questions pending now—reparations for war losses and the Franco-German frontier. These questions have assumed paramount importance for the moment, taking a place even ahead of the League of Nations, for while the work of the commission revising the covenant is proceeding rapidly, much difficulty is being met in reaching an accord on reparations and frontiers.

The chief issue of the question of reparations is not what Germany should pay, but what she can pay. The commissions which have studied the subject have gradually reduced the claims to a total of about $40,000,000,000.

How far President Wilson is adhering to the ideas of the American members of the commission in regard to the questions at issue is not known, but it is thought probable that they are serving as a guide for him.

Wide Variations on Reparations.

One proposal was to spread the payment over forty years. On this basis the principal, with interest, would amount to $80,000,000,000 at the end of the period.

Against this proposal the commission has estimated all the available wealth and resources of Germany at home and abroad.

The American view as to these estimates is that $12,000,000,000 is the utmost that can be expected. This $12,000,000,000 is made up roughly as follows:

German resources outside of that country, $8,000,000,000, represented in merchant ships, railways, and mines in Alsace-Lorraine, coal and iron deposits in the Sarre Valley, foreign securities and Government property in former German colonies. Seven billions of this property, the commission estimates, belongs to private citizens and the remainder is owned by the Government.

Of private resources, Germany has property valued at $1,000,000,000 in South America, $750,000,000 in the United States, and $3,000,000,000 in other countries. All this outside property is regarded by the commission as subject to confiscation by the allied and associated powers.

Should this view prevail, it would yield $8,000,000,000 for the immediate liquidation of war losses. This would leave $4,000,000,000 to be paid, if the American estimate of the total to be claimed is adopted.

The American view as to the means to provide for this balance is that the chief reliance will have to be placed in Germany's balance of trade. This in turn has opened another large and subsidiary question, as to how far German industry should be allowed to compete with the rest of the world, particularly with nearby countries like France.

The French delegates hold that German industry should be curbed by checking exports and imports. The American and British views tend toward permitting Germany to resume industrial activity in order to pay the balance of the $4,000,000,000 debt to the Allies and associated powers. The commission's experts estimate the exports and imports would yield a balance of about $300,000,000 annually, or approximately a billion dollars every three years.

On this basis the balance of the debt could be extinguished in twelve years and the entire operation concluded. This view, it is said, is far from meeting with general acceptance. The French, and to some extent the British, are inclined to ask much heavier reparation, spread over a much longer period.

Serious division of opinion also exists over the allotment of damages among the allied powers. The French claim priority for the destruction of invaded regions, while the British insist on an allotment on the basis of war costs. It is generally conceded that France has suffered the largest material loss, while Great Britain has imposed the largest burden of taxation on her people.

The United States has put in a maximum claim for loss of life and property during the war aggregating a little less than $1,000,000,000. The amount for individual loss of life is $25,000 in each case.

President Wilson spent this forenoon at the Paris "White House" in preparation for the conference this afternoon with Premiers Clemenceau and Lloyd George.

Colonel House told British journalists today that he was convinced that the Peace Treaty, including the League of Nations covenant, would be ready for signature on March 29. He added that he would be "disappointed if the Germans were not at Versailles three weeks hence."

Premier Lloyd George told the British newspapermen that he had decided to remain in Paris until the Peace Treaty was signed. He expressed the opinion that one of the reasons for the present labor difficulties in England was the fact that the treaty had not been completed, which led to a feeling of disquiet in that country. He said that he was "unable to imagine that labor leaders would resort to force at the present moment."

When informed of the statement by Colonel House that the Germans were expected at Versailles in three weeks, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"Add another week, and it will be about right."

President Wilson will act as Chairman at the meeting of the League of Nations Commission, which will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, when all the proposed amendments and changes will be considered and the plan will be put into definite form.

This will be the first meeting of the commission since the covenant was adopted the day before Mr. Wilson left for America, and it will consider all proposals submitted. The commission plans to hold continuous sessions until the work of revision is completed.

Thomas W. Gregory, former Attorney General of the United States, is now here and is among those who have sought to draft a proviso relative to the Monroe Doctrine in such form that it will meet the approval of legal experts.

Labor Not Under League Control.

The Commission on International Labor Legislation has decided against the International Labor Bureau, when constituted, invoking the aid of the League of Nations to enforce its decisions.

This decision was mainly due to the difficulties that would be encountered in the United States, where State constitutions would require alterations before they would permit such outside interference.

The Interallied Aerial Commission has a sub-commission at work, elaborating the proposed international air code. It is hoped that its labors will be completed within a week and the results presented to the Peace Conference.

From the progress made by the subcommission it appears that the proposal is to subject traffic by the air routes to virtually the same regulations as that by ground routes. It is planned to protect the customs regulations of the various countries by establishing landing grounds at the frontiers and making it obligatory for pilots to land before passing from one country to another in order that the customs formalities may be complied with at such landing points.

IRISH INDEPENDENCE UNDER AMERICAN AEGIS?

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—Irish independence under a mandate to America has been mentioned in British councils, and at least one English statesman is a serious advocate of that settlement of what has been heretofore an insoluble problem. There no longer exists the old fear of German plotting in Ireland, and in any event American supervision would safeguard that point.

While this suggestion is novel and in a sense startling, it illustrates the prevailing breadth of discussion in remaking the world map. The British are especially open-minded in this regard, many English statesmen maintaining that the British Empire is a state of mind rather than an aggregation of territory. Their dominions and dependencies are but loosely bound together, and the real cohesive power is tradition, language, and sea supremacy.

Many British tell me they would be glad to have all countries in Asia Minor under an American mandate, because that would mean efficient and orderly government.

The question regarding Ireland seems chimerical, but if put forward by some one in authority might have a sobering effect on American light-heartedness on this subject.

ROMANONES FAVORS LEAGUE.

Says Spain Is Willing to Make Sacrifices to Assure Its Success.

MADRID, March 19.—Premier Romanones told The Associated Press today that he was a partisan of the League of Nations in the "same sense and scope as President Wilson."

"Spain is ready to collaborate with other nations to her utmost ability to establish the League and is willing to make whatever sacrifices are within her power to assure its success," he added.

LETTS CAPTURE MITAU

LONDON, March 20.—Nearly all of the Ukraine is now in the hands of the Bolsheviki, according to advices reaching London today. In heavy fighting at Nikolaiev, northeast of Odessa, the Bolsheviki lost between 5,000 and 8,000 men, but forced the French garrison, after fierce fighting, to withdraw to Odessa by sea.

Further east, the advices add, the Bolsheviki have reached the Isthmus of Perekop, leading to the Crimea.

COPENHAGEN, March 20.—The important railroad junction town of Mitau, southwest of Riga, has been captured by Lettish troops, a Lettish official statement issued on Wednesday announces. The Bolsheviki, the statement adds, are retiring along the whole front.

Bolshevist troops, under pressure of Polish forces, have been compelled to retire and evacuate Pinsk, 100 miles east of Brest-Litovsk, according to a dispatch from Warsaw.

HELSINGFORS, March 20.—The Bolshevist forces have been compelled to abandon Dvinsk, (Dunaburg,) which lies 110 miles southeast of Riga.

Greeks Victors Against Odds.

SALONIKI, March 18.—The Greek victory at Kherson, northwest of Odessa, was won over a Bolshevist force of four times the strength of the Greek division engaged, according to an official statement issued at Greek Army Headquarters here. The statement says that the Bolshevist armies have been reorganized and are under the command of German officers, a large number of whom participated in the battle. The text of the statement reads:

The commandant of the Second Division of Greek troops in Russia reports a brilliant victory at Kherson over forces of Bolsheviki four times the number of the Greek troops engaged. He says that the Greek arms were covered with new laurels.

According to official indications the Bolshevist forces have been completely reorganized as to rifles, artillery, and machine guns, and are commanded by German officers, of whom a large number took part in the fighting.

The Greek troops realized an advance to the depth of a little more than twelve miles, capturing numerous prisoners and considerable booty. In spite of reinforcements, the Bolshevist troops have not been able to reconstitute their line.

UKRAINE DIRECTORATE APPEALS TO ALLIES

Copyright by The Chicago Tribune Company.

BUCHAREST, March 17, (via Courier to Paris, March 20.)—In what form and to what extent the Allies will decide to intervene against the Red danger in the Ukraine is the burning question at Bucharest, where military circles cherish no illusions as to the determination of the Bolshevist leaders to hack their way through to the Black Sea ports and Hungary. With the approach of Spring this anxiety is increased. It is clear that Rumania will have to bear the brunt of the coming offensive. The military moves which may turn out to be forerunners of the Bolshevist campaign seem to have begun already at Vinitsa-Koziatyn. There the Reds have made several successful drives, capturing Koziatyn itself, according to the details received here today from Kishinev.

Vinitsa is expected to fall into the hands of the Bolsheviki any day. Only the Ukrainian commander, Petlura, and his staff with their soldiers remain in the town, which up to a few days ago served as a provisional seat of the Ukrainian Directorate after its flight from Kiev. When they learned that the Red Guard was less than thirty versts north of Koziatyn, and that it had found enthusiastic support among the peasant masses, all the Ministers of the Government and their officials left Venitsa in a panic for Kalenietz-Pololsk.

With the Soviet troops marching on Koziatyn and the Ukrainian front crumbling up under the Bolshevist pressure, the Directorate has appealed to the allied military representatives at Odessa. Commissioners have been dispatched with full powers to conclude an agreement at any price, and negotiations still are in progress.

Meanwhile Odessa itself is in danger, and, whatever is the result of the conference, it is significant that the French and Rumanian troops have crossed the Dniester into Ukrainian territory for the purpose of occupying Tiraspol and Razdenia.

Stories emanating from Paris and purporting to be official reports have misled the Rumanians still further by tidings of imaginary victories over the Bolsheviki. One of these tales recently credited General Denikene with delivering a smashing blow on the Don front, naming the towns and villages he was supposed to have taken, and placing the number of prisoners taken at more than 30,000, not to speak of rich booty and guns. In reality, before and since the date of the alleged triumph General Denikine has been retiring before the Red Guard.

Militant Bolshevism constitutes the real living danger of the world, these officers insist, and no amount of fantastic paper victories will allay it.

Estimates of the strength of the Soviet armies in men continue to fluctuate between 250,000 and 1,250,000. Observers in close touch with Bolshevism put the figure at half a million. The total includes numerous loose bandit gangs employed as vanguards. They organize Bolshevist demonstrations in localities which the Reds hope to occupy. Counting these men, it is believed the Soviet Government has at its disposal more than 750,000 soldiers. It is estimated that with the recent Ukrainian deserters, when the latter have completed their training, the Red armies may well reach the million mark. Famine keeps driving the men into the service in increasing numbers.

MORE NEWS OF RUSSIAN RIOT.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Dispatches received at the State Department today from Sweden said Social Revolutionists in Petrograd and Moscow had been active in demonstrations against the Bolsheviki, and that rioting in the streets had occurred. A Bolshevist Commissioner who attempted to address one meeting of Social Revolutionists was mobbed.

According to these advices, all roads leading into Petrograd were closed to passenger traffic on March 15.

PERMITTED TO HEAR KAISER BLOW HIS NOSE

Correspondent Gets Thus Far and No Further—Ex-Ruler Said to Expect Recall.

AMERONGEN, Holland, March 19.—After elaborate advance arrangements by letter, telephone, and personal conferences, I was the guest today of young Count Carlos Bentinck at Amerongen Castle, where the former Kaiser is waiting until the day when some Quai d'Orsay policeman steps up and, laying his hand on the once imperial shoulder, says: "Come on. The Judge wants to see you."

Were it not for the moat all about the building and the picturesque causeway leading from the gates to the front doors of the castle it would be more like a girls' seminary than the home of a feudal lord.

"The Emperor is out for an airing now," said the Count. A stinging cold gale from the West was howling through the birches and firs.

We strolled through the grounds, passing along a path east of the castle, then wandering westward, then northward.

"Those windows on the second floor are the Emperor's," said the Count, "He retires to his suite in the afternoon."

"But where is he now?" I asked.

We had reached the east and west road running in front of the castle grounds, and at the question the Count paused, raising hand warningly. From behind a brick wall near a row of trees came the sound of wood sawing only a few feet distant.

"That is the Emperor sawing," said the Count.

I said I would like to meet the one-time Kaiser and ask a few questions, as the folks in America have some natural curiosity about his views of certain events since March 21 a year ago.

The Count looked as if I had scoffed at Omnipotence. His explanations why this was perfectly impossible ran on until the sawing paused, and this time my hand was raised for silence.

From over the garden wall came a staccato note, such as that made by a Christmas tree horn used by conductors on the Dutch railways when they want the engineer to proceed. It was repeated, and then I realized the astonishing truth.

The All Highest, not once, but twice, had blown his nose. He was human, after all, and in enthusiastic fellow recognition the Count blew a blast also. I would have vaulted the wall and unloaded a few hearty war questions on the ex-Kaiser right there had I not been deterred by the click of policemen's heels on the paths, and by the knowledge we were carefully observed by hidden persons.

I had a fleeting glimpse of the former Kaiser from a distance later. His buffers nowadays are fending off the world from the All Highest. From the townsfolk is obtained one plausible explanation of why no stranger is permitted to speak to him.

After four months' seclusion here it has become the general story that the ex-Kaiser's isolation is due not so much to what he might say to interviewers as to what interviewers might tell him. It is said that few letters addressed to him reach his hands, and papers are carefully scanned and culled before he reads them.

He knows nothing of the Bolshevist disaster that has overtaken his country, it is said, and there is reason to believe that he still fondly hugs the fancy that his stay in Holland is only temporary and his restoration a foregone conclusion. Surrounded by flatterers, the one-time Kaiser still is under the influence of those who treat him as a partner of the Deity.

He is addressed as his Imperial Majesty, though his retinue has been reduced from fifty-nine to five.

A surprising fact of the former Kaiser's sojourn in Amerongen is that the townspeople take little or no interest in him. They seem to feel he is a "has been."

HOW FOCH ACHIEVED UNITY OF COMMAND

ASKED SUPREME COMMAND

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—When President Poincaré gave General Foch his Marshal's baton last Summer, he said in the course of his presentation speech: "Marshal Foch, you won this baton in the Garden of Doullens."

Doullens is a town not far north of Paris, where no battle was ever fought, and those who heard the speech wondered at the time what the reference meant. But in those days the interest in daily battle communiqués was too keen for long-continued interest in a bit of rhetoric. Only recently have I heard the explanation that Poincaré had in mind that Foch's greatest single act toward winning the war was the bringing about of unity of military command of all the allied armies. This he did in the Garden of Doullens.

It was last March, when the capture of Paris was considered possible, if not probable, by French Headquarters. Generals Castelnau and Pétain declared that to abandon Paris would be fatal, and that the French capital must be saved even at the cost of losing touch with the British armies and leaving them to save the Channel ports as best they could, alone and without French co-operation. Foch disagreed. He said the French and British armies must keep in touch at any cost, and that there must be one supreme command.

This was the vital question. Clemenceau, Foch, Poincaré, Pétain, Leygues, and Loucheur went to Doullens to thrash it out on March 25. They expected the arrival of Lloyd George and Haig the next day. Foch and Clemenceau spent the greater part of the day walking and talking in the garden. Foch urged upon the Premier the necessity of unity of command and of keeping the armies together even at the risk of increasing peril to Paris.

In the end Clemenceau was not thoroughly convinced. He spent most of the night wrestling with the matter alone. In the morning he told Foch that he was right, and added:

"Now, you must convince Poincaré and all the others."

By the "others" he mean the British, who had arrived. The group resumed its conversation in the garden, but soon adjourned to a room in the Town Hall of Doullens. Foch once more went into his argument for unity, but—as the man who told me the story put it—"he was not in good form."

Clemenceau, thoroughly convinced himself, took charge of Foch's argument for him. When the Premier had finished he turned to Haig, asking if he consented. Haig did not utter a word, but bowed his head in acquiescence. Then Lloyd George said: "In the name of His Majesty's Government, I accept this plan."

Whereupon Clemenceau placed his arms about the British Premier's shoulders to express his feeling, and unity of command was an accomplished fact.

JAPANESE RADICALS CRITICISE GEN. GRAVES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Definite information has reached Washington that the radical press in Japan has been going far afield in criticism of the United States Government in connection with its attitude toward Siberian problems, and that there has been a growing feeling against this country among certain elements in Japan, Manchuria, and Siberia. So far there has been no official feeling of opposition displayed, but the situation in that section of the Far East is being very carefully watched, and very complete reports are being received through various authoritative channels. While there is ground for the statement that the whole situation is very well known to officials here, it is impossible to obtain from them any statement on the situation.

The feeling that has been developed in the Far East is not confined to expressions in the radical press and by members of the Japanese war party, but has been reflected also in statements made by certain allied nationals and by some of the Russian factions in Siberia. Part of the feeling grows out of the fact that the American Government has refused to permit General Graves, commanding the American expeditionary force in Siberia, to take sides in any of the internal political moves in Siberia, and because this Government would not allow its forces to be used in the movement proposed by some for putting down Semenoff and other factional leaders, or to be used in suppressing any of the coups d'état that have taken place at Vladivostok.

Some of the feeling of opposition to the United States developed at the beginning as a result of differences of opinion among certain Japanese leaders over the understanding reached between this country and Japan by which each nation was to place an equal number of men, less than 10,000 each, in Siberia. The Japanese General Staff wanted to send more men into Siberia than the diplomatic officers of this Government wished to send there, after the matter had been considered in conferences between representatives of this country and Japan. The Japanese General Staff won to the point of putting something like 62,000 men into Siberia, but this number has been reduced to about 20,000 men, which is nearly three times as many men as the United States has sent there.

The campaign conducted against the United States by the vernacular radical press in the Japanese sphere in the Orient has been brought to more of a head recently by a misfortune sustained by one of the Japanese military forces which was cut up by the Bolsheviki. Japanese papers and leaders who are anxious to establish what was today described as a sort of "Japanese Monroe Doctrine" over Siberia assert that the United States is laying plans to seize Siberian trade from the Japanese, and those in Japan who have favored an aggressive foreign policy have been trying to make the most of this argument.

The whole situation is being watched very closely, but, fortunately, developments have not reached such a point as to demand official action.

CHINA'S CLAIMS PRESENTED.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, March 20.—The Chinese delegates in Paris on March 2 submitted to the Conference China's peace terms to Germany and Austria. They expresssed the hope that all unequal terms and unjust restrictions of China's sovereignty would be removed.

China demands the return of Tsing-Tao, the return of her railway and mining interests, the cancellation of agreements with Germany, the cancellation of the Boxer indemnities, and the return of the observatory instruments stolen in 1900.

tion of the railroads, was a very serious thing.

Mr. Bonar Law said the Government was prepared to adopt the Sankey report in spirit and in letter. The miners' leaders had never had such an opportunity and never would have one again. There had never been such an opportunity for making real progress in connection with the problems of the coal industry, and in rejecting it the miners' leaders would be making the greatest mistake ever made by the leaders of a great industry.

If they were willing to wait, continued the Government spokesman, they could have a report on nationalization and everything else. The matter must, however, be settled by Parliament. If a strike came it would not be an ordinary strike against employers, but against the State, and, in such case, the Government must use the whole of its resources without the slightest hesitation to win victory, and win it quickly.

At this statement a great uproar arose from the labor benches, and cries of "We could talk as big!" "You are threatening!"

There were counter-cheers, and Mr. Bonar Law resumed: "This is not a threat; no Government could do otherwise. In such a struggle there could be but one ending, or there is an end to government in this country."

The railwaymen had a long conference today on the new Government offer, but adjourned until tomorrow without reaching a decision.

The transport workers were also in session, considering the report of the Negotiating Committee, which has been in conference with representatives of the employers and the Board of Trade. It is understood that a satisfactory settlement has been reached, virtually conceding to the dock and riverside workers all their demands.

ENGLISH LAMENT PARTY STRIFE HERE

Great Britain's desire to work with the American people, who were represented by their President, and that the fact of Wilson being the leader of the Democratic Party was a mere accident, for, it goes on, "if he had been a Republican we should have been at exactly the same pains to understand his point of view and work with him."

Hopes We Will Not Withdraw.

In an editorial yesterday morning The Times dwelt on this point of political quarrels in America in relation to the League proposal. It said:

"The powers in conference are concerned with Mr. Wilson as President of the United States and with the American people. We are anxious that the United States should complete the work they have begun in entering this war, and, while we are grateful for their assistance in laying down the principles of settlement, it would be a painful anti-climax if America, after formulating them, should promptly disown all responsibility for their execution.

"We refuse to believe that one party in the United States seriously contemplates so lame a termination of the great part played by America in the war, or to hitch the high hopes for the future that America has encouraged us to form to the fortunes of one political party. It is the American people who will decide this great issue, and our case is so good and their instinct so generous that we are certain we shall not be disappointed. The conference will make every effort to meet the reasoned objections of American critics of the covenant, but that done, we are confident that the American people will rise to the height of their own argument and of their great tradition of freedom."

The Times in the same editorial said that Lloyd George had been well advised to stay for the present in Paris.

"Peace," it said, "is the master key of our domestic troubles, and to let it wait upon their settlement would be to treat the symptoms and leave the malady untouched."

While agreeing that the League of Nations project is an integral part of the peace settlement, and cannot be separated from it, The Times saw no reason why the peace treaty should not be drafted, defining all that Germany must do and must not do, setting up the League of Peace, but leaving it to the League to draft its own constitution at leisure.

"We are not," said The Times, "going to submit our peace to amendment by the Central Powers. They must accept it as it stands, as the judgments of a court which is quite able to enforce them. The relations between the Allies and the Central Powers are not those of equals, but of victors and vanquished, of Judge and convicted criminal, and the sooner Germany understands that fact the better."

Broadly speaking, it may be stated that the British press will exercise great caution lest it be drawn into America's political controversy, and its attitude toward the Senatorial courier will largely depend upon the nature of the service. Meanwhile it cannot be doubted that, while British sympathy with the League of Nations ideal remains what it was in the beginning, there has been of late a considerable accession to the number of those who have doubts as to whether the procedure being followed in Paris in regard to the covenant is best or even logical.

The Morning Post, which has been outspoken on this point, has now been joined by The Daily Express, whose Paris dispatches today began with the sentence, "President Wilson has won a pyrrhic victory and by winning it has destroyed any chance the League of Nations had of becoming an effective instrument for securing the peace of the world."

Says England Imposes No Policy.

LONDON, March 20, (Associated Press.)—In an editorial today on the controversy in the United States The Times says:

"The English, without distinction of party, regard a better understanding with Americans as the crown of victory. It is unfortunate for the ideal that so many of us on both sides of the Atlantic have at heart that party feeling should be running so high just now in America, and that we, who are working with President Wilson in Paris, should furnish the sticks with which the Republicans are belaboring the Democrats.

"We have no wish to take sides in these party controversies, and have been at some pains to avoid even the suspicion of doing so. Our sole wish is to work with the American people in what we believe to be as much their ideals and interests as our own.

"Wishing that, with whom should we work but the President of the United States? That he is also leader of the Democratic Party is a mere accident to our mind, and if the President had been a Republican we should have been at exactly the same pains to understand his point of view and work with him."

The Times points out that there were at the opening of the Conference two general views about the kind of peace that the world ought to have—the French view and the American view, and adds:

"No views of settlement were so clearly identified with this country as these two were with France and America. The chief instrument of the American view was the League of Nations. This ideal is in one form or another almost as old as international law, and nearly every country in the world has at one time or another contributed to it, but its application to the problems of this war came from America in the first instance.

"There is, therefore, no question at the Conference of our imposing a policy of our own. What we have done was to seek to reconcile so far as possible the French and American views. Our policy at Paris has been that of mediator and interpreter, not the result of selfish calculations or masterful diplomacy.

"The truth is that under the constitution of the League each of the great powers makes exactly the same sacrifices of independence and acquires world hegemony in exactly that sense, and does both in the same cause of world liberty and world peace."

The Liverpool Post says:

"Lord Robert Cecil places the Monroe Doctrine in its true light with regard to the League of Nations. He says in effect that so far from the League being the deathblow to the capital article of American political faith, it is the application of that article on a universal scale.

"According to the draft of the covenant, the parties to the League undertake 'to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence' of every member of the League. The most absolute supporter of Monroeism could surely desire no more than that.

"The independence of both Americas is guaranteed by an overwhelming majority of the powers, great and small. The League of Nations will give America her rightful place in the van of the forces of civilization that henceforth are to shape the larger purposes of our race."

PLAN TO RUN DOWN BOLSHEVIKI HERE

ditious activities and report the result of its investigation to the Legislature.

Then follows a clause vesting in the committee the usual broad powers exercised by legislative investigating committees, and another providing the necessary appropriation.

Senator Walters said this evening that the personnel of the proposed committee would be decided upon as soon as the resolution had been adopted by the Assembly and concurred in by the Senate in its amended form. He said that no date had been fixed in the resolution on which the committee must report its findings, because it was realized that the report could not be made at the present session, and that it might prove impracticable to wait until next year's lawmaking body met. Senator Walters said that should the investigation disclose a condition which called for drastic and immediate action, the Governor doubtless would order an extraordinary session of the Legislature to deal with the situation. It is not expected that the investigation will be begun until after the final adjournment of the present session.

"Information which has come to us from sources which I am not at liberty to disclose, but to which we give great weight, indicates the existence in this State of a concerted, well organized movement with vast ramifications and heavy financial support, designed to overthrow the State and National Government," said Senator Walters. "Hundreds of thousands of dollars are received from outside this country to encourage the spread of Bolshevist doctrines and to promote Bolshevist activities among certain classes in this State. You can appreciate the necessity for a thorough investigation when I tell you that only recently foreign drafts—as I understand it, from Russian sources—for close on $500,000 were intercepted while in transmission as a contribution toward the support of Bolshevist activities in New York City.

"With Congress adjourned, it becomes doubly our duty to attempt to trace this evil to its sources, devise legislation to curb its manifestations and to erect safeguards for the protection of our American Government, our American ideals and institutions, as well as for the rights of our American citizens. I trust that we shall not stop at anything or with anybody in our effort to tear Bolshevism up with the roots and hurl it into the sea.

"One alarming feature of the situation is that Bolshevism, as experience shows, has contrived to raise a standard under which Socialists, anarchists, and I. W. Ws., who heretofore have been ready at all times to fly at each other's throats, can rally and be in perfect accord."

It was learned tonight from another source that one phase of the new movement that would come in for special inquiry was the attempt, now said to have been launched by the Neo-Bolsheviki, to disrupt the loyalist labor movement in this country and turn control of it over to the radicals. Labor leaders who have visited the Capitol recently have told the legislative chieftains that they have already seen the manifestations of this and warned them against the consequences involved in the success of any such movement.

BOLSHEVIST AGENT HERE WANTS US TO TRADE

From the office of Santeri Nuorteva, director of the Finnish Information Bureau at 299 Broadway, who, according to testimony in the Senate inquiry into Bolshevism, has represented the Lenine-Trotzky Russian Government in this country, a statement was given out last night that L. C. A. K. Mertens had been appointed agent in the United States of the Russian Soviet Republic and instructed to attempt to open trade relations between Bolshevic Russia and America.

The statement, issued under the name of Mr. Martens himself, said that Soviet Russia is prepared at once to place in banks in Europe and in the United States gold to the amount of $200,000,000 to cover the cost of the initial purchases.

Prefaced to the statement was a summary of the career of Mr. Martens, showing that he was born and educated in Russia and had been here for several years as American representative of the Demidoff Iron and Steel Works of Russia, now "nationalized" by the Soviet Government. Mr. Martens, however, is not listed in the city directories, and several well-known Russians in business here, of whom inquiries were made, said they had never heard of him.

After saying that as a first step toward opening relations he had forwarded his credentials to the State Department with a memorandum on conditions in Russia and an outline of the desire of the Soviet Government to establish trade with the United States, the Martens statement said that the Bolshevist government was prepared to submit propositions which he thought would be acceptable to Americans; that in a short time he would appoint a commercial attaché and open New York offices, and that he was planning to organize and incorporate a "Board of Trade of Soviet Russia."

Regarding "the blockade and the invasion of Russia," as it termed the present hostilities, the statement declared that the Soviet Government was "willing and sincerely anxious" to have the fighting cease and to facilitate the peaceable withdrawal of American troops from Russia. The Government was also "willing to open its dors to citizens of other countries for peaceful pursuit of opportunity," and it invited "any scrutiny and investigaton of its conditions." Reports that the rule of the Soviets is one of violence and murder were characterized as "altogether unwarranted." At any rate allied intervention in Russia "had obviously very much to do with the so-called terror."

The statement said that Russia, through the Soviet Government, was prepared to purchase in the American market railroad supplies, agricultural implements and factory machinery, tools, mining machinery and supplies, electrical supplies, printing machinery, textile manufactures, shoes and clothing, fats and canned meats, rubber goods, automobiles and trucks, chemicals and medical supplies, and was prepared to sell flax, hemp, hides, bristles, furs, lumber, grain, platinum, metals and minerals.

In conclusion the statement said it was "high time for the world outside Russia to dispense with its passionate and partisan dealing with the Russian situation."

Washington Not Impressed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The statement of L. C. A. K. Martens, issued in New York, that he has recently received credentials appointing him representative of "the Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic" in the United States and has forwarded his credentials to the State Department was not regarded tonight in well-informed quarters in Washington as likely to precede any recognition of him by this Government.

Martens is not the only gentleman in this country claiming, on the basis of the presentation of "credentials," that he should be recognized as the representative of an organization not recognized as a Government by the American State Department. There is in Philadelphia a gentleman professing to be "Irish Ambassador" to the United States. Some time ago he presented credentials from a so-called Irish Republic to the State Department. They were pigeonholed, this Government having no purpose to accord recognition to the organization he said he represented.

There is only one Government in Russia that this country has formally recognized, and that is the Provisional Government of which Kerensky was formerly head, and some of the men identified with which brought about the formation of the Omsk All-Russian Government in an effort to set up a legal government of law and order in Russia, in succession to the Russian Provisional Government. The officially accredited and officially recognized Russian diplomatic representative to the United States is Boris Bakhmeteff, who is carried in the latest issue of the diplomatic lists and of the Congressional Directory, the officially prepared Government Blue Book, as "Ambassador extraordinary and envoy plenipotentiary" from Russia to the United States. Ambassador Bakhmeteff is now temporarily absent from Washington in attendance at Paris for the Peace Conference.

There are attached to his Embassy a military attaché, a naval attaché, a commercial attaché, a financial attaché and other attachés all of whose names appear in the official diplomatic lists. The American Government has recognized no other Government in Russia, and in the absence of such recognition could not and would not receive in any formal way either diplomatic or consular or commercial representatives from an unrecognized Government.

WANTS EMPLOYMENT FUND.

Gov. Smith Asks Legislature for $50,000 to Establish Labor Bureaus.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 20.—As an antidote to Bolshevism among the unemployed and to aid soldiers and sailors returning to private life after serving under the colors through the war in finding work, Governor Smith in a special message sent to the Legislature today urged an immediate appropriation of $50,000 for the maintenance of employment bureaus to take the place of those conducted by the Federal Government for that purpose, but cut off through the failure of Congress to pass the Sundry Appropriation and General Deficiency bills. In support of his request Governor Smith embodied in his message a communication received from his Reconstruction Commission and signed by Abram I. Elkus, Chairman of that body, and John G. Agar, a member.

BAKER ASSAILED BY CHAMBERLAIN

Senator Charges Secretary with Inconsistency in Court-Martial Controversy.

ANSELL "ELBOWED ASIDE"

"Trio of Reactionaries" Declared to Influence the War Department's Head.

ARMY TRIALS DENOUNCED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The charge that Secretary Baker "elbowed aside" the one officer who had the courage to condemn the army court-martial system and "took into the bosom" of his confidence "a trio of men who are pronounced reactionaries" in the military establishment, is made in a letter which Senator George E. Chamberlain of Oregon, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, has just sent to the Secretary of War.

Senator Chamberlain's letter was written to Mr. Baker in condemnation of the latter's refusal so far to comply with the request which the Senator made March 16 for the publication of the statement made to Mr. Baker on March 11 in reply to letters written by Mr. Baker and Major Gen. Enoch Crowder, the Judge Advocate General, in justification of the army court-martial system.

Secretary Baker is now in the West with General Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff of the Army, touring army posts. He went West on Sunday, March 9, immediately after making public General Crowder's attack on General Ansell, whose letter to Mr. Baker, joining issue with the statements made in the Baker and Crowder letters, was submitted to Benedict Crowell, the Acting Secretary of War, the following Tuesday.

Mr. Crowell refused to make public the Ansell letter, saying that it was addressed to Mr. Baker. However, in response to a request from Senator Chamberlain, on behalf of the Senate Military Committee, Mr. Crowell turned over a copy of the Ansell letter to that committee in confidence last week.

Baker Denied Need of Haste.

On March 16, after reading the Ansell statement, and concluding that it was a complete reply to the Baker-Crowder correspondence, Senator Chamberlain telegraphed to Mr. Baker at the Presidio, San Francisco, demanding that the Ansell letter be made public. Secretary Baker telegraphed back, saying that he had asked Congress to enact legislation to correct court-martial evils, and would renew this request when the new Congress met, but could not imagine why the Ansell letter could not await his return.

Senator Chamberlain was so much dissatisfied with this response from the Secretary that before leaving Washington last night for Natchez, Miss., his former home, for a two weeks' rest, he sent to Secretary Baker the letter made public tonight. He says that Mr. Baker expressed "warm approval of the existing system," and "seemed blind to any deficiency."

He can hardly believe that the bill which Mr. Baker submitted early last year to Congress on the army court-martial system was any "bona fide effort at reform." In connection with the demotion of General Ansell the Senator's letter flings this accusation at the Secretary of War:

"You elbowed aside the one officer who even then had the courage to condemn the system and the prevision to point out its terrible results—General Ansell—and took into the bosom of your confidence a trio of men who are pronounced reactionaries—General Crowder, the then Acting Chief of Staff, and the Inspector General, the last named of whom is even this day engaged, by your order, in a so-called 'investigation' designed, in my judgment, to destroy the man who exposed the injustice of the present system."

When the draft of legislation was prepared, and while it was pending, there were two acting Chiefs of Staff, Major Gen. John Biddle, who served in place of General Bliss, then in France, until March, 1918, when Major Gen. Peyton C. March returned from France and was made Acting Chief of Staff, serving as such until May, 1918, when he became Chief of Staff. The Inspector General of the Army, to whom Senator Chamberlain alludes as being a "pronounced reactionary" is Major Gen. John L. Chamberlain.

Text of Chamberlain Letter.

The full text of Senator Chamberlain's letter follows:

March 19, 1918.

Hon. Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War.

Sir: On the 16th instant, I addressed you a telegram in which I asked that you give to the public a statement made by Lieut. Col., formerly General, Samuel T. Ansell, in reply to statements made by yourself and by General Crowder, the Judge Advocate General of the Army, in which you both gave warm support and approval to the present court-martial system, and in which General Crowder besides indulged in severe personal criticism and accusation against General Ansell, who in testimony recently given before the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, had condemned the existing system of military justice and the administration under it.

I asked you to make the statement public, primarily because it was a clarifying contribution to the subject now agitating the people, to which the people are entitled, and, secondarily, because it was only fair and just to this officer that you should do so. I believed that you would make this statement public, and do so immediately, in order that the people might have the opportunity of considering it as nearly contemporaneously as possible with the opposing views publicly expressed by you and the Judge Advocate General. In that I am disappointed.

"Your telegram received. More than a year ago I asked of the Military Committees of both the Senate and House legislation to correct the evils in the present court-martial system. I shall renew the request when Congress reassembles. There would seem to be, therefore, no controversy on the merits of the subject. Have not yet seen the letter in question and cannot imagine any reason why my consideration of it on my return will not be in time enough.

"NEWTON D. BAKER,
"Secretary of War."

It is painful to me, Mr. Secretary, to find you fencing upon a question which means so much to the tens of thousands of enlisted men who have suffered injustice under the present system, a question which means so much to you, the army, the nation. In the telegram you say that more than a year ago you recognized the evils of the present court-martial system and requested legislation to correct them, and that inasmuch as you intend to renew that request, there can be no controversy on the merits of the subject.

Charges Inconsistency by Baker.

Your present recognition of existing evils of the court-martial system is strangely irreconcilable with your published statement no more remote than March 10. In that statement of warm approval of the existing system you seemed blind to any deficiency. You say therein:

"I have not been made to believe by a refusal of these complaints that justice is not done today under the present law, or has not been done during the war period, and my acquaintance with the course of military justice (gathered as it is from the large number of cases which in the regular routine come to me for final action) convinces me that the conditions implied by these recent complaints do not exist and had not existed."

You further say that you are "absolutely confident that the public apprehensions which have been created are groundless." And then you put the capstone upon your monumental confidence in the system by further saying:

"I wish to convey to you here the assurance of my entire faith that the system of military justice, both in its structure as organized by the statutes of Congress and the President's regulations and in its operation as administered during the war, is essentially sound."

And finally you call upon the Judge Advocate General to make a statement for the purpose of reassuring the people, who "must not be left to believe that their men were subjected to a system that did not fully deserve the terms of law and justice"; and then you conclude, rather lightly, that after all it is but "a simple question of furnishing the facts, for when they are furnished, I am positive that they will contain the most ample reassurances."

On March 10 you were blind to any deficiences in the existing system; as indeed the evidence abundantly shows you have been deaf throughout the war to complaints about the injustice of this system, complaints which should at least have challenged your earnest attention, rather than provoked your undisguised irritation.

Attacks Secretary's Bill.

But, as you say, you did propose certain legislation to the committee which they did not see fit to recommend for enactment, and which, very fortunately, did not become law. I can hardly believe that that bill, prepared by the Judge Advocate General of the Army and submitted by you, was a bona fide effort to reform the existing system, and the slightest consideration of the bill will show that had it been enacted into law, it would have made the system even more reactionary, if possible, than it is now.

I can hardly believe that this was a bona fide effort at reform, because you already had had an opportunity to establish in your department a legitimate and necessary revisory power over, and supervision of, courts-martial procedure. General Ansell was at that time Acting Judge Advocate General of the Army, and his opinions were entitled to be respected as such, and in all other matters they were so respected. In order to keep courts-martial procedure within just and legal limitations, he wrote an office opinion in which he clearly demonstrated that this power of supervision was to be found in existing law, and in that opinion all the officers of the department, among whom were many most distinguished lawyers from civil life, concurred.

And yet, in order that that opinion might be overruled and that you might rely upon the theory that you were entirely without power, you either ordered or permitted General Crowder himself, who was not at that time connected with the office, to return thereto and write for you an overruling opinion of which you approved, and in doing so, voluntarily denied that it was your right and duty under existing law to supervise the system. You approved the opinion of the Judge Advocate General which was to the effect that this supervisory power did not exist and, furthermore, ought not to exist, inasmuch as the law military is the kind of law that should be left to be executed at the will of the camp commander.

If you had really desired to establish a legitimate legal supervision of courts-martial, you could have done so simply by approving the opinion of the acting Judge Advocate General, which was not a personal opinion but was an office opinion which in ordinary course of administration would have been adopted. Advised to do the proper thing by your chief law officer, and having been shown by him the way to do it, you declined to do so upon some slight legal technicality. This is evidence to me that you did not desire to do so.

Ansell "Elbowed Aside."

You supplanted the officer who had seen fit to call your attention at the beginning of the war to the necessity of keeping the strictest supervision over courts-martial procedure by an officer who contended that such supervision was not necessary and that such supervision would derogate from the power of the commanding officer and destroy discipline. You elbowed aside the one officer who even then had the courage to condemn the system and the prevision to point out its terrible results—General Ansell—and took into the bosom of your confidence a trio of men who are pronounced reactionaries—General Crowder, the then Acting Chief of Staff, and the Inspector General—the last named of whom is even this day engaged, by your order, in a so-called "investigation" designed, in my judgment, to destroy the man who exposed the injustice of the present system.

You accepted those views. But, in order that any future responsibility might be shifted from your shoulders to Congress, you presented a bill which, even if you did not, your advisers did, know could not be passed. Your advisers did not wish any modification of the existing system. They and you declined to accept the views of the Acting Judge Advocate General that would have gone far toward alleviating the situation on the ground that those views were not fully justified by the letter of the statute.

You were thus solicitous that your power be found in the letter of the statute. And yet, in the very bill proposed, you asked for the power of suspension of sentences when you were already suspending sentences by administrative order without one word of legal authority therefor.

There is another evidentiary circumstance that indicates the effort was not made in good faith, but was simply designed to allay public apprehension and inquiry by the appearance of doing something. It is shown by the records of your department that the Judge Advocate General of the Army in correspondence with the senior officer of his department in France, shortly thereafter, said, with respect to an Administrative makeshift which he had proposed for adoption, and which you did adopt, that it was necessary to do something to head off the threatened Congressional investigation, to silence criticism, to prevent talk about the establishment of courts of appeal and to make it appear to the soldier that he did get some kind of revision of his proceedings other than the revision at field headquarters.

How can it be said that such an attitude of mind is consistent with an honest desire to alleviate the situation? It is significant also that your interest upon this subject was not such as to produce that active participation of the department which characterizes its efforts when it desires to secure legislation.

Says Proposal Was Reactionary.

The bill to which you refer and the nonenactment of which you plead as shifting the responsibility for the maladministration of military justice from you to Congress, if honestly submitted, is conclusive evidence that you yourself are entirely reactionary, or that you have been imposed upon and deceived by advisers who are. That bill is Senate 3692, and provides, so far as immediately pertinent to this discussion, that Section 1199, Revised Statutes, be amended to read as follows:

"The Judge Advocate General shall receive, revise, and cause to be recorded the proceedings of all courts-martial, courts of inquiry, and military commissions, and report thereon to the President, who shall have power to disapprove, vacate or set aside any finding, in whole or in part, to modify, vacate or set aside any sentence, in whole or in part, and to direct the execution of such part only of any sentence as has not been vacated or set aside."

Do you really know, Mr. Secretary, the purpose and legal effect of that bill? In the first place, it would have to be construed together with that statute which makes the Chief of Staff the trusted military adviser of the President and Secretary of War, whose authority he habitually exercises, on the one hand, and places him in supervision and control of all bureau officers, including the Judge Advocate General of the Army.

On the other hand, the President's power, therefore, as a matter of law, over the control of courts-martial cases would under that bill be habitually exercised by the Chief of Staff, an ultra-military official, without the slightest competency to pass upon those errors of law which prejudice the rights of the accused and thereby render it necessary to modify the judgment, and with a disposition to disregard such rights. And also, the Chief of Staff, and not the President, would be the one to exercise this power in fact.

There were some 350,000 courts-martial from the time we raised the new army until July 1 last. Nobody would expect the President to review such a number or any appreciable part of them. Nobody, indeed, could expect the Chief of Staff himself to do so. The work would have to be intrusted to some minor military minion, inexperienced in law and the administration of justice, and whose training had disqualified him for such functions.

The Judge Advocate General, when he appeared representing you before the House Military Committee, admitted that this would be the course of administration and contended that the Chief of Staff ought to have that power. He said that that was necessary in order to maintain discipline.

Could Reject Acquittals.

But worse than this, that bill would authorize the Chief of Staff to disapprove, vacate, and set aside a finding of "Not guilty" and substitute upon his view of the evidence a finding of his own. Notice, the language is that he shall have the power to disapprove, vacate, or set aside "any finding," and also to modify, vacate, or set aside "any sentence."

This is a power which ought not to be granted to any man, and I feel safe in saying will never be granted by Congress. This alone was sufficient not only to condemn the bill in the mind of Congress but to show the attitude of those who proposed it.

Do you believe, Mr. Secretary, that the President of the United States, the Secretary of War, the Chief of Staff, or any other official should have the power to set aside any acquittal and substitute for it a conviction, or to set aside one sentence and substitute for it a harsher one, or to set aside a finding of guilty of a lesser offense and substitute for it a finding of guilty of a greater one? That is what the bill which you proposed authorizes.

But the bill further provides "that the President may return any record through the reviewing authority to the court for consideration and correction." This power is on a par with and supplemental to the absolute power which I have just referred to. If the Chief of Staff were not satisfied with a finding of not guilty he could return the record to the court-martial with instructions to make a finding of guilty. If not satisfied with a light sentence, he could instruct the court to award a heavier one. If not satisfied with a finding of guilty of a minor offense, he could instruct the court to find the accused guilty of a more serious one.

Do you believe that the President, the Secretary of War, or the Chief of Staff, or any other official should have such power? If you stand for that bill you evidently do.

Wanted Power for President.

The Judge Advocate General, who appeared before the committee in representation of your views, testified:

"I want the President authorized to return the record which we get here, back through the convening authority to the trial court, and ask a reconsideration of their action, so that he may proceed, if he desires, upon the revised finding of the court, and thus make the court participate with him in the final judgment."

When asked the question whether a commanding General could disapprove a finding of not guilty and send it back, he said: "Yes, when, in his opinion, the finding is not sustained by the evidence," and he argued that that power, necessary to the maintenance of discipline, was now possessed by all commanding officers and ought to be possessed by the President and Chief of Staff.

In further argument sustaining that view he said, with respect to cases in which very small sentences had been awarded:

"I do not know anything that could attack discipline more than if the commanding General, who is also the reviewing authority, or the Secretary of War, or the President, who will become the reviewing authority of that class of cases under this legislation, could not invite the attention of the court to the effect of such a sentence upon the discipline of the army generally. I do not think this power would have survived throughout the centuries if it were intrinsically wrong."

Obviously he was unaware that this is one of the few countries in which such a barbaric practice has survived. These views you doubtless approved, inasmuch as in your letter to the committee you invited it to hear the views of the Judge Advocate General in explanation and support of the proposed legislation.

For the moment at least you now conceive that there should be a power of revision. That, to use your language, is "structural," "organic." The lack of a proper revisory power is a lack of legal control at the top.

There are many other deficiencies of the same character. There is an absolute lack of legal control at the bottom and throughout the proceedings.

You have said that the cases that came to you in regular routine convince you that the complaints against the system are groundless. Unfortunately, Mr. Secretary, you are not in touch, and apparently do not desire to get in touch, with the administration of military justice: You must know that under the existing system the Secretary of War sees and takes action only upon that relatively insignificant number of cases which are required under existing law to go to the President for confirmation. He sees none of the others.

Fears Favoritism to Officers.

These few cases consist in the far greater part of a few sentences of dismissal of commissioned officers. These are not the class of cases in which appears the injustice of which I complained. The court-martial system is such, and the regard for rank in the army is such, that a commissioned officer appears before a court-martial to far better advantage than does a private soldier.

You do not see the system in operation. You do not see its tragic results. When you denied the department the revisory power over all court-martial cases you denied yourself the opportunity to keep in touch with the administration of justice throughout the army. Your knowledge is obtained from this insignificant number of cases of commissioned officers and from those persons surrounding you who are interested in supporting the existing revolutionary system.

The existing system does injustice—gross, terrible, spirit-crushing injustice. Evidence of it is on every hand. The records of the Judge Advocate General's Department reek with it, and upon proper occasion I shall show the people that this is true. The organization of the Clemency Board now sitting daily and grinding out thousands of cases is a confession of it. Clemency, however, can never correct the injustice done.

You have, of course, adopted the statement of the Judge Advocate General, which you invited and published. That statement is involved in as inextricable confusion and patent inconsistencies as your own pronunciamentos upon this subject. In one and the same breath it declares the system unusually excellent, and then blames Congress because it has failed to enact the bill which you proposed and has heretofore been referred to, declares that military law can best be administered finally in the field, but at the same time argues that the system would be much improved by the establishment of a departmental appellate power; it contends that courts-martial should be subject, not to legal control, but only to the power of military command, and at the same time objects to assuming responsibility for the outrageously excessive sentences awarded when courts and commanding officers go wrong, without legal restraint.

Courts-martial of "Chivalry."

It admits that our soldiery must be hurriedly drawn from civilian life and from the operations of the more liberal civil code, but assumes that for that very reason the military law ought to be more harshly applied in order to obtain discipline. It argues that courts-martial are not courts of justice, but "courts of chivalry and honor," and concludes that since the soldier must on occasion yield up his life on the battlefield, he should not be heard to complain if it be taken away by these courts of chivalry; it places courts-martial in high esteem, though admitting that they apply not the modern rules of right, but mediaeval principles that govern overlord and armed retainer.

It says that the officers who sit in judgment upon the private soldier cannot be military zealots, because it was only yesterday that they got out of their civilian clothes, but in the next paragraph asserts that they are most competent to award military punishments, because of their military appreciations. It argues that the primary purpose of a court-martial is to maintain discipline, as though discipline in any real sense could be maintained in our army without doing justice.

I beg to assure you that there is controversy on the merits of the subject. There is great difference between you and me. That would be relatively unimportant. But there is great difference between you and Congress, and there is great difference between you and the American people.

I do not believe that a court-martial should be controlled from beginning to end by the fiat of military command. I do not believe that a commanding officer should order the trial of an enlisted man on a charge that is legally insufficient. I do not believe that he should order a court to overrule pleas made in behalf of an accused man which upon established principles of law would bar the trial. I do not believe that the court and the commanding officer can cast established rules of evidence to the winds and insist upon the conviction of a man upon evidence that no court for a moment would entertain.

Quotes Threat to Subordinate.

I do not believe that the court and the commanding officer should be permitted to deprive an accused of the substantial right of counsel and railroad him, unheard and unrepresented, to a conviction. It was only yesterday that I was shown a record in which the counsel for the accused man was intimidated from examining his superior officer as a witness by a threat made in open court by the superior officer that any question asked him reflecting upon his credibility would promptly bring charges against the youthful counsel.

I do not believe that the conduct of a court should be controlled by a commanding officer. I do not believe that a court should be directed or instructed to reverse its finding of innocence or to impose a harsher punishment than that originally awarded.

On the other hand, I believe, and I insist, that courts-martial having in their care and keeping the lives and liberties of every single one of our soldiers shall be courts of justice, acting as Judges, controlled by and responsible to no man, controlled by and responsible to their own oaths, and to the great principles of law which have been established by our civilization to protect an accused wherever he is placed on trial.

Surely you have been misled. Officers of your department who have supported the iniquitous system and who have imposed upon you, or most unfortunately persuaded you, have been busy preparing their defense. You have been presented lengthy reports designed to controvert the speech which I made in the Senate on this subject, which reports I have shown you to be misleading and utterly unreliable. Volumes of statistics are being prepared to show that, after all, the system is not so bad.

Whether you do or not, the American people see and have the evidence; members of Congress have the evidence. You have taken a terrible stand upon a subject which lies close to a thousand American hearthstones. The American people will not be deceived by such self-serving, misleading reports and statistics. Too many American families have made a Pentecostal sacrifice of their sons upon the altar of organized injustice.

TURKS MASSACRE GREEKS.

Great Unrest Reported Over Disposition of Smyrna Region.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, March 20.—From a good source I learn that manoeuvres designed to misrepresent the ethnological situation in the Smyrna region, under foreign instigation, are assuming a scandalous character. It is also announced that some hundreds of Turks held a meeting on Saturday in the theatre at Smyrna to protest energetically against the eventual occupation of the city by Greece.

News from Smyrna reports many murders and robberies by bands of Turks against the Greek element in this region. The situation of the Greeks has become exceedingly critical.

ATHENS, March 20, (Associated Press.)—Information from what is considered a trustworthy source describes the condition of the Greeks in the Smyrna district as extremely critical. Bands of Turkish soldiers and civilians are overrunning the region, murdering and pillaging, the advices state.

At Budja, near Smyrna, last Thursday, according to the advices, a party of Greek peasants returning from the fields was attacked and numbers of them were killed. After the Turks had left the bodies of fifty Greeks, it is alleged, were found decapitated and partially burned.

FRENCH GRAIN CREDIT ENDS.

Higher Exchange Raises the Cost of Argentine Purchases.

BUENOS AIRES, March 20.—The Argentine credits to France under the agreement for the purchase of grain made last year expired on Tuesday, and since that time French exchange has risen from 5 francs 60 centimes for a gold peso to 5 francs 70 centimes.

A new credit convention between the two countries has not yet been ratified.

WILL CONNECT AUSTRALIA

First Words in Talk Over 2,000 Miles Through Air Distinctly Heard.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 20.—Though detailed information regarding wireless telephoning between Ireland and Canada is withheld for the present by the Marconi Company, THE NEW YORK TIMES is informed that the transatlantic wireless telephone promises to be an astonishing success and that the first efforts to talk through the air were much more successful than the first attempts at wireless telegraphing.

The establishment of a regular system of commercial wireless telephony from New York to London is believed to be now merely a question of time, and before long Sydney, Australia, and the furthest parts of the earth will be placed on the aerial exchange.

The Marconi Company promises complete details in a few days. Godfrey Isaacs, managing director of the company, was seen this afternoon by THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent and was asked how long experiments in transatlantic telephoning had been in progress.

"We succeeded at our first attempt," he replied.

"What was the longest distance wireless telephony had accomplished before," was asked.

"Before the war, and before we had to give up experiments in long-distance work, Marconi had, I believe, telephoned from Italy to the north coast of Africa, about 800 miles. The distance we have now covered, from Ireland to Canada, is over 2,000 miles.

THE TIMES correspondent recalled the fact that the first wireless telegraphic signals across the Atlantic were merely faint repetitions of letters, and asked it there was a similar faintness about the spoken words.

"Oh, no," replied Mr. Isaacs, "the words were very distinctly heard." Then he added: "I have no doubt we shall also soon be able to develop a practical, commercial wireless telephone service between London and New York, and you will soon be able to call up Sydney Australia, if you want to. But we don't want to go into full details of how we do it yet. We shall make a complete announcement in a few days.

PHONED BY WIRELESS TO BREST

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—One-way wireless telephone conversations were held between the Naval Radio Station at New Brunswick, N. J., and the American transport George Washington throughout her voyage from New York to Brest.

The messages were sent from the station at New Brunswick, which belonged to the Marconi Company before the war but which was taken over by the Government and has since been under naval operation.

The George Washington received wireless telephone messages and replied to them by wireless telegraph, not having a wireless telephone apparatus for sending wireless telephone messages over long distances. One of the messages sent by wireless telephone to the George Washington was from Secretary Daniels. President Wilson listened to the wireless words of Mr. Daniels but was unable to reply vocally.

The fact that these one-way conversations from New Brunswick to the George Washington, even after the steamer reached Brest, were held was confirmed at the Navy Department today by Commander S. C. Hooper of the radio branch of the Bureau of Steam Engineering and other naval officers.

The apparatus used in sending the messages to the George Washington is the invention of E. F. Alexanderson of the General Electric Company of Schenectady, who had charge of the tests which the navy ordered made at the New Brunswick station during the President's voyage. After the Government took over the Brunswick station it installed the General Electric Company's system, which was used with a device known as the Alexanderson alternator for sending the messages. That they were plainly heard was confirmed in radio messages from the transport.

Special to The New York Times.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., March 20.—The wireless telephone messages between New Brunswick, N. J., and the steamship George Washington at Brest, France, covered a distance of approximately 3,200 miles, the greatest distance yet covered by the wireless telephone by several hundred miles, B. F. W. Alexanderson stated today. He began experimenting for the General Electric Company at New Brunswick about two years ago, but before much progress could be made the Government took over the plant for wireless telegraph communication with France. When the President decided to go abroad the experiments were resumed and the apparatus brought to its present state.

Mr. Alexanderson believes that commercial wireless telephone service will soon be established between all the principal cities of the world. The features of his invention making long-distance telephoning possible are, according to Mr. Alexanderson, his high frequency alternator, known as the Alexanderson alternator, which provides a more efficient way of generating electric waves, and his new magnetic amplifier, which transforms telephone currents to high-power electric waves. He also has a new antenna which is several times more efficient than any previously used.

FRENCH ADVANCE IN BADEN.

Occupy Mannheim and Karlsruhe Because of Outbreaks.

GENEVA, March 20.—French troops have occupied Mannheim and Karlsruhe, on the east bank of the Rhine, on account of Spartacide outbreaks there, the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin says.

The newspaper adds that the French have also occupied Rheinau, five miles south of Mannheim, and Whinhafen.

A Berlin dispatch received on Monday said that reports had reached there that the British and French had advanced their outposts from the limits of their bridgeheads at Cologne and Mayence, respectively. The French were reported to have entered Frankfort.

Mannheim is south of the Mayence bridgehead area, but is directly on the east bank of the Rhine, where it is joined by the Neckar. Karlsruhe is about five miles east of the Rhine. No reports of very recent disorders at Mannheim and Karlsruhe have been received.

There has been no statement from Allied quarters either affirming or denying the report that the British and French had enlarged their bridgehead limits.

GERMANS BREAK OFF PARLEYS OVER POLAND

Refuse to Sign the Terms Previously Agreed On—Berlin Cabinet Is Blamed.

PARIS, March 20.—The German Government representatives have refused to sign the terms with the allied commission in regard to Poland, previously agreed upon, says a Havas dispatch from Posen, and the negotiations have been considered by the Allies as broken off. The correspondent adds that the Germans were quitting Posen immediately.

The interruption of negotiations came at a time when a result seemed about to be reached. It is said that this was the result of the evasive attitude of the German Government. Dispatches state that the German high command appears to be in open conflict with the Berlin Cabinet, and will not undertake to respect an armistice between the Germans and Poles.

In making his report to the Supreme Allied Council yesterday on the Polish question, Judge Cambon, head of the Conference Commission on Polish affairs, set forth the purpose of the commission to create a Polish State which would have a firm foundation for its future welfare and at the same time to respect the principle of nationalities, despite the difficulties resulting from the geographical features of the problem.

Poland, M. Cambon pointed out, was half inclosed by German territory and had an imperative need of an independent outlet to the sea, by a route easy of access, to insure her national autonomy. Therefore, he said, it was necessary to incorporate in the new State some German elements, which, he reminded the council, had been introduced there by Germany herself with deliberateness and in conformity with her colonizing system. In considering objections to the solution proposed, M. Cambon argued that it should be remembered that the country had already been thrice dismembered.

Premier Lloyd George argued that Germany must not receive any pretext for organizing a sort of irredentist movement, especially east of the Vistula, where the Germans were rather numerous.

The plan of the commission, it was pointed out, gave to Poland boundaries that rendered her territory more restricted than it was in 1772. It put in her possession an outlet to the Baltic, which along a considerable distance spanned the Vistula to Danzig, but excludes the Allenstein territory, to determine the position of which a plebiscite is proposed.

Mr. Lloyd George also remarked that by connecting Danzig with Thorn and Warsaw by two independent railroads it would probably be possible to make Poland economically independent.

The commission's report will probably be discussed by the Supreme Council Friday, when the question of sending to Warsaw the Polish Army divisions which had fought on the French front is also expected to come up.

WARSAW, March 18.—Polish newspapers express approval of the decisions reached by the Peace Conference commission on Polish affairs regarding the new boundary between Germany and Poland and the corridor to Danzig. They question the decision concerning a referendum in the Allenstein district, and point out that the Prussian census of 1911 showed a Polish majority there.

The papers say that there is urgent need of solving the problems of Teschen, Lemberg, and Vilna, where the claims of the Poles are in controversy with those of Czechoslovaks, Ukrainians, and Lithuanians, respectively.

BRUSSELS, March 20.—Belgium has recognized the independence of Poland.

THREE SLAIN BY AMERICAN.

German Report Says He Killed German Guard, Comrade, and a Farmer.

AMSTERDAM, March 20, (Associated Press.)—A dispatch from Frankfort-on-Main gives the report that an American soldier on Monday night killed three persons in a small town of Hesse-Nassau. A German frontier guard asked two American soldiers for their passes, which they did not possess, and turned them back.

According to this report one of the Americans drew a revolver and shot the German dead, and then fled. While running, he turned and again fired, accidentally killing his comrade, as well as a German farmer.

An American officer, it is said, is making an investigation.

SHIP FLYING BOAT HERE TO CROSS OCEAN

England's largest airship had made a trial flight. She was 665 feet long and 80 feet in diameter, with a petrol capacity that would enable her to fly to America and return without landing. It was said that Great Britain was basing her hopes of a transatlantic flight not on these lighter-than-air machines only, but that in addition to the Handley-Page products she was relying on a "special" squadron of other "heavies" which were being tuned up by Lieut. Col. J. Porte. These boats, about which little had been told, were called the "Felixstowe Furies," after the resort where they had their headquarters, and it was said that they did such excellent work in the later stages of the war that their commanders were out for greater laurels.

Lieut. Col. Porte would probably have been the first pilot to make a serious attempt to fly across the Atlantic had it not been for the war. He had been designated as principal pilot of the flying boat America, built by Glenn H. Curtiss for Rodman Wanamaker. The America had reached the point of trial flights at Hammondsport when Porte was called home. At that time he had every confidence that the America would make the trip successfully, and he left with the promise that no one else should attempt the trip in her, pending such time as his Government could spare him.

The United States Navy is also preparing for a cross-Atlantic flight, using seaplanes of the N. C. 1 Curtiss type, four of which now are at Far Rockaway. Just when this flight will be attempted, and whether it will be a non-stop or a "two-hop" flight, is still undetermined, so far as the public knows. It has been reported unofficially that the start would be from Hampton Roads and that Lieut. Commander Patrick L. Bellinger, commanding the air station of the Fifth Naval District, would be the pilot.

AIR POST TO BRITAIN COSTS $500 PER LETTER

Captain Fenn, in Charge, Telegraphs The Times He Will Carry 12 Letters at That Rate.

Captain M. Fenn, in charge of a proposed transatlantic flight to be attempted by a Sopwith (British) airplane from Newfoundland to England, telegraphed to THE TIMES from St. John's Newfoundland, that the flight will be attempted about the first week in April by the Sopwith Aviation Company, Ltd., of Kingston-on-Thames, England, and the airplane will carry mail to a limited extent.

"It is thought that certain American gentlemen may wish to have the honor of being the first to send a letter by Transatlantic Air Post," the message reads. "We are willing to carry twelve letters, not exceeding 1 ounce per letter, at the rate of $500 a letter.

"The mail bag will be sealed officially at this end and handed over officially on arrival of the machine in England."

Letters for the air post, the Captain says, must reach St. John's not later than April 5.

MAY ISSUE BONDS TO ASSIST ROADS

EARLY REQUIREMENTS MET

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Among means toward supplying advances which the War Finance Corporation expects to make to relieve the financial situation of the railways, the corporation has under consideration a plan to float a bond issue of about $200,000,000 at 4¾ per cent., limited to twelve or eighteen months. The corporation would put these bonds out within a few weeks, hoping they would be taken up by trust companies and banks rather than by the general public, upon which Treasury officials will concentrate in the Victory Loan campaign. The bonds would be exempt from taxation except estate, inheritance, excess profit, and war profit taxes and surtaxes.

Director General Hines announced after a meeting with railway executives that the requirements of the railroad corporations April 1 would be $70,000,000 and that certificates of indebtedness would be issued to the corporations, upon which they could borrow from the War Finance Corporation. This payment to the railroads would allow them to pay their April dividends.

A statement from the Railroad Administration explains the plans for meeting the April requirements of the railroads as follows:

Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, met today again in conference with railroad executives and at the conclusion of the meeting he stated that the Railroad Administration was in a position to advise definitely its policy with reference to the April 1 requirements of the corporations, for interest, dividends, and other corporate needs.

"The plan announced by the Director General is that the Railroad Administration will issue its certificates of indebtedness to the railroad corporations for amounts due on account of renewal and other transactions arising out of Federal control. It is estimated that the amount of the April 1 requirements will be approximately $70,000,000. The War Finance Corporation announces that it is prepared to receive applications from the railroads for advances for their April 1 requirements on the security of certificates of indebtedness issued by the Director General.

"Consideration is still being given by the Director General as to the method to be adopted for meeting obligations due from the Railroad Administration to equipment companies. An announcement on this subject will be made in the near future."

The Director General also conferred with the Federal Reserve Board, the Governors of the twelve reserve banks and other officials being present. While the officials discussed the financial situation of the country as a whole, the subject of the railroads was paramount. The conference will continue two days longer.

Those present at the meeting were Governor Harding and Messrs. Miller and Hamlin of the board, John Skelton Williams, Controller of the Currency; R. C. Leffingwell, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Senator Owen, Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, and Representative Platt, the new Republican Chairman of the House committee on those subjects, as well as the twelve Governors, the Executive Commitee of the Advisory Committee, and Director General Hines.

It was announced at the Railroad Administration that John Skelton Williams, Judge Robert S. Lovett, and Henry Walters, President of the Atlantic Coast Line, had been appointed an Advisory Committee on Purchases.

WILSON COVENANT INDORSED

Manhattan Club Unanimously Votes Confidence in the President.

The Manhattan Club, at its regular meeting yesterday, adopted a resolution unanimously indorsing President Wilson's plan for a League of Nations. The resolution read:

"Resolved, That the Manhattan Club, founded to advance Democratic principles, and, true to its traditions, hereby expresses its whole-hearted confidence in Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, in his earnest effort to restore peace after the vicissitudes of a world war, and hereafter, by a League of Nations, to promote international co-operation and to secure international peace and security.

"It congratulates him as Chairman of a committee of the Peace Conference, representing the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Belgium, and eight other nations, in unanimously recommending to the Peace Conference the constitution of such a League of Nations, and it proclaims its conviction that the proposed League of Nations will go far to insure peace on earth and for all future generations."

The resolution was presented by John G. Saxe. Justice Edward G. Whitaker, President of the club, presided at the meeting.

POPE URGES UNITY IN EAST.

ROME, March 19.—Pope Benedict received deputations of members of the clergy belonging to the Eastern Church today. Replying to an address by Mgr. Papadopulos, head of the Eastern congregation, he briefly summed up what he had been able to do to alleviate suffering caused by the war in the East.

"The Roman Pontiff has always been a friend of the Oriental church and has reposed great hopes in it," he said. "He has not only been a friend, but has turned with deep affection to the Orient, which has been all the more intense because of the uncertainty of the fate of the distant sons of the church. I wish these words could reach the far shores of the Orient, but as my voice cannot reach so far I transmit my thought to those present, and trust that all wish that Oriental Christiandon should be united by close friendship and filial love to the Apostolic See."

The Pope then bestowed the Apostolic blessing on all present.

FERRARO IS EXECUTED.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, March 20.—Giovanni Ferraro, the murderer who yesterday attacked and wounded his guards in an attempt to fight his way out of the Sing Sing death house with a knife he had improvised in his cell, was executed at 11 o'clock tonight. It was feared that he might make another attempt to escape and he was led into the death chamber handcuffed and bound to one of the guards, and was not released until after he was strapped fast in the electric chair.

Warden William Moyer and his assistants took extraordinary precautions that Ferraro could not cheat the law. Discussing his attack on his keepers Ferraro muttered something about not going to die in the electric chair, and this made his attendants prepare for another bolt for freedom or an attempt at suicide. So the murderer was placed in the old death house, which is in the same [illegible] so that he could be taken to the execution chamber without disturbing the other sixteen prisoners.

As soon as he was within the old death house, a pair of handcuffs were locked on his wrists and an extra guard assigned. Two keepers were instructed to watch Ferraro's cell continually and visitors to the other condemned men were excluded. Only fluids were given Ferraro for food, and these were fed to him by an attendant. Solids were eliminated to prevent any possible chance of the prisoner choking himself.

STEEL PRICES CUT; WAGES TO STAY UP

Agreement Reached by Representatives of Industry and Government in Conference.

TO HOLD REST OF YEAR

Reductions Run from Ten to Fourteen Per Cent.—Iron Ore to Keep Present Price.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—After a series of conferences which ended at 10:15 o'clock tonight representatives of the steel industry and the members of the Industrial Board of the Department of Commerce reached a decision upon price reductions affecting the more important of the raw materials and finished products.

While formal announcement of the complete schedule, which will guide buying for 1919, was withheld until tomorrow, the information was supplied that the reduction in part represented a cut of approximately $7 a ton from the price now quoted by the steel trade on merchant bars and plates and structural shapes, which set the standard for the more important finished commodities of the industry.

Announcement was made that no cut had been made in the price of iron ore f. o. b. Lake Erie ports, which remains at $5.50 a ton. This decision is dependent upon what action may be taken later in connection with attempts which are being made to bring about reductions of freight rates on ore. Freight rate reductions might result in a reopening of the matter.

It was announced officially, also, both by the Industrial Board and the steel men, that no decision was made concerning wage reductions. The Industrial Board would not consent to go on record as in favor of a general reduction policy at this time. This point played a prominent part in the debates held today by the steel men and the Government representatives, the steel men holding that greater reductions than those represented by the schedule finally agreed upon could not be made unless a definite policy leading to wage reductions were agreed upon.

Statement by Judge Gary.

Judge E. H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation, made this statement at the conclusion of tonight's conference:

"We have agreed upon prices. We cannot give you a full statement regarding these prices until tomorrow, when one will be prepared for the press.

"It is expected that prices during 1919 will not be any lower, and our present intention is to make no decreases in wages, except perhaps at some mills where there is a contract between employers and employes providing for a sliding scale."

John A. Savage, of Savage & Co., ore producers of Duluth, Minn., announced that ore men of the Great Lakes region will make a determined effort to have freight rates on ore reduced. His statement was made in the presence of steel men and members of the Industrial Board and met with their approval.

Here are such of the new prices which represent reductions of from 10 to 14 per cent. as were made known tonight:

	Per Gross Ton.	Reduction Per Ton.
Basic pig iron	$25.75	$4.25
Billets, (four-inch)	38.50	5.00
Billets, (two-inch)	42.00	5.00
		Per 100 Lbs.
Bars, (merchant)		$2.35
Plates		2.65
Structural shapes		2.45

It is understood that the reduction from present prices of slabs, which have been quoted at $46, was $5 a ton, making the new price $41; also that there was a $5 reduction agreed upon in the case of sheet bars, making the new price $42 a ton. These two quotations, however, have not been officially confirmed as yet.

It is understood the Industrial Board is prepared to guarantee that the price schedule adopted will be accepted by the five largest Government purchasing agents—the War, Navy, and Post Office Departments, the United States Shipping Board, and the Railroad Administration. It is also understood that a representative of the Attorney General's offfice followed closely all of the negotiations and that the steel interests received full assurance that the action taken was approved by the Department of Justice, thus eliminating any danger of proceedings under the Sherman law.

The theory on which the price schedule was adopted was that the Government agencies, by making heavy purchases of the industry, would readjust and stabilize the market and that other buyers would be forced to make their purchases at the same figures.

It is expected that business activities in many directions will feel the effects of the decisions reached within a few days.

The decision of the steel men to recognize the Industrial Board as a competent agency with which to work added to the prestige of that body in connection with the conferences which it soon is to hold with other industries. It is conceded that definite results will come from these conferences. It is the proposal of the Industrial Board to extend its efforts to reach food commodities and building material industries.

The steel decisions were not reached without much stormy debate, which was marked even by admitted dissension among the steel men. Certain of the great steel interests, among them the United States Steel Corporation, it is understood, were more ready to accept heavy reductions than were others, including Bethlehem Steel.

The latter corporation, it is understood, because of lack of shipping facilities, is experiencing considerable difficulty in obtaining its ores at the same prices as United States Steel. Charles M. Schwab, Chairman of the Board of Bethlehem, attended the conferences today.

The members of the Industrial Board seemed to feel that the obtaining of a reduction of $7 a ton on plates, bars, and shapes was a satisfactory step as a result of the conferences.

Difficulties of Small Plants.

A struggle to prevent reductions which would result in small concerns being forced to shut down or operate at a precarious profit was carried on by the smaller interests. They contended for compromise prices.

The big interests, it is understood, were ready to accept the Government proposals approximately, but desired in return that some formal stand should be taken by the Industrial Board concerning wages and other labor problems. The tendency of the Board, according to reports, was to avoid any direct action in regard to the labor situation, leaving the question of wages to be dealt with later.

The conferences were resumed at 11:30 A. M. after the representatives of the steel industry had met in separate conference from 9:30. Upon meeting the members of the Industrial Board the steel men had ready a schedule of prices from iron ore to the finished product. This schedule was rejected by the Industrial Board as too high. As a result the conference broke up after an hour of debate, the steel men again going into separate conference. This continued until 4:30 P. M., when the joint conference was resumed.

It was at the latter conference, according to report, that the question of labor conditions was brought forward as having a most important bearing on the ability of the steel industry to accept sharp reductions. It is stated that the steel men were ready to make material concessions as to prices if assured that the Industrial Board, as a Government agency, would take a stand on the labor situation.

It is reported that there was a wide divergence of opinion even in the councils of the steel men concerning the prices which would permit the smaller operators to continue. Such developments resulted in extending debates at the separate meetings which the steel men held.

DEFENDS EX-KAISER.

Chose Flight Rather Than Civil War or Death, Hindenburg Says.

BERLIN, March 20.—Aroused by recent criticisms of former Emperor William regarding his flight from Germany to Holland last Fall, Field Marshal von Hindenburg has prepared and published here a defense of the ex-ruler's action.

After depicting the situation as it existed in November, caused by the weakening of the army, the doubtful reliability of the forces in the field, and the breaking out of the revolution at home, the Field Marshal writes:

"The peaceful return home of the Emperor then became impossible. It could only have been carried out through the forceful employment of loyal troops, and civil war would have been added to the hostilities with the enemy.

"The Emperor could have betaken himself to the fighting troops in order to meet death at their head in a last attack upon the enemy, but the armistice so keenly desired by the people would thereby have been postponed and the lives of many soldiers uselessly sacrificed. The Emperor finally, in agreement with his advisers and after a severe mental struggle, decided to leave the country, solely in the hope that he could thereby best serve the Fatherland, save Germany from further losses, distress, and misery, and restore peace and oder to her."

REED WILL STICK; DEFENDS SPEECH

Missouri Senator Says Text Shows He Was Not Disrespectful to President.

WOULD DEBATE LEAGUE

Demand for His Resignation Reads Him Out of Party in His State.

ST. LOUIS, March 20.—United States Senator James A. Reed today, in commenting on the action of fifty Democratic members of the Missouri House of Representatives, who yesterday after a conference adopted resolutions calling on him to resign and run for re-election as a means of determining public sentiment on his views, said he had no objection to the men passing the resolution, but he did object to their saying he spoke disrespectfully of President Wilson. The text of the speech would show the contrary, he asserted.

"I am not conducting this campaign as some are, by abusing any one who does not agree with me," he said, "but I make no denial of the fact that I do not agree with President Wilson. I will not resign, of course—not unless all these other fellows with views for and against the League of Nations resign. In that case I will go with them and we can have a general election with the document as the paramount issue.

"I believe it is coming to a general referendum, for the United States Senate will not ratify the document."

Senator Reed expressed willingness to meet ex-President Taft, Alton B. Parker, or Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska in debate on the League of Nations.

The preamble to the resolutions calling on Senator Reed to resign discusses the conditions under which he was invited to address the Legislature and states that "much to the surprise, the discomfort, and disapproval of the Democratic Representatives," he referred to President Wilson "in a most sneering, sarcastic, and disrespectful manner," and by his utterances "plainly indicates it is his opinion that President Wilson in his advocacy of the League of Nations was encouraging and advocating the adoption of an English policy to the detriment of the United States" and that "the statesmanship of American patriots and American leaders was second to that of the statesmen of Great Britain."

It is declared that Senator Reed's address was an attempt to "belittle and belie" the leadership of the Democratic Party and its accomplishments in the last six years and was an effort on his part to "bring dissension and strife" into the ranks of the party and that the speech was "a direct insult to the party and the people who had given him his political prestige and made it possible for him to acquire any degree of prominence as a Democrat and a statesman."

These resolutions were then adopted:

"Resolved by the Democrats of the House of Representatives in conference, that we do hereby denounce the distinguished Senator as not entitled to claim any title or standing as a Democrat in the Democratic Party from Missouri, and suggest to him that, if he is so confirmed in his opinions he resign his position as Senator and again submit himself as a candidate for the high position which he now occupies to the entire dissatisfaction of the party which nominated and elected him, and be it further

"Resolved, That we again express our confidence in the courage, patriotism, and wisdom of our President, Woodrow Wilson, and express the intention of following him in the settlement and adjustment of all questions growing out of the recent war until we are convinced, by the judgment of fairer-minded men, prompted by higher motives and cleaner purposes than the Hon. James A. Reed, that the President of the United States is wrong and that his policy should no longer be pursued and that he should no longer be followed."

The resolutions were presented to the conference by Representative Frank H. Farris of Phelps County, one of the sixteen Democratic members of the House who withdrew from the chamber yesterday afternoon while Senator Reed was speaking.

Friends of Senator Reed who attended the conference said tonight that they had no opportunity to defend him.

BAILEY RENOUNCES DEMOCRATIC PARTY

Former Texas Senator Assails It for Extravagance and Multiplying Job Holders.

Former United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas, now a resident of Washington, D. C., renounced the Democratic Party last night in an address before the Road Horse Association of New Jersey at Newark.

Mr. Bailey had copies of his address prepared, and said before the meeting that he had thought for some time of announcing his withdrawal from the party which had sent him to the House of Representatives from 1891 to 1901 and to the Senate from 1901 to 1913. He said he had finally decided to declare himself in the address last night. In his speech he said:

"I have been a Democrat all my life, a 'collar' Democrat, if you please, and I have never scratched a party ticket, but those who now control the Democratic Party have renounced or abandoned one Democratic principle after another in such rapid and bewildering succession that they have left us nothing except the name.

"Since Thomas Jefferson founded it and first gave immortal utterance to its creed, the Democratic Party has always insisted that every State should exclusively control the local affairs of its own people, but a Democratic Congress immolated that time-honored doctrine upon the altar of national prohibition and a majority voted to repeat the sacrifice on behalf of woman suffrage.

"For more than a century a Democratic Party has opposed the creation of useless offices, but in the last six years Democratic Congresses have created more offices and more useless offices than were ever created in the same length of time since this Republic was organized. Our fathers dreaded the extension of Federal power to a point where 100,000 employes would be required, but we have added bureau to bureau and function to function until more than 500,000 are now permanently employed and we are complacently proposing to add the 3,000,000 more who are employed by the railroads and the telegraph and telephone companies.

"For more than a century the Democratic Party preached and practiced economy in all public expenditures, but, despising our traditions and our teachings, a Democratic Congress, even before we engaged in the European war, had spent more money than any Congress which had ever before assembled in the history of the Republic. Within the last three months Democratic Cabinet officials have asked for appropriations aggregating the sum of $15,000,000,000 for the fiscal year—from July 1, 1919, to June 30, 1920.

"For more than a century the Democratic Party has enjoined upon us to reverence the Constitution of our country and to respect its wholesome limitations, but in this time men calling themselves Democrats and holding high position deride the Constitution as an obsolete scrap of paper and scoff at its most sacred guarantees. I know and you know that this Republic cannot be preserved if the Constitution which created it is destroyed, and we can have no better proof of our patriotism than by defending the Constitution, which established, and which only can save, our free institutions.

"I have no right to speak for others and if they choose to support the Democratic Party after it has ceased to support Democratic principles, I recognize their right to do so. But, as for me and my house, we will never again vote for the candidate of any party which constantly reduces our liberty and unnecessarily increases our taxes."

During his long political career Senator Bailey had many quarrels with his party. In 1896 he resigned his candidacy for a third term in Congress by way of repudiating William Jennings Bryan. Nevertheless, he was renominated and elected. Two years later he resigned as Democratic leader in the House of Representatives, because his followers failed to support some of his acts.

HEDGES RECEIVER FOR N. Y. RAILWAYS

Traction Securities Break.

The receivership itself had been discounted by the stock market earlier in the day when rumors began to circulate through the district that court action might be expected and the stock of the Interborough Consolidated Company broke sharply, the common dropping to 4⅛ and the preferred to 12¼. Before the close the preferred recovered a part of its loss to 14, but even at that quotation, the net loss for the day was more than 5 points. The common closed fractionally higher, than its low for the day at 4½, with a net loss of ⅝ of a point.

The traction bonds of affiliated companies were also under pressure. Interborough-Metropolitan 4½s, which opened at 35⅞, sold down as low as 33⅝, while Interborough Rapid Transit refunding 5s sold off ⅞ to 69, from an opening quotation of 69⅞.

The allegations contained in the papers filed in court followed the line of statements issued by President Shonts in the last eighteen months. They speak of the threatened disintegration of the property through lack of income to meet pressing obligations, the danger that inefficiency in operation resulting from lack of money and of borrowing capacity will embarrass the public, that a complete cessation of operation may be brought about, and that if many suits for debts were instituted the property might be entirely destroyed.

It was nearly 5 o'clock when Judge Mayer told reporters that several gentlemen were calling on him and that the subject, if of importance, would be communicated to them as soon as possible. It was about 6:30 when the Judge called the reporters to his chambers in the Woolworth Building. Those who had called on Judge Mayer, besides Mr. Hedges, were James L. Quackenbush, general counsel for the Railways Company; Paul D. Cravath, counsel for the stockholders; George M. Judd, representing the plaintiff; John P. Cotton, Jr., counsel for the 4 per cent. bondholders; Charles P. Howland, for the 5 per cent. bondholders, and William G. Pearce, President of the Brake Shoe Company.

The petition recites the failure of the old Metropolitan Railway system, its reorganization and its passage into the control of the defendant, and adds "on information and belief:"

"Since entering into possession of the property the defendant has expended large sums, aggregating more than $3,000,000, in making improvements and additions and other capital expenditures to and upon lines of its system, including its leased lines, and that said expenditure, has greatly benefited such lines of railroads and enhanced the value of said leased property, but that the defendant has no further resources for any further expenditures that may be needed. The defendant has been required and will be required to make large expenditures for the maintenance and repairs of its system and that it will be unable to pay therefor, although immediately necessary for the operation of its lines."

After placing the probable demands of accident suits at "upward of $1,000,000," the complaint continues:

Danger of Disintegration.

"There is grave danger that the lines of the defendant may no longer be operated in a single system, but the various lines which are now owned or leased by the defendant may be broken up and be separately operated. There is likewise grave danger that suits may be instituted against the defendant in respect of claims and that it is essential to the interest of the defendant and to the interest of the public and to plaintiff that the property should not be sacrificed. The position of the defendant is the more acute by reason of the present bad financial situation of public service corporations generally, and there are outstanding unpaid special franchise taxes for the year 1900 against the property and certain of the lessors, which, with interest claimed to be due thereon, amount to approximately $500,000."

It is explained that these taxes constitute liens upon the special franchises of the companies affected and that there is a likelihood of steps being taken by the city's officials to sell the liens. The petition expresses fear that in this way the city is seeking to get hold of the lines in order to operate them as a municipal venture. Then the petition speaks thus of the earnings of the company:

"For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, the results from operation of defendant's system were such that the income was $153,633.87 less than the amount required to pay the interest on the first real estate and refunding mortgage 4 per cent. bonds; for the six months ending Dec. 31, 1918, the defendant's income of the period was $738,187.50 less than the amount sufficient to pay such interest; that on Dec. 31, 1918, defendant's corporate deficit was $2,125,039.32; that all of the defendant's special and reserve funds have been exhausted and that the defendant has not sufficient credit to obtain the moneys requisite for the operation of its property."

The petition states that all of the appurtenances, rolling stock, and other property are in "reasonably good condition," that during the past year the lines carried 300,000,000 passengers, and that the average number of persons employed by the company will exceed 6,000.

Company's Liabilities.

Taking up the precise financial condition of the company, the petition says on information and belief that the authorized capital stock issued and outstanding is $17,495,000, subject to the following mortgage indebtedness: First real estate and refunding, $18,061,289.75; adjustment, $30,609,487.44; convertible scrip, $2,250. The first mortgages on the company's lines are: Lexington Avenue and Pavonia Ferry Railroad, $5,000,000; Columbus and Ninth Avenue, $3,000,000; Broadway Surface, $1,500,000; South Ferry, $350,000, and Central Crosstown, $250,000.

On its leased lines there are the following first mortgages: Christopher & Tenth Street Railroad, $210,000; Bleecker Street & Fulton Ferry, $700,000; Thirty-fourth Street Crosstown, $1,000,000. On the Broadway & Seventh Avenue line there is a first consolidated mortgage of $8,150,000 and an improvement and refunding mortgage of $1,500,000 on the Twenty-third Street line.

Explaining still further the financial condition of the company, the petition says on information and belief:

"Failure to meet the interest on such bonded indebtedness as such interest matures, other than interest on the aforesaid adjustment mortgage indebtedness, which accrues only as earned, will operate also as a default under the mortgage."

Calling attention to the condition of the leased lines, the petition said:

"Many of the leased lines in defendant's system are without adequate equipment of their own, and in many cases the motive power employed on leased lines of controlled companies has been changed to electricity without supplying said lines with independent power houses or other independent sources of supply of power, leaving such lines dependent for power on other lines of the system."

In its answer to the complaint the Railways Company admitted all of the allegations and joined in the prayer for the appointment of a receiver in order to preserve the system "as it has been maintained and operated," and particularly to preserve the "franchises, privileges, and property" and its corporate existence and the real and personal property. The petition makes no mention of any value set upon the property beyond stating the amount of the capital stock. The answer is signed by Mr. Quackenbush and by Richard Reid Rogers of counsel.

Mr. Hedges's appointment is temporary, which is according to custom. At a hearing to be held before Judge Mayer on March 31 the appointment will doubtless be made permanent.

Discussing the receivership last night Travis H. Whitney, Acting Chairman of the Public Service Commission, said that as the floating debts of the company amounted to $1,600,000 the receivership was inevitable. Asked what the value of the company's plant was he replied that the most recent statement of figures placed it at $65,000,000 in normal times and $85,000,000 at war-time prices.

"I shall be glad to co-operate in any way possible," Mr. Whitney also said, "to insure a continuation of the service so that the public will not be inconvenienced. I hope the receiver will be able to handle the property so as to avoid a separation of the various lines, which would result in additional fares through the abolishment of transfers. The situation has been so serious that there was really no way out but to apply to the courts for relief."

A statement prepared some time ago by Corporation Counsel Burr concerning the situation of the Railways Company in its relation to the leased lines contained a list of these lines, the capital stock of each, and the annual rent paid by the Railways Company. The lines, according to Mr. Burr, are the Bleecker Street and Fulton Ferry Railroad Company, common stock, $900,000, dividends 1½ per cent., $13,500; costs and expenses equal 2½ per cent. in addition to interest on $700,000 4 per cent. mortgage bonds.

Broadway and Seventh Avenue line, common stock, $2,100,000, dividends of 10 per cent., $210,000 in addition to other costs, making a total of 291,678.97.

Central Crosstown Company, interest of 6 per cent. on $250,000 of mortgage bonds, $15,000.

Christopher and Tenth Street Railroad Company, dividends of 8 per cent. on $650,000 of common stock, $52,000; with other charges the total is increased to $57,194.

Forty-second Street and Grand Street Company, dividends of 18 per cent. on $748,000 of common stock, $134,640; with other costs, the total is $167,546.75.

Twenty-third Street Railroad Company, dividends of 18 per cent. on $600,000 of common stock, $108,000; with costs, the yearly payment is $138,780.99.

Eighth Avenue Company, a fixed rent of $215,000, which, with other costs, brings the total to $265,675.37. Mr. Burr says that this makes the dividends amount to 26½ per cent. on a capitalization of $1,000,000. He also says that this company pays its stockholders 17½ per cent. dividend, and that out of the difference paid by the Railways Company the Eighth Avenue Company pays 6 per cent. on an issue of $750,000 in certificates of indebtedness.

New York and Harlem Railroad Company, fixed rent of $400,000; with additional payments, the total annual cost is $448,850.53, or, according to Mr. Burr's figuring, nearly 16 per cent. on a capitalization of $2,850,544.

Sixth Avenue Company, fixed rent of $145,000, or a total of $175,690.35, including costs, which is 8.78 per cent. on a capitalization of $2,000,000.

Ninth Avenue Company, fixed rent of $64,000; with costs, the total is $98,670.35 or 12.33 per cent. on a capitalization of $800,000.

Thirty-fourth Street Crosstown Railroad Company costs the Railways Company interest on $1,000,000 of 5 per cent. mortgage bonds.

Mr. Burr said that if the large dividends paid to the stockholders of these companies were reasonably reduced the deficit of the Railways Company last year would soon be made up.

Origin of the Company.

The New York Railways Company came into being on Dec. 31, 1911, when it succeeded to the management of all of the property of the defunct Metropolitan Street Railway Company and the Interborough-Metropolitan Railway Company, except that part of the old system which had been leased from the Third Avenue system in 1900 and taken back by the Third Avenue after a default of rent in October, 1907. The Metropolitan and the Interborough-Metropolitan had been sold on Dec. 29, 1911, to a committee of bondholders composed of Guy E. Tripp, Alexander Hemphill, and Edwin S. Marston. The receivers for the old company were Adrian H. Joline and Douglas Robinson.

The old traction companies had been through a stormy period. Merger followed consolidation, and consolidation came on top of merger. William C. Whitney, Thomas F. Ryan, and others attempted to put together all of the tractions in Manhattan. They succeeded in gathering in most of the small lines, and in the late nineties had reduced the number of important systems to three—the Metropolitan, which operated most of the surface lines; the Third Avenue, which had the surface lines not in the Metropolitan system, and the Manhattan, which operated most of the elevated lines. In the panic of 1907 the Third Avenue system, which had been taken into the Metropolitan in 1900, was turned back to its owners for operation when the Metropolitan failed to live up to the terms of its lease, which was to run for 999 years.

Theodore P. Shonts has been President of the New York Railways since its formation. Frank Hedley has been First Vice President and operating head for the same period. The system operate about 155 miles of track, of which it owns 43½ miles directly, the remainder being either leased or managed through stock ownership.

Mayor Hylan's Comment.

Mayor Hylan was at a meeting of the Franchise Committee of the Board of Estimate when he received word of the receivership. Shortly after Corporation Counsel Burr went to the Federal Court to ask for the appointment of a co-receiver on behalf of the city, both the Mayor and the Corporation Counsel being under the impression that it was the Interborough Rapid Transit Company that was involved. Asked to comment upon the step taken by the New York Railways all the Mayor would say was:

"The Interborough said there would be a reeciver for these lines. They have made good their promise."

Controller Craig was also under the impression when he first heard the news that a receiver had been asked for the I. R. T.

"It is to be hoped," commented the Controller, "that whoever is appointed will take into consideration the interests of New York City."

LONDONER FAVORS RELIEF.

Underground Company's Manager Sees Need of Higher Fares Here.

After a study of transit lines in New York City W. E. Manderlick, Secretary and Business Manager of the Underground Electric Railways Company, Limited, of London, which controls all the underground lines of that city and operates more than 2,000 buses, said yesterday that unless the transportation lines of New York City obtained relief he could not see how financial troubles and a disintegration of systems was to be averted. Mr. Manderlick will sail tomorrow on the Adriatic. He has visited New York many times and had watched, he said, the development of the transportation lines here. New York, he said, was becoming a greater international financial centre and the transportation lines were of the greatest importance in that development. After studying the situation during his present visit, he said that in his opinion any one who investigated would find that the lines were not earning operating expenses, taxes, and a fair return on money invested. Some, he said, were not earning operating expenses and taxes. Few, if any of them, he said, were able to put anything aside as a reserve.

"Without any reference," Mr. Manderlick continued, "to the amount of the various securities issued by the corporations, but merely looking at the matter from an economic standpoint, unless something is done to give your transportation lines relief, I cannot see how you are going to avert a serious financial disaster involving a chain of receiverships, a disintegration of your transportation systems with perhaps the consequent abandonment of some of your lines, the throwing out of employment of men at a time when a great many men are looking for jobs, and the causing of far-reaching complications which seem to me will be most detrimental to your city and to its citizens collectively and individually, to say nothing of the investing public.

"I had to pay twice as much for a newspaper here as I did a little while ago; my hotel bills were very much greater; it costs me 50 per cent. more to send a letter from New York to Chicago; the steam railway fares I paid were much higher; on every hand I found the cost of living had increased. I cannot for the life of me understand why the city transportation lines have not been allowed temporarily to increase their fares.

"They, like ourselves, have had to pay their men more wages in order that the latter may live decently, the cost of material for the maintenance of the porperty has been vastly higher, and yet the street railway, elevated, and underground fare remains the same. Such a state of affairs is not likely to render the securities of your traction companies attractive investments in any market. I should think it would lead to great difficulty in the raising of new money for any future improvements and extensions.

"It has been my observation, and the war has proved, that Americans have a wonderful faculty of rising to the occasion whenever the necessity demands. I don't mean to criticise the policy of the powers that are responsible, but I am wondering what you are going to do and how long a time yet remains in which to take action of a remedial sort before the cataclysm comes in your transportation situation.

"In London we were faced with the same problems, but by a slight temporary alteration in fares we have been able to cope with the unprecedented conditions. I am reminded of the old Roman proverb: 'It is better to take medicine at the outset than at the last moment.'"

CHARGE O'LEARY JURY TODAY

District Attorney Declares Defendant Hid Behind Irish-Americans.

The summing of the Government's case against Jeremiah A. O'Leary, who is charged with having entered into a conspiracy to obstruct the operation of the draft law, was concluded yesterday. Judge Hand will charge the jury this morning and the case will go to the jury some time this afternoon. Judge Hand will begin his charge at 10:15 o'clock this morning.

Ex-United States District Attorney H. Snowden Marshall made the concluding argument for the prosecution. Mr. Marshall said that O'Leary had tried to hide behind the patriotism of Irish-Americans. Mr. Marshall read an excerpt from the paper that was known as Bull, and of which O'Leary was editor, wherein Cardinal Gibbons and the late Archbishop Ireland were criticised for "clamoring for war." Mr. Marshall said that in 1915 O'Leary applied to Bernstorff for $25,000 to be used in financing the so-called American Truth Society, and he added that the society did receive $5,000 from Dr. Albert, the Financial Attaché of the embassy, the money being paid in installments through a man named Wiener.

WOMEN GRILL SWEET.

Say They Forced Speaker to Admit Burying Reform Bills.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 20.—Speaker Thaddeus C. Sweet of the Assembly came in for a bitter attack today from a delegation of women who called upon him and urged him to use his influence to get out of committee a series of bills for the protection of women in industry, so that they could be discussed on the floor. They included the Eight-hour-day bill for women and minors, the Minimum Wage bill and bills for the protection of women working on street cars and in offices, which at present are in the custody of the Assembly Committee on Labor and Industries.

All the bills have the backing of the Women's Joint Legislative Conference, of which Mary E. Dreier is Chairman. Miss Dreier headed the delegation that called on Speaker Sweet, the other women being Mrs. Frank J. Tone of the Woman Suffrage Party; Miss Emma B. Beard and Mrs. Lucia Houpt Connell of the Consumers' League; Miss Louise Gilman of the Y. W. C. A., and Miss Grace Phelps of the Woman's Legislative Conference.

"We told Speaker Sweet that we knew he was responsible for the failure of the committee to report the bills," said Miss Dreier. "He first sought to evade the question, but later admitted that he was responsible and said his action was taken after an informal conference with certain members of his party who opposed the bills."

According to the women, Speaker Sweet told them that the State should be protected from ill-considered legislation, even though it might have popular support, and that members of the Assembly should be spared the necessity of voting for measures they did not believe were wise or run the risk of losing the votes of women and of labor. The Speaker said Republican members had come to him three to one against reporting the bills.

"We know that this is not so," said Miss Dreier. "We know that on the contrary the Speaker has been calling Republican Assemblymen into his room and has threatened covertly to kill their legislation if they dared to come out for the bills. What shall we say of the great State of New York when a little paper manufacturer from Oswego holds up legislation which will benefit almost a million workers?"

ASSAIL GOVERNMENT PART IN PORT STRIKE

Merchants' Association Denounces Repudiation of the Macy Award.

PROMISES BREAK IN TIEUP

Towboat Exchange Says It Will Resume Traffic on a Larger Scale Today.

The Merchants' Association made public a letter yesterday sent by William Fellowes Morgan, President of the association, to the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, the Director General of the Railroads, and the Chairman of the Federal Shipping Board, censuring them for failing to stand by the Macy award in the harbor controversy, after President Wilson had given his assurance that those departments would use all their power to enforce it.

The association asserts that the Government departments which yielded to the harbor unions, which had struck against the enforcement of the Macy award after pledging themselves to obey it, had placed a premium on breaches of faith in labor controversies.

The association stated explicitly that it expressed no opinion as to the merits of the issue between the harbor workers and their employes, but confined itself to protest against the part played by the Government.

"Fair-minded men are striving earnestly," the letter said, "to promote resort to arbitration as a means for composing differences between employers and employes. Such agreements are valueless unless their obligations are honorably observed by the parties thereto. Refusal to abide by an arbitration award, after having voluntarily agreed to be bound thereby, is signal bad faith. To condone such violation, to yield to further demands determined excessive by the arbitrator, is to reward bad faith, to place a premium upon it, and to promote resort to it. Condonement, therefore, amounts to encouraging a resort to force and discouraging arbitration.

"By whoever sanctioned, such condonement of the violation of an arbitrator's award is reprehensible; it is doubly harmful when sanctioned by governmental authority, for it is then tantamount to notice that the Government will not enforce the obligations of good faith, but on the contrary will reward the delinquents by conceding their demand. It is obvious that such a position, taken by the highest governmental officials, must have a far-reaching and exceedingly harmful effect.

"But in the present case concession to bad faith is not the only nor the most disturbing feature. The surrender of governmental rights is even more serious.

"No Government which surrenders its powers to its servants can long exist. In this case striking employes sought to impede or prevent the exercise of important and pressingly necessary Government functions. Their demands had been held to be inequitable by an official arbitration, which they themselves had sought and whose findings they had pledged themselves to observe. In spite of their pledge they refused to abide by the award, and in order to enforce their further demands stopped part of the machinery of Government.

"To the demands of its striking servants, made under these conditions, the officials of four departments of the Government yielded, thereby assenting to the proposition that certain Government functions should be carried on only on terms imposed by the servants of the Government.

"This means the surrender by the Government of the power to control the people's affairs, and the practical vesting of such power in striking employes.

"Against these actions by your department and the other Governmental agencies involved we earnestly protest because

"(1) It creates an official precedent destructive of the principle and practice of arbitration, and

"(2) It surrenders the sovereign power of the Government in disregard of the President's statement that, 'I am sure that the War and Navy Departments, the Shipping Board, and the Railroad Administration and any other Government agencies interested in the controversy will use all the power which they possess to make your findings effective.'"

Strike Leaders Defend Repudiation.

The officials of the strikers have defended their action in striking, after pledging themselves to abide by the Macy award, on the ground that the award was so disappointing to the rank and file of the workers that they would have struck spontaneously, if their leaders had not declared the strike, and that the unsatisfactory character of the award was admitted by the boat-owners in their offer of better terms than those recommended by V. Everit Macy.

A. L. Stone, Federal Administrator of the Erie Railroad, who made terms with the strikers on behalf of the Railroad Administration, demanded at the outset, it was said, that the union men should fulfill their pledge to stand by the Macy award. The following day he abandoned this position and began to make concessions which ended finally in the new set of terms. The private boat owners allege that Administrator Stone acted against his judgment and under immediate pressure from Washington, but Administrator Stone himself has refused to discuss the matter.

Officials of the Tow Boat Exchange stated yesterday that they had made terms individually with a number of their lighter captains and would resume traffic in the harbor today on a larger scale. It was predicted that some of the strikers, who are alleged to be dissatisfied with the conduct of the union officials, would start a drive against them at the union headquarters at 26 Park Place today for the purpose of renewing negotiations with the private boat owners.

T. V. O'Connor, President of the International Association of Longshoremen, asked for a meeting of the Strike Committee today, that he might put some proposals before it. He refused to discuss the nature of his proposals.

Paul Bonynge, counsel for the boat owners, said that O'Connor has not been authorized to convey any proposals for the boat owners, but that the offer of the boat owners to increase wages and to form a joint board for the purpose of adjusting other grievances remained open. He said that the boat owners were ready to reopen negotiations with a committee of the strikers at any time, but were resolved to have no more discussion of the eight-hour day question.

COMMERCE BODIES JOIN.

Form Central Organization Covering State at Albany Gathering.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 20.—Representatives of commercial organizations in this State today completed organization into one central body. Hundreds of delegates from all sections of the State were welcomed by Governor Smith. General programs for the work of the united commercial organizations will be outlined tomorrow and officers will be elected. Senator Frederick M. Davenport, who is framing the new State tax laws; Dr. George E. Vincent, President of the Rockefeller Foundation, and George D. Pratt, State Conservation Commissioner, spoke to the conference.

"Great problems of reconstruction following the war face you as you are forming your State organization," Governor Smith told the delegates. "They need the care and attention of the greatest minds in the State. May we hope that from the deliberations of your body may grow material benefit for the State and its people."

Dr. Vincent declared that the men and women who work with their hands are resolved to have a larger share in determining the conditions of labor.

BARGAIN CLOTHES SALE TO POOR OF BRUSSELS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, March 18.—Every American who contributed garments to the great American clothes campaign of last Fall for the relief of France and Belgium would feel amply compensated for any sacrifice if he had been able to be present at the great sale of these garments for the poor people of Brussels, which began today in a large unused railroad station.

Since early morning there has been a queue a block long, each individual waiting his turn to replenish the family wardrobe in the hall, gayly decorated with Belgian and American flags. For days Brussels has been eagerly scanning the bills posted throughout the town with the list of prices. Men's suits, sometimes new, are offered for 50 cents; women's suits, blouses, and skirts for less. Each member of a family is allowed to purchase one of each kind of garments. Families unable to afford even these modest prices also receive clothes; but the poorer classes have lived so long on charity that it was thought advisable to charge a nominal sum.

Till the present, clothes from America were all repaired before being given to the people, thus providing employment. But as the war was drawing to an end, and clothes of all descriptions were still held at exorbitant prices, quite out of reach of the working class, it was decided to have a large sale as soon as possible, without waiting for repairs. An enormous factory has been given over to the American clothes. Here they arrive in large bales, going through several processes of sorting as to size, &c., and are arranged in neat piles. Cotton garments are washed in the factory. Nine hundred men and women are employed there on American clothes. A large repairing-tailoring shop is also attached to the factory.

Many of the touching letters found in clothing from American children will soon be answered by Belgian school children. Mr. Chatfield, representative of the American Relief Commission for Belgium, told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that more clothing was now being received or on the way than during the four years of occupation, as a result of the clothes campaign of last Fall, and that 106,000 tons of foodstuffs were expected by April 1.

FOOD PRICES CUT 6%.

But Were 9 Per Cent. Higher Last Month Than in February, 1918.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Although food prices showed a decline of 6 per cent. during the month ended Feb. 15 last, the prices were 9 per cent. higher than those which prevailed in February, 1918, and about 75 per cent. higher than the price average of 1913.

Price statistics for last month, announced today by the Department of Labor, showed that twenty-six of the forty-two articles listed were cheaper in February than in the preceding month. The marked decreases were in eggs, 33 per cent., and butter, 19 per cent. Potatoes lead the twelve articles showing an increase, with an advance of 25 per cent.

CRITICISES GOVERNMENT.

Dr. Hodge Says Control of Transportation Is Socialism.

Censuring what he termed the socialist actions of the Government in an address at the Hotel Plaza yesterday morning, Dr. Richard Morse Hodge, extension lecturer of Columbia University, said that pure socialism was Bolsheyism and that Government ownership of transportation and communication facilities was socialism. Dr. Hodge said:

"Is our Government Administration beyond argument on the question of socialism? Socialists have everywhere gloated over Government operation of a large part of industry in every country engaged in war. In spite of the demonstration on a large scale of how impossible it is for a Government to operate industry with economy or with efficiency comparable to that of private enterprise, some office holders who have enjoyed the unusual powers conferred on them by Congress are naturally not much impressed by the enormous waste of money incidental to the political control of industry."

In time, Dr. Hodge said, public opinion and the ballot will permit Americans to resume business according to the methods of business enterprise, "but at present the obstinacy of certain officials who were Socialists before appointment to office is conspicuous. This obstinacy is revealed in the seizure of the cables and the telegraphs after the surrender of the enemy, and is the humiliation of the Government in allowing itself to be insulted twice by the refusal of strikers in New York Harbor to abide by the arbitration awards to which they had committed themselves in advance."

SINN FEINERS SEIZE ARMS.

Raid British Aerodrome and Escape with Eighty Rifles.

DUBLIN, March 20, [Associated Press.]—The biggest raid by Sinn Feiners to secure arms which has as yet been recorded took place this morning at the airdrome near Santry, six miles from here, when Sinn Feiners numbering nearly forty overpowered the soldiers on guard and seized eighty service rifles.

There were only three sentries on duty, and eight more soldiers were resting in a guard hut. They were bound and gagged and were tied to beams in the hut. The military motor cars at the airdrom were disabled to prevent pursuit and the raiders made their escape.

WIDOWED MOTHERS AIDED.

Association Hears Reports on the Work of a Year.

At the annual meeting of the Widowed Mothers' Fund Association at Delmonico's yesterday afternoon Mrs. William Einstein, the President, and the board of officers were re-elected. Mrs. Einstein read her own and the Secretary's report.

The last year, the closing of the first decade of the work of the fund, was said to have been its most prosperous and successful. In all 196 families were aided, including 663 children, and $49,000 was expended.

A play was read at the meeting by Jane Manner and addresses were made by Elisabeth Marbury and Sophie Irene Loeb, after which tea was served.

BISHOP GREER ACTIVE AT 75.

Bishop David H. Greer celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday yesterday by attending to his usual duties in his diocese. He was the recipient of many letters and telegrams of congratulation.

Bishop Greer completed fifteen years in the Episcopate several weeks ago. He has the direction of 412 clergymen, of whom 44 entered war service. The Bishop also has the oversight of 202 churches which constitute what is said to be the largest diocese in the country.

W. U. MESSENGERS GO OUT ON STRIKE

Demand Is Made for Increase to 3 Cents a Message and Zone Observance.

SEVERAL HUNDRED QUIT

Leaders Declare All Will Be Out Today—Older Men Stay at Work.

Demanding a rate of 3 cents a message and a stricter observance of the zoning system of extra fees for messages delivered outside certain limits, several hundred messengers employed by the Western Union yesterday went out on strike. Following a meeting held last night in a hall in Fourteenth Street, near Second Avenue, leaders of the strikers asserted they would have every Western Union messenger on strike today.

The first intimation of the strike that came to the attention of the company's officials was at 5 o'clock yesterday, when eighty boys on duty at the main office, 195 Bradway, announced they were no longer working. The walkout spread quickly to the branch offices, and inquiry last night at many of them was met with the announcement that all the boys had gone out. While the strike had not affected Brooklyn last night, it was said that an effort would be made to induce the boys over there to quit when they appeared for work this morning.

A Western Union official said, shortly after the boys walked out, that the trouble was caused by agitation among the younger boys, who were seeking to obtain a three-cent message rate. He pointed out that the boys went out last February and, after an experiment with girl messengers had not proven exactly a success, the company advanced the message rate to 2½ cents a message, abolishing the uniform fee of 40 cents for a certain number of deliveries.

According to Jack Garvey, who is in charge of the messengers at night at the main office, the older messengers remained faithful. He said that young pickets who had tried to persuade the men to quit had failed in their attempt. Another Western Union official said that the strike undoubtedly would be felt by business men today. He said that the day force of boys was almost entirely composed of the younger element, and that this undoubtedly would go out in a body.

When the strike became known to the officials the Old Slip Station was notified and a policeman was stationed in front of the main offices. Men on post in the precinct were notified to see that messengers who refused to go on strike were not molested as they were in last year's walkout. The strikers last night, however, remained outside the "police zone" and confined their efforts to verbal persuasion.

One of the messengers who attended the council in the Fourteenth Street hall said that heretofore the messengers had worked on a zone plan whereby they were paid an additional fee if their delivery was outside a certain territory. He asserted that the company had recently begun to disregard this arrangement and that the boys had become much dissatisfied. According to this messenger, reports at the meeting had it that more than 800 messengers were on strike.

RUMANIA'S SAD PLIGHT.

Lack of Transport Facilities Complicates the Food Situation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUCHAREST, March 6, (via London, March 19.)—The traveler from Constantinople finds a striking difference between the gayety and welfare of the enemy capital and the repressed and gloomy atmosphere in this country. There is nobody in the streets of Constanza except the French patrols and the thieves they are shooting for looting what has been left unstolen by the Bulgarian troops.

The journey to Constanza from Bucharest, which in normal times takes six hours, now occupies twenty-four to thirty. The beautiful and expensive Danube bridge has been partly destroyed, and travelers, after crossing the river in barges, must walk miles to the train which runs between Constanza and Bucharest. The whole country presents a desolate aspect. Most stations have been burned, villages are destroyed, and the fields unplowed.

In Bucharest the streets all night show the same gloom as the rest of the country. The formerly gay city is now plunged in absolute darkness, owing to lack of fuel. In fact, everything except French perfume and women's silk stockings, which have been sent in great quantities from France, is wanting in Rumania. The country sorely needs food and clothing. An ordinary suit of clothes costs $250, and a pair of boots $125. Food prices are as bad. In the restaurants, two fried eggs cost $2.50 and a cup of coffee $1.25. Meat is unavailable and bread very scarce.

Transport has been reduced to a minimum. Of the locomotives forming the pre-war stock six have been left by Mackensen, who sent the rest to Germany, Bulgaria, and Hungary. Traffic has been reduced to three trains weekly. Food arriving at Constanza is sent into the interior with great difficulty. Fifteen thousand tons of flour are still stopped at Constanza. Unless the Allies take energetic steps to compel Hungary and Bulgaria to return the stolen locomotives, and the Allies speed up the sending of repair material, no efficient help can be given to Rumania. Only a small area is being tilled for the next harvest, owing to the lack of cattle, forage, and especially seed.

GAIN IN COTTON OUTPUT.

Over 500,000 More Bales Produced Last Year Than in 1917.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Final statistics on the 1918 cotton crop, announced today by the Census Bureau in its last ginning report, place production at 11,888,138 running bales, or 12,022,601 equivalent 500-pound bales, both exclusive of linters.

The 1917 crop was 11,248,242 running bales, or 11,302,375 equivalent 500-pound bales. The Department of Agriculture in December estimated the 1918 crop at 11,700,000 equivalent 500-pound bales. Included in the 1918 figures are 77,191 bales which ginners estimated would be turned out after the March canvass.

Sea Island bales included are 51,359, compared with 92,619 bales in 1917. Distribution of Sea Island for 1918 by States was: Florida, 20,160; Georgia, 21,265, and South Carolina, 9,964.

The average gross weight of bale for the crop, counting round as half bales and excluding linters, is 505.7 pounds, compared with 502.4 pounds for 1917.

Ginneries operated numbered 19,249, compared with 20,351 in 1917.

Ginnings of the 1918 crop by States, in equivalent 500-pound bales, were: Alabama, 800,121; Arizona, 55,560; Arkansas, 985,319; California, 67,322; Florida, 28,242; Georgia, 2,120,690; Louisiana, 586,405; Mississippi, 1,225,348; Missouri, 61,516; North Carolina, 895,852; Oklahoma, 576,270; South Carolina, 1,566,900; Tennessee, 329,203; Texas, 2,692,816; Virginia, 24,885; all other States, 6,157.

Rhode Island House Votes for Test.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 20.—The House today passed the resolution directing the Attorney General to take such steps as may be necessary to obtain a ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States on the constitutionality of the action of Congress on the prohibition amendment. The resolution will be transmitted to the Senate tomorrow.

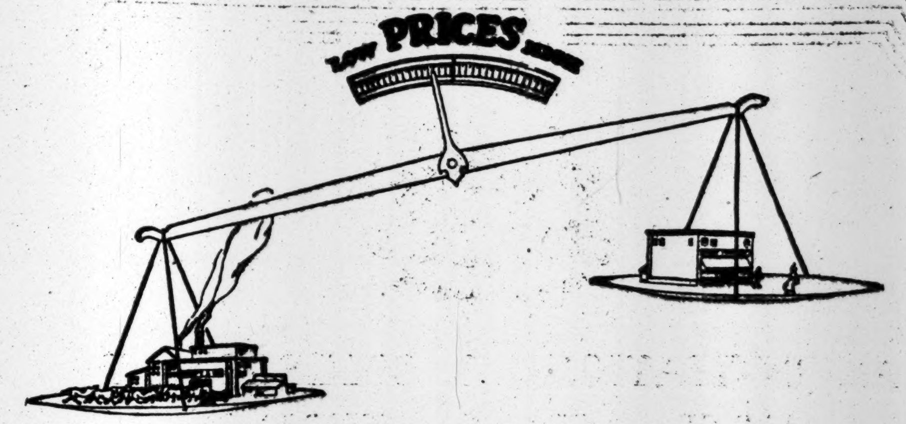
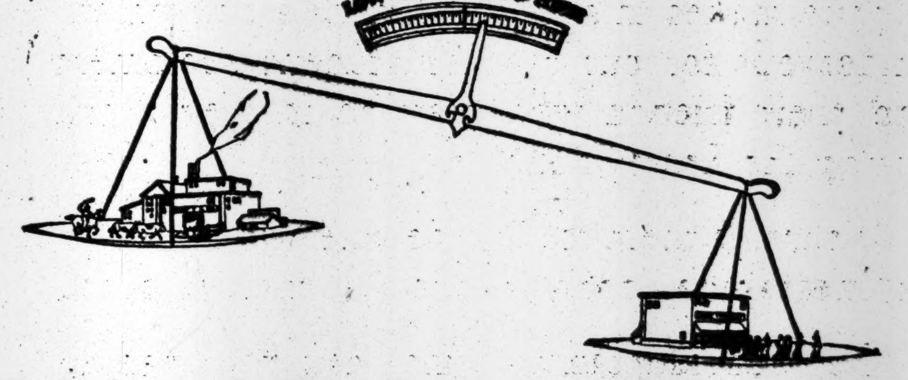
Why Prices Go Up and Down



Much Livestock, Few Meat Buyers; Meat Prices Fall



Little Livestock, Many Meat Buyers; Meat Prices Rise

This shows why prices fluctuate. The number of animals shipped to market varies from week to week. The demand for meat also changes frequently, and often unexpectedly.

This means that live-stock prices and wholesale meat prices change from day to day. Competition determines prices so that the supply on hand at any one time is just taken up by the demand.

Swift & Company doesn't like these price changes. We have to use the utmost skill in buying and selling in order to get our average profit of a fraction of a cent per pound of meat.

Home Made Ladders of Opportunity

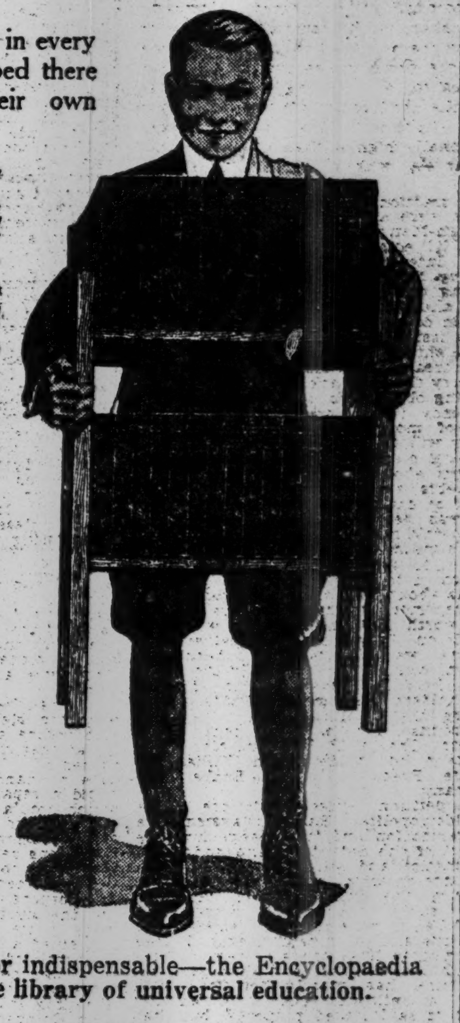
Edison, Rockefeller, Carnegie, Schwab—All Owe Their Greatness Not to Schools and Colleges, but to Books and Life.

School and College merely start a man; books and work do the rest. You may even do without the college, as did Lincoln, Edison, and Rockefeller, but you cannot do without BOOKS.

Whether you are destined to be a Superman or not may matter little to you, but if you want to take the first steps away from mediocrity, you must have at hand the books that the foremost men of our times consider indispensable—the Encyclopaedia Britannica, the home library of universal education.



The parents' greatest debt to the child is the preparation for future efficiency and happiness. This is why millions are spent every year for college. The Encyclopaedia Britannica costs a small fraction of what it costs to go to college for one year, and yet its 30,000 pages have within them the materials for a college education.

The Encyclopaedia Britannica helps the children in their school work, answering their multitude of questions and supplying the "human interest" not found in text books. It explains and gives them a greater grasp of their studies, thereby making it easier for them to get higher grades. It presents the facts of history and science; art and literature; geology, geography, biography, physics and chemistry, in so fascinating a way that the children remember what is worth while. When your child has his next composition to write, let him use the Britannica and see how much easier it is for him.

For the woman in the home the Britannica provides a fund of practical information on every subject. There are splendid articles in the Britannica on domestic science, on rugs, laces and embroidery, tapestry and jewelry; on china, on interior decoration and on music and dancing. Whatever the special interests of the various members of the family are, the new Britannica is a prolific source of knowledge, complete and authoritative.

You need the Britannica and you ought to have a set. But you should act quickly, for the present sets we have on hand are all that can be had printed on the beautiful, thin, but tough, India paper. Write at once for complete information. Coupon herewith properly filled out is all you need send, but send it now.

POLICE TAKE STEPS TO GET TYLER BACK

CASE BEFORE GRAND JURY

Prisoner Tells Police He Will Waive Extradition—Also Wanted in California.

Detectives engaged in the search for the two men who shot and killed the cashier and assistant cashier of the East Brooklyn Savings Bank at 643 Myrtle Avenue on Dec. 13, and made their escape with $13,112 of the bank's funds, after shooting a policeman, were sent to St. Louis, Mo., yesterday to bring back I. Roy Tyler, who was arrested there on Wednesday as one of the murder suspects. Ever since the robbery Detective William Roddy had followed Tyler from city to city in the West, but the escaped convict, with plenty of money and traveling in a high-power automobile, was able to keep clear of his pursuer, who had to depend on railway timetables.

"Roddy was within a few hours' ride of St. Louis when the arrest was made, and should reach that city tomorrow," said Second Deputy Police Commissioner Lahey, in charge of the Detective Bureau. "I have instructed him to forward fingerprints of the man arrested with Tyler, though we have no evidence that the convict's companion is implicated at all. Whether or not Mrs. Caroline Tyler, wife of the convict, will be brought here with her husband depends upon further information as to her presence here at the time of the robbery.

"I am convinced that Tyler is the 'tall man' described as one of the two East Brooklyn Savings Bank robbers. In addition to the chauffeur of the bandit car, George H. McCullough, we have three or four others who have identified the photograph of Tyler as the slayer of the bank officials."

Detective Bernard Down, who was aiding in the search for Tyler, and Detective Sharp of Rochester, who knew the convict personally, are also on their way to St. Louis to complete the identification of the suspect. Detective Sergeant Elias Hoagland of St. Louis, who identified Tyler from the description in the police circular sent from New York, will probably receive the reward of $3,500 offered for the arrest of the convict.

District Attorney Harry E. Lewis, upon hearing of the arrest, brought the case of Tyler to the attention of the Kings County Grand Jury. He presented evidence to that body which, he said, he believed will result in an indictment being brought against him, charging him with murder in the first degree. Meanwhile he ordered Assistant District Attorney Albert Conway to proceed at once to St. Louis to give any necessary legal assistance to Detectives Dowd and Roddy. Mr. Conway left on a late afternoon train.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 20.—I. Roy Tyler, who when arrested gave the name of Frank H. McGann, who is being held with his wife, Mrs. Caroline McGann, at Police Headquarters while detectives are investigating McGann's alleged complicity in bank robberies at Brooklyn, N. Y., and Cleveland, Ohio, is named in an automobile robbery circular issued by Chief of Police J. H. Nedderman of Oakland, Cal., it was learned today.

A reporter was questioning McGann in detective headquarters when Chief of Detectives Hannegan handed McGann a copy of the circular.

"Looks like they want you out West, too," Hannegan said to McGann.

McGann carefully read the circular which contained his name with seven aliases, and his wife's name with four aliases. The description also included the Airedale dog.

After finishing, McGann said: "It sure does, Chief," but he displayed no signs of nervousness.

Mrs. McGann told Chief Hannegan that the machine was purchased more than a month ago. She changed her story and said it was bought at Dallas, Texas, two weeks ago and the bill of sale was made in her name.

McGann said he will waive extradition to Brooklyn, N. Y., and his wife said she will go to Oakland to answer any charge which might be brought by authorities there.

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Harding of Kansas City, who were arrested with them, are being held also. The police say they have information involving Harding, but have not made public the details. The quartet is still in jail here.

McGann in explaining his connections with Dr. Harding said he and Dr. Harding planned to engage in business at Kansas City, but never actually entered it.

CONFISCATE DREW'S LIQUOR

Actor's Party Raided by Omaha Police.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., March 20.—Sidney Drew, the screen and legitimate actor, bumped into the "bone dry" law here Wednesday evening, when his private stock of liquors was confiscated by the police. Mr. and Mrs. Drew were entertaining friends in their room at the Fontenelle Hotel when policemen with a search warrant entered.

A black case containing bottles of vermuth, absinthe, Scotch whiskey and port wine lay conspicuously open. The police took the case and its contents and Mr. Drew to the police station, and released him for appearance this morning. The charge of bringing liquor into the State in violation of law was quashed when the actor was arraigned, but the black case and its contents were not returned to him.

On Tuesday night Governor and Mrs. McKelvie were guests of the Drews.

Philadelphia Brewers to Resume.

PHILADELPHIA, March 20.—Following the lead of brewers in several other cities, the members of the Philadelphia Lager Beer Brewers' Association at a meeting today decided, without dissent, to resume the manufacture of beer containing 2¾ per cent. of alcohol. G. W. Bergner, President of the association, said that no attempt would be made to sell the product until a definite ruling had been given as to what constitutes an intoxicating beverage.

Maine Sticks to 3 Per Cent.

AUGUSTA, Me., March 20.—The House today concurred with the Senate in indefinitely postponing the act relating to intoxicating liquors fixing the percentage of alcohol at one-half of 1 per cent. It was stated during the debate that Maine is the only prohibition State having a 3 per cent. alcohol standard.

GATHER LEGAL DATA IN MILD BEER CASE

ONLY ONE SUIT PLANNED

Says Action Will Be Carried to Supreme Court—Settlement Workers to Testify.

Emory R. Buckner, who is associated with Elihu Root, William D. Guthrie, and other eminent lawyers in the litigation under way for the purpose of establishing that beer which contains only 2.75 per cent. of alcohol is nonintoxicating, said yesterday that a vast amount of medical and legal testimony was being gathered for the purpose of proving that beer as mild as is proposed cannot legally be described as "intoxicating."

"There is a large staff assembling this testimony," said Mr. Buckner. "A number of attorneys are preparing the evidence. Lawyers, medical men, research men, chemists, and laymen are also engaged in the work.

"We have found that there is a great deal of medical opinion to the effect that beer with 2.75 per cent. of alcohol is not intoxicating. Many eminent medical men could be called in support of this. In addition to such expert testimony, we will have the testimony of workingmen and other laymen, who can speak from knowledge, and from settlement workers who have observed the results of the use of beer of this type.

"The suit brought by the Jacob Hoffman Brewing Company to restrain the Internal Revenue Collector from forbidding the brewing of beer with such a percentage of alcohol is the only suit which we intend to bring and, if possible, the entire issue will be settled on this case, which will be carried right up to the Supreme Court, if it is possible.

"I understand that some of the brewers are now manufacturing the beer containing 2.75 per cent. of alcohol or less, but I am not fully informed on this point."

"In some of the prohibition States," he said, "light beer of this kind is permitted, but it is impossible to say yet how far such precedents may have weight in this case."

A representative of the United States Brewers' Association said yesterday that the only legal authority which had been found on the question was the practice in the "dry" State of Maine of tolerating beverages containing less than 3 per cent. of alcohol.

"The latest decision in Maine," he said, "was last December, where it was held in a minor court that the seller of a beverage containing only 2.45 per cent. of alcohol was not violating the Maine law against intoxicants. In one previous case a judge in a minor court had instructed the jury that a beverage containing 3 per cent. of alcohol was intoxicating. The appellate tribunal reversed the lower judge, holding this instruction to be erroneous. The rule of acquitting defendants under the Maine liquor law, if they can show that the liquor they sold had not more than 3 per cent. alcohol, has been in effect about fifteen years.

A GALLON of gas goes a long ways in a Hot Spot Chalmers. For the great engine in this remarkable car wrings every last bit of power out of gas.

As soon as it leaves the carbureter the gas hits the Hot Spot (one of two magnificent devices common only to a Chalmers) and there it is "cracked up" into "dust".

So "dry" does this gas become that once it reaches the cylinders and the spark plugs touch it off there is translated immediately almost every single bit of power that nature put into gas.

But to get the "dry" gas to the cylinders from the Hot Spot is no easy matter.

The great Ram's-horn was designed to do this work and it does the task well.

See this device and you'll never forget it. You'll wonder why it wasn't done years ago. But the common every day thing known as a pin, remember, was one of the last things the human mind devised.

One look at this Chalmers car of today and you'll want to sit behind the wheel. One ride there—and you'll want one.

15 Reasons

The Company makes frequent losses by having to take depreciated real estate and pay the lender his principal, but its losses are trifling compared with losses of investment companies on their investments in bonds and stocks.

The well managed savings banks have had the same experience. They have had to take some real estate, but the losses on it have been small compared with the depreciation of the best municipal and corporate bonds which they have to carry by law.

The lesson to all investors, individual and corporate, is that they should increase their mortgage holdings and limit their holdings of fluctuating securities.

What thing can you do best?

Then he bursts out with this characteristic bit of Walt Masonry:

"The down-and-outer looms in view, the symbol of distress; there's doubtless something he could do, and score a big success. What if he failed at making cheese, or keeping lawns in trim? What if he failed at herding bees, and teaching hens to swim? I would not say that bone or wood was used to build his head; I would not say he is no good, until I see him dead. He may have failed at winding clocks, at spreading sealing wax; he may have failed at darning socks, at pulling carpet tacks. But somewhere there's the proper hole where this square peg would fit; so help him reach his little goal, that he may make a hit. He may be built for baking beans or brewing boneset tea, perchance for drilling horse marines, or teaching Cherokee. Perhaps, to make the fellow win, a kind word would suffice; I'd never say a man's all in until he's placed on ice."

REPUBLICANS BALK AT SENATE CAUCUS

FAIL TO FRAME PROGRAM

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 20.—They had a stormy time of it at the conference of Republican Senators which came to a close in the early hours of this morning. Charges that lobbyists for corporations had the run of the Legislature were bandied about, there were signs of an incipient revolt over a proposal to bind the Republican Senators through caucus action to a program regarding which a majority of their number professed ignorance, and finally things got so unpleasant that J. Henry Walters, President pro tem. of the Senate, in a moment of anger threatened to "throw up his thankless job."

It was definitely learned today that the secret conference here of the Executive Committee of the Republican State Committee, far from having a steadying effect on the Republican majority in the Legislature, if anything, has made things worse. Senator Walters himself freely announced today that he would the bill out of committee and up for de-regardless of anything that was decreed at the Executive Committee meeting. Senator Walton of Ulster made it known that he had arranged for a hearing on his State Convention bill before the Assembly Judiciary Committee preparatory to a determined effort to get the bill out of committe and up for debate on the floor of the House.

It came to light today that Chairman Glynn of the Republican State Committee had caused to be prepared a bill providing for reorganization of the Public Service Commission, and that as yet he had been unable to find any one willing to introduce it. The proposal, however, led to the report that the Republican legislative leaders may be unable to carry out their agreement with Governor Smith arrived at by Senator Walters and Speaker Sweet of the Assembly at a conference a week ago.

At the conference last night Senator Walters was taken to task severely by Senator Thompson for "making a deal" with the Democratic Governor without first consulting his Republican colleagues in the Senate. Senator Thompson declared he regarded the Governor's proposed reorganization of the Public Service Commission for the First District as of public utility corporation origin and declined to help its enactment.

The threat of Senator Walters to resign his leadership was made during the discussion of the proposal to bind the Republican Senators to the Republican legislative program which, so far as could be learned tonight, has not even been fully evolved.

The proposal to caucus the Republican Senate majority on an entire party program was the outgrowth of a suggestion by Senator Walters, following a heated discussion on municipal ownership measures, that the Republican Senators go into caucus and decide against municipal ownership legislation of any kind at the present session.

The night conferences are to be continued next week beginning Wednesday.

WHITE PLAINS, March 20.—Helen Barry, an eleven-year-old girl, testified before Justice Tompkins and a jury in the Supreme Court today against Annie Murphy, the matron of the Yonkers Day Nursery, who is on trial for manslaughter in having as alleged, through neglect, caused the death of one of the babies in the institution.

Breakfast at the nursery, the witness said, consisted of oatmeal and mush without milk or sugar. Luncheon was "soup without any flavor and bread when Mamma came." Cocoa without milk or sugar and bread was the menu for supper, she said. When she wrote a letter to her mother, Miss Murphy, she said, told her what to say.

"She told me to tell her," continued the witness, "that we had meat to eat and everything was nice in the nursery. I wrote that my brother Willie had been taken to the hospital and Miss Murphy rubbed it out."

Her brother died in a hospital after Charles H. Warner, Superintendent in Yonkers of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, had closed the nursery. To counsel for the defense the witness said that she had not told her parents of conditions at the nursery because Miss Murphy was always near by and she had not told her teacher because she feared the teacher would tell the matron.

gave the visit more thought and concluded that I would get off at Baltimore instead and not bring my troubles into her home. I remained in Baltimore until I returned to this city."

Dr. Wilkins said that his sole reason for shaving off his beard was to enable him to surrender personally to District Attorney Weeks at Mineola before he was apprehended elsewhere. By means of his changed appearance he said he was able to elude the police for forty minutes in the Pennsylvania Station while he was waiting for Mr. Friess, his attorney, to reach there in response to a telephone call he had made to him.

"When I arrived in New York at 7:30 o'clock I immediately telephoned to my attorney," he said. "I had already purchased a ticket for Mineola, and intended going out on the 8:10 train to surrender myself. For forty minutes I walked around the station, and nobody recognized me. Friess did not arrive, and I missed the 8:10 train. A few minutes later a policeman touched me on the arm and said he wanted me to go to the station with him."

Searched at Headquarters Here.

Before leaving Police Headquarters, Dr. Wilkins was searched. A hypodermic syringe and a quantity of strychnine and morphine tablets were found in his pockets. He admitted to the police that he used drugs moderately.

The trip to Long Beach was made by automobile. En route the physician complained of hunger, and a stop was made while he ate a substantial breakfast. He frequently inquired for his dogs, saying that he had been worried about them ever since he left the city. Before going to the court at Long Beach, Dr. Wilkins was taken to the house, in front of which his wife was murdered. His dogs ran out and jumped around him, but he seemed to be unaware of their presence, until just before leaving, when he petted them a moment. Dr. Wilkins changed his clothes and reappeared in a neat black suit. He wore a black overcoat.

As Deputy Sheriff Plant was leading Dr. Wilkins into the building where the court is held, Louis G. Friess, the doctor's attorney, who was waiting on the steps, accosted him. With a show of joviality Dr. Wilkins called out:

"Hello, Friess; how are you? You caused me a lot of trouble by not showing up last night."

Justice of the Peace Coleman read to Dr. Wilkins the warrant and accompanying deposition which charged him with having killed his wife by beating her over the head with a hammer. Through his counsel he pleaded not guilty and waived examination. Justice Coleman then signed the commitment papers remanding him to the county jail at Mineola.

Answers Questions Freely.

Deputy Sheriff Plant took the prisoner immediately to Mineola by automobile. He was taken into the District Attorney's office and questioned for three-quarters of an hour by Assistant District Attorney Elvin Edwards, William J. Burns, Charles Hansen, finger print expert of Nassau County, and Deputy Sheriff Maurice Cohn. District Attorney Weeks declined to divulge what Dr. Wilkins had told the officials, but he said that the defendant had displayed remarkable self-possession throughout the examination. Dr. Wilkins answered all questions without hesitation, he said, and seemed willing to volunteer information.

At the conclusion of the examination Dr. Wilkins said that he was hungry, and he was taken to a restaurant in the basement of the Court House, where he ate heartily. He was later questioned again by Sheriff Phineas Seaman and William J. Burns.

The statement made by Dr. Wilkins that he had gone to Washington to visit Mrs. Odette Shepherd, his stepdaughter, was challenged by the county officials, who said that they have positive knowledge that she had been in Los Angeles for more than two months. Friends of the Wilkins family have told the District Attorney that the relations between Mrs. Shepherd and her mother and stepfather had been strained for a number of years.

COST $1,000 TO GET IN $700.

Clyde P. Steen, President of the National City Editors' Association, and one of the promoters of the anti-Bolshevik campaign, to finance which it was estimated by the promoters about $1,000,000 would be needed, visited the office of District Attorney Swann yesterday.

He was questioned by Assistant District Attorney Edwin P. Kilroe as to the methods employed in raising funds and also with reference to the telegram that was sent out asking for subscriptions. Mr. Steen said the sending out of the appeal cost about $1,000, and that the receipts totaled not more than $700. He told Mr. Kilroe he would give him a complete report of the financial activities of the organization tomorrow.

This Maxwell Truck has 25,000,000 miles behind it

ONE thousand times around the equator is about the mileage of all Maxwell trucks now in use.

What this tremendous mileage has taught may be found in the Maxwell truck you buy today.

For the keen engineering done in this remarkable carrier of freight has not been laboratory engineering but road engineering.

That is why the Maxwell is so practical, why it is so hardy, why it seldom needs mechanical attention, why it is always a delight for engineers to look over.

It is every man's truck. It is not a road rolling monster. Neither is it light and flimsy. It will carry 80% of the different kinds of loads conveyed by horse or motor.

Surprising, of course, is the chassis price—$1085; several hundred dollars less than any other truck of similar capacity. Quantity production is the reason for this.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The Commander in Chief, in the name of the President, has awarded the Distinguished Service Cross to the following-named officers and soldiers for the acts of extraordinary heroism described after their names:

Maj. Duncan G. Harris, 305th Infantry—For extraordinary heroism in action in Argonne Forest on Sept. 30. During an attack in the Argonne Forest he fell and broke his collar bone, but he continued with his battalion throughout the attack, and until the Meuse was reached. For fifteen days he was continually with his battalion, personally leading them against strongly fortified enemy positions, although suffering acute and continued pain from his injury and being handicapped by having his arm in a sling. Home address, Mrs. Alice Harris, wife, 569 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

No Question of its ENFORCEMENT

THERE has been much speculation as to whether this country would really be "bone dry" in three months, and whether Prohibition would ever go into effect in great cities like New York; but now even the most optimistic have given up all hope of the country remaining "wet."

The Great HOLLANDER STOCKS are GOING FAST!

We must dispose of our enormous reserve stocks of wines and liquors. The House of HENRY HOLLANDER, one of the leading wholesale importing houses in this country, has been conducting a WINE VAULT CLEARANCE SALE through which thousands of cases of finest Vintage Wines and Imported Liquors have been acquired by private purchasers and connoisseurs.

To those who have neglected to provide for their future needs before Prohibition is effective, we now offer without reservation our great stores which were carried for our discriminating wholesale trade, comprising the most exclusive restaurants, hotels and clubs in this City and vicinity.

If you have room to buy in bulk it is to your advantage to purchase Brandies, Ports, Sherries, Gins, and Scotch, Bourbon and Rye Whiskies in this form.

Also we still offer many of the most famous Vintage Champagnes, such as Pol Roger 1906, 1909; Krug 1909; Lanson 1906, and others; as well as authentic Rhine and Moselle Wines and rare Liquors.

We invite your inspection of our stocks.

If not convenient to visit our establishment, telephone or telegraph for our representative, who will bring complete information and price lists.

"Back to Peace Clothes"

IN this moment of laying aside the uniform there surges through the heart of the soldier emotions too deep for words. There are sorrows for departed comrades. There are memories of privation and danger. There are joys of the home-coming. There are hopes for the days ahead.

But no regret, however heavy—no ecstasy, however light—can weigh against the sweet thanksgiving of the mother's heart and the veneration of the nation for him and for her.

LITTLE BEARDSLEY DRAWING FOR $630

Miss Choate's Collection of Edwards Colored Mezzotints, with French Engravings, Brings $5,140.

At an interesting sale of original drawings by Aubrey Beardsley, consigned by Frederick H. Evans of London, in whose possession they have been since they were made, at the Anderson Galleries last evening, the forty-three numbers brought $6,972. The greater number of the drawings were purchased by Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach of Rosenbach & Co., Philadelphia. Twenty-six numbers were illustrations of "Le Morte d'Arthur," five miscellaneous, and the remainder small grotesques from "Bons Mots."

The drawings were small, mounted on sheets of brown paper and framed for the sale only. The larger of the illustrations for "Le Morte d'Arthur" brought the highest prices, "How Tristan Drank the Potion" going to S. Thayer for $630, and the same buyer paid $550 for "Tristan Nursed by Isolde." These were each 11 by 8¾ inches. "Arthur and the Strange Mantle," 11½ by 9 inches, went to Dr. Rosenbach for $560.

Two full-page borders with portraits of Beardsley by F. H. Evans went to G. Wells, the first for $255 and the second for $235. These were each 11 inches by 8½. J. F. Drake paid $140 for "Girl Standing in the Sea," 5¼ by 3¼ inches, and to Rosenbach went, among others, "Knight Carrying His Helmet" for $155; "Dreaming Figure in the Wood," $135; "Piping Down the Valley Wild," $190, and "Three Swans," $150. Two full-page borders, 8½ by 6⅝ and 8½ by 6½, with no pictures, sold for $120 and $130.

In the miscellaneous drawings, "Rejane," a portrait in red pastel and black ink, went to Rosenbach for $270, and "Perseus," with penciled figures on the back, sold to order for $260. The lovely tiny drawing, 4¼ by 2¾ inches, "Pan Down by the River," went to E. Weyle for $200. "A Necromancer and Her Cat" went to J. F. Drake for $170, and the little "Pan Asleep," 3⅜ by 2½ inches, to Rosenbach for $170. John Lane's collection of Beardsley drawings is supposed to have been destroyed by fire at Leipsic, and in that case there will be no other Beardsley collection to go on the market.

Colored mezzotints by S. Arlent Edwards and others, the collection of Miss Caroline Choate, with French engravings from other sources, completed the evening's sale. The latter sold for $5,140 for 126 numbers, making a grand total for the evening of $12,112. Edwards's "Madonna," by Fra Filippo Lippi, went to J. L. Porter for $280, and his "Prince of Orange," after Van Dyck, to D. B. Butler & Co. for $206.

Old and Modern Paintings Sold.

ASSAILS AGITATORS.

Mr. Burleson Says Unions Are Not Discriminated Against.

Postmaster General Burleson, in a letter made public here today, to Secretary of Labor Wilson regarding the labor situation in connection with the Government's control of telegraph and telephone wires, charges that a "few agitators" are continuously conducting propaganda which engenders unnecessary dissatisfaction among employes. The Post Office Department's policies are misrepresented, Mr. Burleson declares, so that the impression is created that the Government discriminates against employes who are members of labor unions.

The Postmaster General asserts that equal treatment in the matter of wages, conditions, and consideration of grievances is given both to union and non-union employes.

The letter of Mr. Burleson deals with a memorandum prepared by Felix Frankfurter, Chairman of the War Labor Policies Board, relative to telephone and telegraph workers, which Secretary Wilson had asked the Postmaster General to consider. Mr. Burleson declares that Professor Frankfurter in studying this situation did not consult the Post Office Department's Wire Control Board, of which Mr. Burleson is Chairman, and that Professor Frankfurter, consequently, failed to learn facts.

"Much of the dissatisfaction which now prevails," the letter reads, "is not due to any failure on our part to remedy claims as to wages or hours or working conditions, but is due entirely to the few agitators and the propaganda which they have continuously conducted."

Denies Award of Croix de Guerre.

In a letter received by THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday, Lieutenant Harold P. Lederman of 913 Walnut Street, Kansas City, Mo., denied that he received the Croix de Guerre for valor at Château-Thierry as was announced in the list of Jewish war heroes compiled in the office of the "War Records of American Jews," and printed on Feb. 24. Lieutenant Lederman said that his regiment, the 30th Infantry of the 3d Division, was cited for bravery in this battle, but he did not receive a personal award.

MUSIC

By James Gibbons Huneker

Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra has not played so brilliantly this season as it did last night at Carnegie Hall. It was the fifth and final evening concert and the program was devoted to three French composers, Lalo, Debussy, Rameau, and one Russian, the now redoubtable and always fascinating Rimsky-Korsakoff. Henri Rabaud conducted. The audience was in a particularly sympathetic mood and the applause spontaneous. The Lalo overture to "Le Roi d'Ys" begins to sound "vieux chapeau." It is well-made, the themes pregnant, and the scoring effective, were it not for the undue preponderance of the drums and other instruments of percussion, and it must be said that Mr. Rabaud did not seek to attenuate their ferocious rataplan. The general performance was rather rough, opaque, and certainly noisy. Not precisely a promising beginning.

Debussy's "Nocturnes" cleared the air. The three numbers of this charming group went better than we had dared to hope, as imagination does not largely bulk in the mental make-up of the French conductor. "Nuages" was not too poetical, but the "Fêtes" was full of sparkle and rhythmic life. Rabaud is nothing if not rhythmic. "Sirenes," with its muffled eloquence, its exquisite nuances, was altogether a delight, especially as the female chorus on this occasion happened to have been trained by Stephen Townsend of Boston. These sirens came over on a special train from the city of the sacred codfish. They sang artistically. We only heard the first part of the "Scheherazade" suite, and that was brilliant and richly colored. There can be no manner of doubt as to the superior playing of this famous orchestral organizations since Henri Rabaud has been at the helm. He has proved an admirable drill master. Last night was the high water-mark of the season. On next Saturday afternoon the band is to play for the last time.

Pianists, Single and Tandem, Fill Day

Pianists, single and tandem, made a Spring holiday of it yesterday at Aeolian Hall. Reuben Davies, a nature musician from Kansas, had the matinée to himself, and gave a scholar's program—an early Beethoven sonata, Op. 2, No. 3; some Chopin and Liszt, as well as Debussy's "Homage to Rameau," and studies of Ganz, Blanchet, and Cyril Scott. Last evening Rose and Otilie Sutro played, with refined taste and mutual understanding, the more unusual piano repertory for two instruments—Brahm's sonata, Op. 34-b, Weber's "Invitation to the Dance," rescored by Rihm; a waltz of Chaminade, Arensky's "Dreamer," Templeton Strong's "Naiads," and Algernon Ashton's "Yoc-cata Brillante." It is not often that the range of the keyboard is tested so searchingly in one day.

Three American Operas Sung Again.

Three American operas, two of them for the second time on any stage and one for its second season, were sung to an interested audience at the Metropolitan last evening. Breil's "Legend" and Hugo's "Temple Dancer," like Cadman's longer-lived "Shanewis," may not draw Caruso houses, but the public finds in them something of its own; it is another case of "Toby's Bow," in which critical opinion salutes the newcomer as a member of the family. The original cast appeared, headed respectively by the Misses Ponselle, Easton, and Braslau, and Mr. Moranzoni conducted.

DIVORCE FOLLOWS NINTH OF MARRIAGES

MORE PEOPLE MARRY, TOO

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—About one marriage in every nine is terminated by divorce. The number of marriages in proportion to the population has increased since 1890, but the divorce rate has increased much more rapidly. The returns for 1916 show 1,050 marriages and 112 divorces per 100,000 population.

These are features of a report on marriage and divorce, covering the calendar year 1916, soon to be issued by Sam L. Rogers, Director of the Census. This report was compiled under the supervision of William C. Hunt, Chief Statistician for Population.

According to the returns, which covered 2,885 counties out of a total of 2,890—no data being available for the missing counties—the number of divorces granted in 1916 was 112,036, or 112 per 100,000 of population, as against 84 in 1906, 73 in 1900, and 53 in 1890.

Excluding South Carolina, in which State all laws permitting divorce were repealed in 1878, the lowest three divorce rates in 1916 are shown for the District of Columbia, North Carolina, and New York—13, 31, and 32 per 100,000 of population, respectively; while the highest three rates are those for Nevada, Montana, and Oregon—607, 323, and 255, respectively. The divorce rates were higher in 1916 than in 1906 for all the States, except eight—Maine, West Virginia, South Carolina (in which there were no divorces in either year), Alabama, Mississippi, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Colorado—and the District of Columbia. In 31.1 per cent. of the cases the divorce was granted to the husband and in 68.9 per cent. to the wife. The latter percentage compares with 67.5 for 1906 and 66.4 for 1896.

The principal causes for divorce and the percentages contributed by them to the total were: Desertion, 36.8 per cent.; cruelty, 28.3 per cent.; infidelity, 11.5 per cent.; neglect to provide, 4.7 per cent.; drunkenness, 3.4 per cent.; combinations of preceding causes, 8.6 per cent.; all other causes, 6.7 per cent. Desertion was reported as the cause of 50 per cent. of the divorces granted to the husband and 30.8 per cent. of those granted to the wife.

In only 37.7 per cent. of the divorce cases were children reported; in 52.1 per cent. no children were reported; and in 10.2 per cent. the records contained no data as to children. Children were reported in 27.8 per cent. of the cases in which divorces were granted to husbands; no children in 58.7 per cent. of the cases; and in the remaining 13.5 per cent. the records contained no data as to children. The corresponding percentages based upon divorces granted to wives were 42.2 per cent., 49.2 per cent., and 8.6 per cent., respectively.

RECEIVERS FOR IRON WORKS

Government, It Is Said, Owes $2,000,000 to Groton Concern.

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 20.—In the Superior Court this afternoon, on the application of the United States Steamship Company, Judge Reed appointed E. O. Cutler, Vice President and manager of the Groton Iron Works, and P. L. Harwood, Treasurer of the Mariners' Savings Bank, temporary co-receivers of the Groton Iron Works.

The writ alleges that the plaintiff has advanced to the defendant, a subsidiary, about $800,000, and that the indebtedness is not secured. It is further alleged that the defendant corporation has claims against the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation under contracts aggregating over $2,000,000 in the Groton plant, and over $300,000 in the Noank plant, which the defendant corporation has been unable to collect.

Charles W. Morse, President of the Iron Works, says that with adjustment of claims against the United States Shipping Board creditors will receive settlement in full.

"Veronica's Veil" Here for a Benefit.

Arrangements are under way to give a performance of "Veronica's Veil," the Hoboken passion play, at the Metropolitan Opera House on April 15, in aid of the New York Foundling Asylum. The third week of the current presentation of the play in St. Joseph's Auditorium, in West Hoboken, will begin with a performance on Sunday afternoon. About 300 members of the 27th Division from Camp Merritt attended a special performance of the play in the auditorium last night.

The Only Spanish Daily Newspaper Published in the United States

What have you to say to the Spanish-speaking community in America?

THERE are from 150,000 to 200,000 people in Greater New York whose language is Spanish. There are a million more in the United States.

The Spanish-speaking resident of the United States is not an "immigrant type". He is coming to New York in increasing numbers, from Spain, the Argentine, Chile, Central America, Cuba—because he has to do business here. Often he brings his family.

The first thing he reads when he lands is La Prensa—a thoroughly reliable daily newspaper printed in Spanish—independent, unsubsidized. La Prensa becomes the link between the affairs of the world—business, social, national—and his own language.

La Prensa stays with him—whether he is a traveling buyer, or a resident representative of rich Latin-American interests.

La Prensa talks to him, guides him in his buying, tells his family where to shop, (he is a good spender) and where to live, eat and find recreation.

La Prensa sells American goods to him.

THE LEAGUE PRINCIPLE.

Controversy gave place to co-operative effort when Senator Lodge in his debate with President Lowell in Boston Wednesday evening declared that he was "in favor of a union of nations in any league, alliance, or society, or whatever name they choose to call it, that would tend to suppress, and in so far as possible secure the world against war." He is "anxious to have the free nations united to do all that can be done to secure the future peace of the world and bring about a general disarmament." It then became doubly clear, what had been evident throughout the debate, that President Lowell and Senator Lodge desire and seek the same thing—an assurance against the horrors of war. Both suggested amendments to the draft of the League Constitution, but both adhered to the principle of the League, a covenant between the nations so far as possible to prevent war. Senator Lodge's position is very far removed from that of Senator Borah and other extreme opponents of the League who have thrown reason, logic, consistency, and prudence to the dogs in their furious desire to assail President Wilson.

To the League, as planned at Paris, Senator Lodge objects, and he indicates some amendments which would meet his objection. The draft of the Constitution would be more acceptable to the Massachusetts Senator if he would take pains to understand it better. The things which chiefly arouse his antagonism are really not in the League, he reads them into it, he imagines them and so battles with unrealities. No man whose vision is not clouded by some prejudice, conscious or unconscious, would any longer dwell upon the groundless and now thoroughly exploded theory of a conflict between the League Constitution and the Monroe Doctrine. Any violation of that American Doctrine in this hemisphere would be in itself a breach of the covenant, it would destroy the covenant and the League. An amendment reserving our rights under the Monroe Doctrine would be but an empty and superfluous formula. It might, therefore, be unobjectionable, but Mr. Lodge can see, any friend of the principle of the League can see, that the attempt to introduce the reservation by amendment would invite and make practically certain other suggestions of amendment which no friend of harmony among civilized nations would desire to have presented.

So, too, with the question of immigration, of racial equality. A racial equality clause was rejected by the Commission when proposed; and it was the sense of the Commission that questions of immigration must be considered as an internal question by each nation. It is an economic matter, not racial, and it is as purely internal and domestic as the tariff. We do not know what Senator Lodge had in mind when he asked his audience "to think well" over Article X. of the Constitution, "that pledges us to guarantee the political independence and territorial integrity against external aggression of every nation a member of the League." He objects that this involves us in the guarantee of the territorial integrity and political independence "of every part of the far-flung British Empire." It involves us also in the guarantee of the territorial integrity and independence of every member of the League, of the new States to which the destruction of Imperialism has given birth.

But it involves not us alone, as the Senator's words would imply, but with us every one of the associated nations. It is a foundation principle. Without that, the covenant would be a meaningless pact. It is the prime purpose of the League to prevent this very thing about which Mr. Lodge advances the precautionary suggestion that we must "think well." Territorial aggressions, assaults upon the independence of nations, are notoriously among the frequent causes of war. Of what use would be a covenant to keep the peace which omitted these provocations to a breach of it? Of course we make guarantees, of course we assume obligations, assured peace can be had on no other terms. The alternative is freedom of territorial aggression and consequent war. That is not what Senator Lodge desires. He declares that he wants to see a League of Nations against war. He will never see one, the world will never have one, that does not make the mutual guarantee of integrity and independence a basic principle.

Those objections to the League plan which were most confidently advanced and have been chiefly dwelt upon disappear with clear understanding of what the plan means. The sacrifice of sovereignty, the loss of control over our own affairs, violation of the Constitution, subordination to the will of foreign Powers, abandonment of the Monroe Doctrine, perpetual entanglement in foreign broils, all these grounds of protest against the plan have been swept away in the course of the discussion. They were unreal, not substantial, most of them were whimsical, none of them has stood the test of candid analysis of the terms of the League plan. There is one ground for objection upon which some opponents of the League have firmly planted their feet, one to which most of them were powerfully attracted even if they did not know it, and which no reasoning or argument can destroy. It is for the people, with their horror of war, to make it untenable. It is the partisan objection, the objection to everything Mr. Wilson does or says. Many Senators, many men of prominence, have opposed the League who would have welcomed it with enthusiasm had it borne a good Republican name, probably any name except that of Mr. Wilson. Those who oppose the League on that ground will have their reckoning with the American people, who, like Mr. Lodge, ardently desire a union of the nations to make right and justice the rule of international conduct and thereby prevent war. That is the purpose, we may say it is the sole purpose, of the League of Nations under consideration at Paris.

UNJUST PREFERENCE.

After much heat and sound and fury of declamation, the Assembly has passed, by a vote of 98 to 28, the proposed constitutional amendment giving veterans, civil or military, of the Spanish and the world wars a preference in civil service examinations and promotions. Against the protests of both the majority and minority leaders, members of both parties voted for the amendment. The objection which so many politicians cherish against civil service reform was cloaked or aided by a sentimental, emotional, and patriotic appeal. One member cried to another:

> Don't you dare, on next Tuesday, to cheer our boys as they march in the Victory parade! Don't you dare to cheer General O'Ryan! Any man who is against this bill is an unprincipled scoundrel.

So fair, rational, and convincing was the argument for this attempt to establish a privileged class and to diminish the efficiency of the State civil service. It is to the advantage of every citizen of the State that its civil service be maintained at the highest possible degree of ability and effectiveness. Fitness, ascertained by the same prescribed tests for all, and without regard to persons or matters extrinsic to merit, is the purpose, the essence, and the basis of that system. It is unjust to all the people of the State to suspend the rule of merit and give privilege to a class, however deserving. It is unjust to the veterans to assume that they are incapable of holding their own with other applicants for posts in the civil service. It is unjust to and an offense against democratic equality of opportunity and treatment to set up a favored and privileged caste and class.

Our soldiers of the European war, our soldiers who fought to liberate Cuba, are put, by their pretended passionate friends at Albany, in a queer light, in a position which must be distasteful to them. They fought for democracy. As their reward democracy is to be driven out of the civil service and class favoritism set up in its place.

Only a minority, a small minority, of the Spanish-war veterans has asked, has for years been asking, this preference. How many world war soldiers of New York have asked for it? Undoubtedly an immense majority of them will repudiate this coddling, offensive to their dignity, to their democracy, and insulting to their abilities, of the spoilsmen. The unforgetable services of our soldiers, our gratitude to and our affection for them, are used by the politicians as a plausible means of smashing civil service reform and injuring the State.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE CONDITIONS.

Ancients who remember "The Henrietta" remember also the extraordinary manner in which an unsophisticated professor enriched himself. He had been "tipped" to sell some stock for profits by the fall. As he had no stock, naturally, in his simplicity, he bought some to sell and found himself enriched by the rise instead of the fall. There is a crude similarity in the movement now in the exchange markets. Francs and pounds are sold by those who want to buy dollars. Dollars are sold by those who want to buy francs and pounds. It is a game of contraries which puzzles even experts at times, especially times like these, when all ordinary weather signs fail. It has long been known that the prices of all foreign moneys were artificial, being made so by the "pegging" of sterling in New York alone. It was a gigantic task, and even England was not able to peg sterling throughout the world. It was bought where it was cheap, and sold here, where it was kept dear, to buy dollars with. That was the "triangular operation" by which goods were bought in one place by debts owing from another place to be delivered in the third place. That is about as clear as the method of selling shares by first buying them seemed to the professor.

It is clear that the discarding of artificial methods of buying and selling exchange means an approximation at least to normal methods. The exchange market is now more closely related to the goods market, and that is a good thing for both parties to the exchange. The cheapness of sterling and francs makes it easier to buy in Paris and London, and thereby encourages their exports, our imports. As francs and pounds are cheaper here dollars are dearer there, which is merely a restatement of the same fact from the other end. The alteration in the relative values of the remittances tends to shift the burden from the credit market to the commodity market by favoring payments in goods instead of by raising credits. Our foreign friends, under present conditions, are relieved by the check to their imports. They are under less necessity of buying dollars, dear now, by promise to return them later with interest, and we take goods instead of supplying credit.

That is the theory, but there are complications due to the lack of shipping to carry our goods away and to bring their goods here. Exchanges should tend to become normal as the supply of both goods and shipping becomes normal. We could hasten the process by paying more for foreign goods, and necessarily buying more francs and pounds to pay for them. Or we could cheapen dollars abroad by renewing foreign credits here, thus reducing the demand for dollars, which rise in value as foreign moneys fall, and vice versa. Speaking broadly, the movement of the exchanges reflects our passing from a debtor to a creditor nation. We no longer have to pay our foreign dues in gold on the old scale, and our foreign friends are under the necessity of adding either money or securities to the goods which they can send us at present.

A YEAR AGO.

On March 21, 1918, Ludendorff flung a million men against the British armies before Cambrai and St. Quentin. All Winter we had been looking forward to this possibility, but without much belief in it; the advantage to the Germans of letting the other side throw its men against intrenched lines seemed so obvious, and the chance of success in any attack of their own so slight, that many people in Washington refused to believe that this was the great attack even after it had begun. We did not know then the uneasiness in the Central Powers which might have made a long-continued defensive war unsafe for the rulers of Germany; we did not know so well as did the commanders at the front that lines could be broken by the tank, and that the Germans had developed a new offensive tactic that promised great results; above all, we did not know the temperament of Ludendorff. And when the papers of that Thursday afternoon told of the beginning of the attack we all supposed that it would be repulsed with terrible loss, leaving things much as they were before.

But Thursday's fighting resulted in German gains; on Friday they gained more, it was evident that they had really broken the line; by Sunday morning we had to face a defeat already serious, threatening to become disastrous. On Sunday, too, we read of the all but incredible long-range gun that had begun to bombard Paris. The British armies were in retreat, the French reserves were apparently doing little to stop the Germans; worst of all, our own armies were still on this side of the Atlantic. And so it went on from day to day, the Germans ever further west. Nothing like the gloom of those days had ever been experienced by any of us but those who could remember the civil war; Frenchmen had to go back to 1870 for a parallel; and nobody in England had ever known anything like it. The Black Week of 1899 had depressed Englishmen over a few unimportant injuries to national prestige; but if Ludendorff won this battle it might mean the downfall of the British Empire.

On the other side there was exultation. Amid the roar of the first day's guns the Kaiser declared: "The prize of victory must and will not fail us; no soft peace, but one which corresponds with German interests." Six days later he was still boasting that "we shall win everything." In the Reichstag speakers were declaring that there must be no more "moderation" such as was shown to beaten Russia; thumping indemnities, huge annexations must punish the western Powers for their will not to be defeated. For a whole week the Germans saw the world in their hands: Frenchmen looked ruin in the face; Englishmen wondered if the course of history had not turned against them, and Americans knew the humiliation of being unable to help our friends when their life and ours was at stake. It was worse than the Marne, for then the British armies were not yet enrolled, the Russian armies were still far away; America and Italy were not yet in the war. This time the world had summoned all its forces against the Germans, and if the battle were lost the world might be lost. The memory of those days still hurts, and will hurt so long as those who lived through them are alive.

Yet in the last days of that first week the tide was beginning to slacken; French pressure had narrowed the expanse of the offensive in the south, the British were not broken in the north. The first really good news came at the beginning of the second week, when on March 28 a great German assault on the British buttress at Arras was stopped in its tracks. On both flanks the Germans were held; their offensive was narrowing day by day, pushing down in a point toward Amiens, finally stopped in front of the city. There were other hard blows—in Flanders in April, on the Aisne in May, toward Compiègne in June; sometimes the danger was almost as great as in March; but the blackness of the first days of the Ludendorff offensive we never knew again. There was a general conviction, based on no very scientific reasoning, perhaps, but justified by the event, that if they failed in the first great rush they could never win.

We know now how close they were to victory a year ago; and it is a thing we may all remember while talking about who won the war. The war could not have been won without our army on the Marne and in the Argonne, but if French and British troops had not stopped the attack in March our army might never have had a chance to help win the war. The imperial person who a year ago today would have no soft peace has just celebrated the sawing of his thousandth log at Amerongen; he might be spending his time very differently but for the steadfastness and courage of the men who fought before Arras and Amiens.

THE FEELING IN SIBERIA.

No news could be better than that sent out by The Associated Press from Washington to the effect that "the situation as regards Japanese influence" (in Siberia) "was clearing." On the authority of the State Department, The Associated Press alleges that the triumph of the peace party in Japan over the war party has lessened and is still lessening the chances of friction. Despite the general view of Japan as a militaristic Power, there has always been an almost even division between those who favored a strong military and foreign policy and those who were more inclined to follow the ways of peace and build up the country internally. The division has been so close that Japan has never entered upon a serious alteration of foreign policy without the matter hanging in doubt until the last moment, ever since the Meiji era began. This time the pacific party is wholly in control.

The war party was in control at the time the friction began between Japan and the United States to which Mr. Ackerman called attention in The Sunday Times recently. It may be that to the remnants of its influence not yet cleared away we owe the ill-feeling toward the United States which is unhappily manifest in Siberia. Nevertheless, we ourselves cannot go wholly blameless. The militaristic party in Japan and in the Japanese Army would never have been able to create an unpleasant impression of the United States in Siberia if we had done our whole duty toward that country. They could not, even if they would, create adverse impressions toward France and Great Britain, because every Siberian can see with his own eyes that those countries have been willing from the first to do everything they could for his country. The Associated Press correspondent at Vladivostok says the Russian feeling against us is not due merely to our "failure to send troops, a hope which has long since been abandoned, but for lack of moral and material support such as other nations are giving."

Granted this feeling of doubt and surprise, gradually chilling into suspicion, it is easy to see how an anti-American propaganda, carried on by certain influences now out of power, might have a fertile field to work on. It is the easier because doubtless the Germans and the Bolsheviki have not been idle in spreading the same ideas. Aside from a few conscienceless Jingoes, no one in this country wishes to have any dispute with Japan. The general feeling here is one of relief over the dominance of men in that country who take the same view that we do.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Regulation Always Has Failed.

Applying to the new bill to legalize boxing matches in this State the long-recognized rule that to learn the crimes which the people of a nation are inclined to commit it is only necessary to read their criminal code, one inevitably arrives at the conclusion that, in spite of the intrinsic innocence and real merits of this form of physical exercise, it is lamentably open to many abuses, and that it can be permitted only when carefully watched and sternly restricted. And that conclusion, as a matter of fact, is not far from being proof that, whatever may be the merits of boxing, they are outweighed, so far as regards its utilization for money-making purposes, by its temptations and dangers.

That has been, too, the lesson of experience. Under none of the laws by which the regulation of boxing has been attempted in the past have scandals many and grave been avoided, and none of the laws has succeeded in making the "athletic clubs" devoted to this specialty other or better than centres from which demoralizing influences spread to considerable distances. Upon most of them has rested the curse that seems to be irremovable from commercialized sports of every kind, and upon none of the other kinds, not even on horse racing, has the curse rested quite as heavily as upon this one. Not all who participate in it are ruffians, nor are all who promote or profit by it dishonest, but the tendency that way has been lamentably strong, and even the respectable exceptions have often been suspected and reprehended by the majority of good citizens.

Amateur Boxing Is Enough.

Whether or not the bill just introduced at Albany would preserve the merits of boxing and eliminate its evils is a matter of opinion, but one must be an optimist indeed to hope with any confidence that this unprecedented result would be achieved. There is no doubt that the bill reads well. It very explicitly recognizes that the sport is not one which, like most others, can be allowed to take care of itself. By its many and strict provisions it admits even more plainly that both boxers and their exploiters, if allowed to follow their natural bents, will fall, in many if not most cases, into criminal courses and will be honest only under compulsion constantly and vigorously maintained.

Perhaps such compulsion could, and possibly it would, be maintained through the operation of this latest device to moralize boxing, but it would be at considerable expense in public money and more in anxiety.

That professional boxing is worth what it would cost to keep it "clean" is at least dubitable. A much simpler course would be to decree a perpetual ban on boxing for money or for prizes that can be turned into money. That would give a perfect protection against all the evils of boxing by removing it from the domain of business, where it has no right to be. Whatever of good there is in boxing can be gained by the real amateurs and the professionals can turn to better trades.

Respectful of High Authority.

Whoever has been discouraged while observing such "signs of the times" as have come to his attention can find both consolation and cause for hope that all is not lost in noting with what eagerness and in what numbers the Bostonians flocked to hear Senator Lodge and President Lowell attack and defend the covenant of peace.

The subject of debate was serious and even solemn. It could appeal only to people with an intelligent interest in international politics, and while the speakers are both eminent men, neither of them has the sort of eminence that excites public curiosity and thereby attracts crowds, regardless of personal feelings or opinions. They are not champion pugilists or sensational revivalists, and though from them words of wisdom could be expected with justifiable confidence, neither was at all likely to indulge in the oratorical fireworks that please the unthinking.

Boston Is No Longer Peculiar.

Yet Symphony Hall was thronged and another throng as large stood moaning outside the doors because there was no more room inside for anybody to sit or stand. This should be distinctly encouraging for those who need encouraging and distinctly reassuring for those who are in want of reassurance. Embittered and stubborn pessimists may say, "Oh, yes, but that was Boston! In other parts of the country—." Much delicacy is no more than is needed to make the answering of that objection safe, but—well, Boston has progressed beyond the stage when all its inhabitants were cloistered scholars or transcendental philosophers, and it is no longer peculiar or a city set apart.

Boston is still great and good—that is gladly and hastily added—and if its Americanism is not quite as much of the old style as it used to be, the change is the reverse of discreditable to the city. What it did, therefore, one can believe any other American city would have done if favored with a like precious opportunity, and all is well with us, or at least as well as could be expected. Whether or not the speeches changed any opinions—that can be left in doubt. A reading of the speeches does not disclose that the eminent gentlemen stand so very far apart. Certainly no unbridgeable gulf yawns between them and there was nothing in what they said to prevent them from shaking hands most cordially when or if they do come together. They argued, but they did not quarrel, and so did they set an excellent example for the rest of us.

Earned and Unearned Income.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In reference to your editorial article of today in which you argue that so-called unearned incomes should be taxed at a higher rate than earned incomes, wouldn't this be an injustice and a hardship in the case of the widow and the orphan?

Already from a third to a half of their incomes is consumed in local taxation in many of our States.

Further, why prejudge it by calling it "unearned"? In many cases a lifetime of saving has "earned" it.

Wouldn't the next mental step of the unthinking be to say: "If unearned then there is no right to any of it"?

H. M. MERRITT.

THE WHITE PEACE.

A call from the sacred silence, from smitten soul and soil:
"Bow ye in consecration—set ye your hands to toil."

Seven times seventy ages have smitten the earth to pain;
Yea, and till seven times seventy the earth has buried her slain;
Forgiving, has smiled her harvests, and yielded her fruit again.

A million low, white crosses, singing the ancient Word:
"Go beat your swords into plowshares! Go forge your tools and live Till Love and Justice conquer—till God and the dead forgive!"

Seven times seventy ages the tale has been the same;
Glory of victor and vanquished, honor and grief and shame.
But never such grief, so costly, such scenes as souls abhor,
And never such glory as ours, naming the Final War!

CHARLES POOLE CLEAVES.

KOREA'S APPEAL.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read your editorial, "Egypt and Korea," and the communication from E. D. Soper of Madison, N. J., with great interest.

I agree with your political philosophy that a people has no right to misgovern itself. But, on the other hand, has a militaristic nation, such as Japan, a right to crush the aspirations of another people on the presumption that the other people is incapable of self-government? By this very theory George III. governed the American Colonies, Metternich oppressed the Italians, and the Central Powers exercised tyranny over the peoples recently liberated by the Allies. If the allied and associated powers permit Japan to keep on oppressing the Korean people on the presumption that the Koreans are incapable of self-government, then they are trampling under foot the very principles for which they fought. All the Korean people ask now is a chance—a chance to prove their capacity for self-government. It must be remembered that the essence of American democracy is equality of opportunity. The Korean people of today are deprived of this inalienable right to develop their potentialities.

Ever since Japan seized Korea, the country has been terrorized by official espionage, and the people have been and still are deprived of primary civil and political rights, unable to express disapproval, repressed and silent. All the Korean periodical literature—all the way from local newspapers to scientific journals—has been completely stamped out. Higher education among the Koreans is prohibited by the Japanese Government, and the Korean students are not allowed to come to America to finish their education. The Japanese language has been made the official tongue, and the study of the Korean language is prohibited in the schools. The Japanese Government in Korea went so far as to make a systematic collection of all works of Korean history and literature and burn them.

In commerce and industry, the Japanese have the complete monopoly. While Korea was independent, all nations enjoyed equal commercial privileges. Now the Nipponese tradesmen practically drive out all other nationals, and have the market to themselves. The Korean merchant cannot compete with his Japanese competitor because of the preferential treatment accorded to the latter by the Japanese Government. All the rights to develop the resources of the country are given to the Japanese, and Korean enterprise, even of the humblest sort, is insidiously hampered by the Japanese. Thus the Korean people are reduced to industrial serfdom, and are forced to submit to Japanese rule through economic pressure.

The above is a brief summary of only a few of the many flagrant injustices to which the Korean people are forced to submit. Korea's appeal to the Peace Conference and to the enlightened public opinion of the West is to have Korea internationalized under the mandate of the League of Nations with the guarantee of complete independence in the future. The accomplishment of this will convert the Korean Peninsula into a zone of neutral commerce to the benefit of all nations. It will also create a buffer State in the Far East which will help prevent aggrandizements by any single power and maintain peace in the Orient. This national reconstruction would eliminate the dangers which Japan faced when no international guarantee effectually maintained Korea's freedom.

The Korean people of all classes are united in this appeal to the Peace Conference and to the Western public. All they ask is simple justice—a fair chance to prove their capacity for self-determination. To deny them this chance on the presumption that they are incapable of self-government is like telling a young woman that she ought to learn to swim but she must not go near the water.

Philip Gibbs's Literary Family.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is an interesting point as to how much of natural ability and how much of acquired talent composes the gift which takes a man to eminence in literature. The distinction which has been won by Philip Gibbs in two hemispheres makes it of interest to point out that he is one of a group of brothers several of whom are notable in letters. Mr. Gibbs was born Philip Hamilton Gibbs. He is one of the six sons of the late Henry Gibbs of the Board of Education (England) and Helen Hamilton. He is thus the brother of Cosmo Hamilton, the well-known dramatist and novelist who, in 1898, legally adopted his mother's surname for family reasons; of Anthony Hamilton Gibbs, whose books dealing with the West Coast of Africa were widely praised, and of Major Arthur Hamilton Gibbs, M. C., Royal Field Artillery, author of "Rowlandson's Oxford," "The Compleat Oxford Man," "Cheadle & Son," and "The Hour of Conflict." The last named, the youngest of the brothers, has had four years of war, and his book experiences entitled "Gunfodder," with an introduction by Philip Gibbs, will be published shortly. The art of writing is evidently born in some families.

"We Want Our Country."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your issue of today, there appears a letter condemning the action of two soldiers in the uniform of the United States in carrying American and Irish flags behind a sign bearing the inscription: "England, damn your concessions, we want our country." Does your correspondent demand that men who served their adopted country in the war should confine their sympathies to Jugoslavs, Czechoslavs, and the various other small peoples, and withhold any support for the cause of liberty where its establishment would interfere with British imperialism? We entered the European war for the purpose of establishing certain universal principles to be applied to all nations, and we, soldiers of Irish birth or blood, would be lacking in manhood if we did not claim for the land of our fathers the same rights which are being conceded to Bohemia, Poland, and other heretofore subject nations.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letters in this morning's Times regarding the St. Patrick Day parade fully express my sentiment. Our city rulers do not need to sanction officially and permit such banners to be carried through our streets. The average citizen does not hold any ill-will toward the British Government.

REBECCA HOLMES.

An Unlucky Seventh Son.

The seventh son of a seventh son is proverbially lucky, but baby John G——, who is the seventh son of a poor family on the east side, has found his six months of life far from fairy-like. Just two months after little John was born his big, strong father died of influenza, and though Mrs. G—— is a happy mother, and very tactful and wise in the training of her seven boys, there has never been quite enough food or fuel or clothing to care for the active family. With so many boys to care for, the oldest only eleven, Mrs. G—— is not able to be breadwinner also, and so the Charity Organization Society is giving her a regular allowance, which she stretches to the limit of its purchasing power. Two hundred and forty-six dollars is needed to provide this for the next six months. Contributions sent to 105 East Twenty-second Street will be promptly acknowledged.

The following contributions for another family are acknowledged with sincere thanks: Mrs. Lucile D. Keep, $5; Cash, $1; Cash, $1; Frederic A. Lucas, $5.

MAY VIEW BELGIAN RUINS.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

BRUSSELS, March 19.—The New York Times correspondent is authorized to state that, beginning June 1, the Belgium Government will allow all persons to visit the devastated areas and battlefields of Belgium. As reconstruction cannot begin immediately, the battlefields will be left intact.

Arrangements are being made by large automobile companies to fetch visitors from Brussels. The trip will include the ruins that were Dixmude and Nieuport, the Four Sluice Gates, which played a part in the history of the war at Ypres, and the cemetery of tanks beyond Kimmelberg. The famous 380mm. gun which bombarded Dunkirk from a distance of forty-eight kilometers is still practically intact, hidden in a small wood, with a complicated railway system for transporting projectiles nearly six feet in length. It took the Germans nine months to set up the gun emplacement.

A few canteens are selling coffee and drinks to travelers, although at present it is unsafe to travel without a revolver, owing to bands of roughs in the devastated areas, who were left by the Germans when retreating to mislead the allied armies, and who will still deceive the unwary traveler.

All the countryside is still covered with barbed wire and camouflage of various sorts. The German camouflage is distinguishable by the cubist touch.

A few families have returned to the heaps of brick and mortar in the last few weeks, and war material is used to make temporary shelters. In some ruined houses old women, who courageously returned, are searching for buried money and treasures, but otherwise desolation reigns over the silence.

"It is almost more lugubrious than when the scream of shells filled the air," said an officer who accompanied The Times correspondent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Representative Richard Smith Whalley of South Carolina, who is identified with the insurgent movement among House Democrats against making Champ Clark the Democratic floor leader in the next Congress, issued a statement tonight calling attention to the fact that Mr. Clark has not yet publicly taken a position on the proposed League of Nations, and expressing the belief that Mr. Clark would be forced into advocacy of the League by party sentiment and by the action of the Democrats of the Missouri Legislature in demanding the resignation of Senator Reed because of his anti-League stand.

"From all I can learn," said Mr. Whalley, "the defeat of the Democratic Party at the last election was due to the fact that the leadership of the party for the past several years was intrusted to hands which led it by the expression of individual views and not the views of the majority of the Democratic members. Whenever a paramount issue was presented to the House, invariably one or more of the Democratic leaders would join hands with those fighting the Executive and the policies he desired enacted into legislation.

"Those of us who do not believe Mr. Clark and Mr. Kitchin have properly led the party and feel they should not be elected as leaders in the next Congress, believe in the creation of a steering committee.

"It is quite apparent to those of us who have watched the Republican Party for many years that there is a transparent reason why Republicans advocate the election of Mr. Clark. The Republicans fully appreciate the fact that through the actions of Mr. Clark and others a division has been created in the Democratic ranks which resulted in the success of the Republican Party last Fall. The continuance of this division would be assured by the election of Mr. Clark as leader, and, therefore, contribute to the success of the Republican Party in the election of 1920.

"I am reliably informed that Mr. Mann, who has just been defeated for the Speakership by the Republicans, is heartily in favor of Mr. Clark, and believes he is the logical leader for the Democratic side. Doubtless the same view is shared by all the Republican reactionaries, who would hail with delight the Democratic members continuing the division in the party and their failure to unite and co-operate with the President."

DEFENDS WAR RISK BUREAU.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Colonel Henry D. Lindsley, the newly appointed Director of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, replied tonight to charges of gross inefficiency and wastefulness made against the bureau by a discharged employe and published widely today.

"The statements made by Thomas R. Dawley, Jr., in his published letter to Secretary Glass of the Treasury Department, dated March 18, with reference to administrative matters of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, are a tissue of falsehoods," said Col. Lindsley.

"Mr. Dawley had a full hearing by the assistant to the Director of the bureau and, in the presence of Representative P. P. Campbell of Kansas, he presented his case very fully to Mr. Shouse, the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury having jurisdiction over the War Risk Bureau.

"Mr. Dawley's resignation from the bureau was requested because of his utter unfitness. In the reorganization of the bureau there is being conducted a careful individual investigation as to the value of service rendered to the Government by each of its employes. As rapidly as cases of individual incompetency are developed the chief of the division involved will recommend to the Director the discharge of such persons from the Government service. In each case a member of the Director's staff will personally review the case and give the one involved full hearing. If the conclusion is then reached that the Government is being improperly served, such person will be discharged from the Government employ. Statements of discharged employes will not be made the basis for individual replies by the Director."

BORDEN OFFER STILL OPEN.

Not Improbable That He Will Be Ambassador to Washington.

PARIS, March 20.—Reuter's Limited understands that the offer of the British Ambassadorship at Washington to Sir Robert L. Borden, the Canadian Premier, is still open.

Sir Robert has not yet made a decision, but it is said that it is by no means improbable that he will accept.

AMERICAN ARTISTS TO EXHIBIT IN PARIS

William A. Coffin, President of the Committee for the Exhibition of American Art, to be held by invitation of the French Government in the Luxembourg Museum, has just given out a statement concerning the method by which the names of the artists were chosen and the final complete list of these names together with the titles of the works to be exhibited. The method is a novel one and a decided improvement upon the ordinary jury system.

The American collection has been made up by invitation, the choice of the artists represented having been made by each of the twelve painters on the committee naming individuals in turn until the limit set was reached. To these were added one work by each of the members of the committee. Each work was selected by two members delegated by the Executive Board, consulting with the artist invited. The total of paintings is 125. When an artist could not accept the invitation, the member who named him chose another to take his place. The three sculptors made up their lists in conferences at the meetings of the full committee, apart from the deliberations of the painters, and the painters did not vote on sculptors nor the sculptors on painters. The total number of pieces of sculpture is twenty-four. Finally the entire collection when assembled was passed in review before the full committee at a meeting held for the purpose and was approved by common consent. A committee of three American artists in Paris will select works by Americans residing in France and England or who are there at the present time. John S. Sargent, J. J. Shannon, and W. Elmer Schofield in England; W. T. Dannat, Walter Gay, F. K. Frieseke, Janet Scudder, and others in France will thus probably be represented.

Many artists of reputation are not represented because of the limited size of the collection, but a special effort has been made to include prominent artists in other localities than New York and vicinity so as to give the collection the most representative character possible.

PARIS TO CONSTANTINOPLE.

PARIS, March 20.—A fast train service from Paris to southeastern Europe to replace the famous Orient Express, it became known today, was discussed at a meeting this week of diplomatic representatives of Great Britain, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Serbia, Rumania, Greece, and France, under the Chairmanship of Albert Claveille, French Minister of Public Works.

The new route would run through the Simplon tunnel and Milan, Venice, Trieste and Belgrade. Later it would be continued to Bucharest and to Constantinople.

There is under consideration the question of a suspension bridge across the Bosporus at Constantinople, over which connection would be made with the German-built line to Bagdad.

ROOSEVELT SPEECH RECALLS HIS FATHER

WIFE WINS PLAUDITS, TOO

Both Tell of Army Life, and He Criticises Some of the Banners in St. Patrick's Parade.

Old Republicans of New York, who remember when Colonel Theodore Roosevelt first appeared upon the political horizon, were visibly surprised and affected last night when the Colonel's eldest son, Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, returned only recently from active service in France, made his first public speech from the platform at the Republican County Committee meeting in Bryant Hall.

For upward of an hour young Roosevelt held an audience that filled the hall spellbound by his simple delivery of a tale of war.

So thoroughly characteristic of the elder Roosevelt were many of the speaking methods of the son that old-timers said they thought they were listening all over again to the famous man who broke into political life in New York City back in the eighties when he was a candidate of the same organization for the Assembly at Albany.

The younger Roosevelt wove the old time, engaging T. R. spell, and the audience, two-thirds of whom were women, stood up and cheered him long and loud. After the meeting the men crowded the women aside in their efforts to grab the speaker's hand and tell him how much he reminded them of his dad.

Wife Wins Honors, Too.

Even at that, Lieut. Col. Roosevelt didn't carry off all the honors. His wife, who was Miss Eleanor Butler Alexander before her marriage, spoke for about the same length of time, telling of her experience in Y. M. C. A. work in France, and the women part of the audience particularly expressed their appreciation of her convincing and winning personality.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt had been invited by Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, to address the members of the committee on their war experiences. The announcement brought out the largest crowd the County Committee has had in years. The Roosevelts took seats with a number of friends down in the audience, but when the meeting started there was a clamor for them to go to the platform.

"Three cheers for the Roosevelts!" yelled a man in the audience, and the crowd stood up to give them. Mrs. Roosevelt, in the costume of the Y. M. C. A. war worker, spoke first, and it was her first appearance on a public platform. She was cheered again and again as she told of her work in France among the soldiers on leave.

Clad in his army uniform "Young Teddy," as a man in the crowd called him, then strode to the speakers' table and captivated the audience at once by exclaiming with a grin, which lacked the famous dental display of his illustrious father, but nevertheless was just as captivating, that, "It's bully to be home." There were yells and cheers at this and Mr. Roosevelt, without any trace of self-consciousness, went on:

"This is the first time I've spoken since I came back from France and I am happy and proud to speak before the Republican County Committee in the city that has all the memories of my family."

The thought of the famous Roosevelt ran through the audience and it was several minutes before the Lieutenant Colonel was able to proceed.

"Although the minority party during the war," he went on, "the Republican Party led the fight for an aggressive war, and it led it aggressively whenever the party had a voice."

That sentiment was thoroughly approved by the audience also, and then the speaker said he would tell only of incidents in the everyday life of the everyday soldier.

He told how the men in his regiment slept in barns on the hay in the various villages where they were quartered. For himself, he said he slept in a house where a thin partition separated him from a cow, and when the cow slept he slept.

Describing the events that led up to the beginning of one battle, Lieut.-Col. Roosevelt said his men had been given a short leave and sent to a village near Paris. They had barely reached there when word came that they must return to the front.

"Although they had no sleep for two nights," he said, "the men didn't grumble. They liked it. They went back singing and cheering. We lay in a woods all one day planning the counterattack which took place on July 18. The men slept the night of July 17 and the next night attacked in a driving rain. So little time did they have that, although the men got into position at 4:10 A. M., they attacked at 4:35. There was merely five minutes of an artillery preparation, and then the attack began.

"All up and down the line it was hard to restrain the men. There were constant yells of 'Let's go.' We had planned a surprise, and we did surprise them. We went right through to their artillery. If you can do that, you know, you have drawn the enemy's fangs.

"There were all kinds of men in my regiment. One Lieutenant was a former city editor of The Cleveland Plain Dealer. Another was an ex-State Senator from Washington. Not more than 10 per cent. of my regiment were regulars. Ninety per cent. were national army men and members of National Guard. All creeds and races were represented. And not one of these men but would have knocked down the first man who said they were not good Americans."

Mr. Roosevelt referred to some of the banners carried in the recent St. Patrick's Day parade, one of which had the inscription, "England, Damn Your Concessions; We Want Our Country."

"I have no sympathy with the people who feel that way," he said with earnestness, thrusting out his jaw and advancing to the front of the platform. "If they feel that way, I wish they would go back to the country from which they came."

A big cheer went up from the audience, and the speaker continued:

"We have got some pretty big problems before us. Now the men are all coming back. More than 90 per cent. of them are young men and they've lived that type of life from two years to six months. They have got any amount of potentiality for good in them, but they also are restless. Every one in this country has got to give attention to seeing that those energies are turned in the right direction. The future of this country will depend a lot upon what slant we will take in dealing with these men.

Before Mrs. Roosevelt was introduced, Miss Helen Varick Boswell, Vice Chairman of the committee, took the chair. Mrs. Roosevelt, in telling how the men were entertained at rest areas under the supervision of the Y. M. C. A., said that the English and French soldiers could go to their homes when on leave, but the Americans had to be taken care of in other ways.

"I cannot say enough regarding the behavior of the American men on leave," said Mrs. Roosevelt. "The police force was small but it was not needed. A more decent, self-respecting body of men cannot be imagined."

After the meeting Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt held an impromptu reception in the hall, the members eagerly shaking their hands and welcoming them home. A crowd also waited on the sidewalk outside and cheered them as they departed.

HAYWARD GUEST OF CLUB.

Commander of Negro Regiment Says Not a Man Was Captured.

Colonel William Hayward, commander of the 15th Regiment of negro troops, was the guest of honor at a dinner last evening given by the Circumnavigators Club, of which he is a member, at the Hotel Commodore. Newton W. Gilbert, President of the club, was toastmaster.

After receiving the praise of the chairman and ex-Governor Charles H. Whitman, Colonel Hayward told of the deeds of his men at the battle of Champagne, which he said "was the decisive battle of the war."

"Americans," he said, "should not be arrogant about the success of the war just concluded. I will admit that we helped a good deal and the final victory was really ours, but the armies of France, Britain, and Belgium had been winning the war every day until we got there. The American army lost dreadfully in the brief time that it was in the fighting.

"As soon as my regiment reached France it was transformed into a French one. We received French rifles, French knapsacks and guns; in fact, the only thing American that we had was our uniform and the shoes, when we had them. We also had a French commander, General Gouraud, for whom I cannot say enough. He had the most splendid, the bravest, finest, and most efficient organization that I have ever seen operated. I must also praise the German soldier, and if anybody says that the German did not fight it would mean that the American did not fight. We did and it was a darned hard fight, too!"

Speaking of the bravery of his "babies," Colonel Hayward said that in 191 days of terrible fighting the 15th never had a man captured by the German army. "No regiment in any other army could say the same. They would die gladly, but captured, never."

He then told of the battle of Champagne in which, through the directions of General Gouraud, the Germans opened fire on empty front line trenches, and following this, Hayward's men counterattacked, with the result, he said, "that almost every woman in Germany was wearing a mourning band two days later."

Again showing the "modest magnanimity" of the Allies, he said that when it came to decide which regiment would be the first to lead the Army of Occupation into Germany, the French said, "Hayward and the Stars and Stripes must go before the Tricolor or the British flag or any other flag on earth."

Old French Armchair Brings $660.

There were returns of $10,000 for the first day's sale of antiques of Robinson & Farr, Philadelphia, at the Clarke Galleries yesterday afternoon. A seventeenth century French armchair upholstered in grospoint brought the highest price, going to Mrs. E. A. Shewan for $660. A Louis XV. walnut chair in petit point went to Ginsburg & Levy for $400 and an eighteenth century English walnut settee to Mrs. William Thaw for $115. An eighteenth century English painted settee went to Mrs. Ernest Iselin for $130, and Stuart Walker paid $100 for an eighteenth century black and gold settee of the Heppelwhite order. A three-piece silver tea service dated 1830 went to James Elsworth for $220. Irvin Cobb paid $180 for an antique French gilt mirror. The sale will be continued this afternoon.

Joseph A. Blakes to Return in June.

Colonel Joseph A. Blake, M. D., and Mrs. Blake of Paris have changed their plans and instead of waiting until next Autumn to return and make their home here, they are booked to sail late in May and will bring their three children with them. They will arrive here in June and spend only a few days in town, and will probably spend the Summer in Newport.

F. A. SCHERMERHORN DROPS DEAD IN CLUB

Frederick Augustus Schermerhorn, capitalist, philanthropist, and educator, dropped dead in the Union Club last night as he was addressing the guests at a dinner given to the Governors of the Club by its President, Charles Frederick Hoffman. Mr. Schermerhorn, who was 75 years old, faltered in the midst of his speech, then fell into the arms of the old friends who hurried to him. He died in a few minutes. Dr. James F. Nagle of 16 West Fifty-fourth Street, who was summoned hurriedly, found that he had had a stroke of apoplexy, and that he was beyond help. The Coroner then was notified.

Mr. Schermerhorn, whose home was at 101 University Place and whose office was at 25 Liberty Street, had not been active in business in the last few years. He had devoted himself largely to the interests of the New York Trade School, of which he was a Director and Treasurer.

Mr. Schermerhorn was born in New York, Nov. 1, 1844. He graduated from the Columbia School of Mines in 1868 after having interrupted his studies to serve in the civil war. He was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the 185th New York Infantry on Dec. 27, 1864, and became a First Lieutenant Jan. 25, 1865. He served in the army of the Potomac and was mustered out in 1865 after having been breveted a Captain for gallant conduct at the battle of Five Forks. After resuming his studies and later while pursing his business career, Mr. Schermerhorn served seven years in the National Guard of his native State.

Beside his business interests Mr. Schermerhorn devoted much time to the cause of education, having served many years as a Trustee of Columbia University, and having been largely instrumental in the upbuilding of the New York Trade School, of which he was Treasurer and Trustee at the time of his death. He was a member of the American Geological Society, the St. Nicholas Society, the Loyal Legion, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and the American Museum of Natural History. Among the clubs of which he had been a member were the Metropolitan, Century, City, Knickerbocker, Tuxedo, Coaching, Westchester Country, New York Yacht, Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht, Mendelssohn Glee, and Riding.

PAULINE MARKHAM DIES.

Pauline Markham, a veteran actress, who was known throughout the country many years ago, died yesterday from hardening of the arteries at her residence, 438 West 23d Street, after a long illness. She retired from the stage thirty years ago when her leg was broken. In private life she was Mrs. Jean Gravel.

She was born in 1847 in England, where she made her stage début when still a child. She came to New York and appeared in the famous "Black Crook" of Niblo's Garden fame. With the closing of the "Black Crook," she played in "Pinafore."

For several years before her retirement Miss Markham appeared in a dramatic sketch with Catherine Dana, making her last appearance at Tony Pastor's. There will be a funeral service at the Campbell Funeral Church at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

WILLIAM J. HANNA DEAD.

William John Hanna, K. C., of Sarnia, Ont., President of the Imperial Oil Company of Canada, died yesterday at Augusta, Ga., where he went for his health three weeks ago. He never rallied from an attack of heart disease suffered on Wednesday. He was fifty-six years old.

Mr. Hanna began life as a school teacher and saved enough money to put himself through college and law school. A few years after being admitted to the bar he entered political life and became Provincial Secretary for Ontario.

In 1916 Mr. Hanna was appointed Food Controller for the Dominion and at once announced a policy of co-operating with Herbert Hoover.

Cephas Brainerd Rogers.

Cephas Brainerd Rogers, who died at Meriden, Conn., on March 15 at the age of 81, was one of the founders in 1866, with his two brothers, of the firm of C. Rogers & Brothers, silverware manufacturers of Meriden. Upon the incorporation of the firm in 1899 he became its President. Later the company was united with the United States Silver Company, and in 1902 the combined property was sold to the International Silver Company. A year later Mr. Rogers retired from active business.

BUSINESS EXECUTIVES—

I AM a young man (24), single; Christian, college education, with every essential qualification except business experience. Recently I was discharged from the army (aviation); am in good health, and now wish to secure a position with a first-class business house where I can make the right kind of start.

I AM not seeking merely a job; I am desirous of making a worth-while connection where I will be placed under the direct supervision of an executive who knows how to develop, discipline and train his men.

A Breakfast Suggestion

Fried Sausage With Gravy. Lay slices of Jones Dairy Farm Sausage meat on a very hot iron frying-pan, and turn them as soon as they are well browned. As soon as the second side is browned they should be set into a hot oven to finish cooking.

Remove from the pan the instant they are done, and keep hot while making gravy. Add dry flour to the fat in the pan and let it brown as much as you dare to—then brown it a little more.

Remove from the fire while adding boiling water (one-half pint for each tablespoon of flour); stir till it is smooth and all the glaze in the bottom of the pan is dissolved, then return to the fire to boil for two minutes.

A Luncheon Dainty

Pork Loaf. 2 lbs. Jones Dairy Farm Sausage, 1 lb. steak chopped, 4 slices bread (soaked in milk), ½ onion (chopped), 2 eggs, salt, pepper and mace, grated rind lemon, 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Mix ingredients thoroughly. Grease a pan with butter or lard, place loaf in it, dust over with bread crumbs and bake in medium oven. Baste with melted lard several times. When done, serve hot.

For the Home Dinner

JONES DAIRY FARM SAUSAGE

Made in both meat and link styles and serves as the basis for a number of easily prepared and appetizing dishes.

It contains no cereal or preservative—just choice young pork, delicately spiced, made after the same old-time farm recipe we have been following for over thirty years. Only enough is made at a time to fill each day's shipments, bringing it to your table in perfect condition.

Tweedledee and Tweedledum

Why choose this flour or those shoes, this tire or that cigarette?

When will it be all standardized into the dreary monotony of the one and only accepted brand in each line?

Never! let us hope. Never, as long as people enjoy the distinction of some individuality and freedom of choice.

Therein lies the opportunity of the second brand, and the third, and the fourth.

For no sooner has the first brand succeeded in establishing its undisputed and dominating leadership than the perversity of human nature, seeking an opportunity of choice, creates the real chance for the contender.

Protection First

That is the vital function of the really good shoe, is it not? And yet what real, genuine protection do YOUR shoes give you?

Do they prevent you from feeling all the thousands of jars of walking on city pavements? Do they keep your feet perfectly dry and warm? Are they an asset in the stress of metropolitan life?

GIANTS START TRIP FOR PENNANTVILLE

YANKEES TO GO TOMORROW

Manager Huggins Will Assemble Players at Jacksonville Monday—Robins Already There.

The first move of the Giants toward the National League pennant for 1919 was made last evening, when a party of players started on the trip to Gainesville, Fla., where McGraw will put his squad through a course of training. The first batch of players were in charge of Secretary John B. Foster, and in the party were Heinie Zimmerman, Hal Chase and Mrs. Chase, Larry Doyle, Lew McCarty, George Burns, all regulars, and Rosie Ryan of Holy Cross, and Terhune of the Bronx, two recruit pitchers, Jack Gillespie, a local infielder, and a young pitcher who calls himself Cleary. This lad has decided to withhold his real name from an anxious public until he learns whether he is good enough to stick with the Giants.

The players are due to reach Gainesville on Saturday. Manager McGraw will be there by that time, and practice will probably start on Sunday or Monday. Bob Steele and Frank Noel, pitchers, joined the party in Philadelphia last night, and two rookie twirlers, Rommel and Lyons, were picked up at Washington. Benny Kauff and his bride will go to Florida from Lancaster, Ohio, where Benny was married Wednesday, and Eddie Sicking will go from his home in Cincinnati. Captain Art Fletcher, Clarence Pitt, on outfielder, and George O'Neill, a recruit catcher who will go to Rochester, will all leave from St. Louis today. Jim Thorpe starts from his ranch in Yale, Okla.; Jess Barnes from Circleville, Kan.; Earl Smith from Hot Springs, Ark.; Tod Miller from Chicago, Wilbert Hubbell from Buhl, Idaho; Ross Young and Jesse Winters from San Antonio.

Al Baird, the promising young infielder, and John Paul Jones, the rookie pitcher, together with Pol Perritt, will leave today for Florida from Shreveport, Ga. Fred Anderson and John Calhoun Benton will leave from their homes in Fayetteville, N. C., while Ferdie Schupp will go from Louisville. Frank Polan, a young catcher, who played on Benny Kauff's soldier team at Camp Sherman, will go from Cleveland.

Gainsville, where the Giants will train, is the home of the University of Florida, and the college authorities have given the club the use of the grounds and gymnasium.

McGraw's main task this year is to build up a pitching staff. The outfield with Burns, Kauff, and Young is as strong as any in the league, and the experienced infield made up of Chase, Doyle, Fletcher, and Zimmerman should be able to hold its own with any of them for another season or two. McGraw will probably get another catcher to aid McCarty and Earl Smith, and his only worry is really the pitching staff.

If Schupp should return to the form he displayed two season ago, when he was the best southpaw in the game, the pitching problem will be solved. Barnes, Benton, Causey, and Perritt are all dependable boxmen, and McGraw believes that at least two of the youngsters, Jessie Winters and Sidney Ross, will be good enough to retain places on the staff.

Yanks Start South Tomorrow.

The advance guard of the Yankees will get away at 1 o'clock tomorrow for Jacksonville. In the party with Lieut. Col. T. L. Huston, Secretary Harry Sparrow, and Coach Pat O'Connor will be Herb Thormahlen, Frank Kane, George Mogridge, Ping Bodie, Alex Ferguson, and Derrill Pratt. At Philadelphia, Bob Shawkey will join the club, and Allan Russell, Wilson Fewster, and Scout Joe Kelley will join at Baltimore.

With the exception of Frank Baker, who has been given permission to report when the season opens, and Dutch Leonard, who is still unsigned, the entire Yankee squad will report at the Hotel Burbridge, Jacksonville, on Sunday night, and will start practice on Monday at South Side Park. Manager Miller Huggins left his home in Cincinnati today and will be in Jacksonville to meet the players.

Johnny Jones, an infielder, who was signed last Fall while at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, is now on the U. S. S. Ohio, and will join the club just as soon as he is discharged from the navy; also pitchers Bob McGraw and Walter Smallwood, who are in Germany with the Army of Occupation.

The team will remain in Jacksonville until April 14, when they will begin a series of games with the Brooklyn National League Club, playing in Brunswick, Ga., on April 14, Orangeburg, S. C. on April 15, Goldsboro, N. C., on April 16, and Newport News, Va., on April 17. In addition to the three games with the Brooklyn Club on March 29, April 15 and April 12, the two clubs will play seven-inning practice games on Tuesday and Thursday of each week, beginning April 3.

Dodgers Already on the Way.

With Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Dodgers and several of his pitchers already enjoying the sunny Florida climate at Jacksonville, the last of the players left this city yesterday afternoon for Florida. Shortstop Ollie O'Mara, Tom Griffith, the outfielder from Cincinnati and Gene Sheridan a recruit infielder sailed yesterday on the Comanche. Cadore, Pfeffer and Miller are already in Jacksonville and Al Mamaux will arive today.

Shortstop Olson from Los Angeles, Captain Zach Wheat from New Polo, Kan.; Hy Myers from Kensington, Ohio; Ernie Kreuger from Mesa, Ariz.; Jack Snyder from Youngstown, Ohio; and Ray Schmandt from St. Louis are all on their way to camp and will start work on Monday, when Manager Robinson expects that twenty-five of his athletes will be on hand. Jimmy Hickman will not report for several days, as he is recovering from an attack of influenza.

Brooklyn has two holdouts, Burleigh Grimes, the pitcher, and Bill Kopf, the infielder, who was obtained from Cincinnati in the trade for Jake Daubert. Manager Robinson expects that both of these players will be in line before the training season is over.

A. A. U. Clears Joe Loomis.

CHICAGO, March 20.—Joe Loomis, track star of the Chicago Athletic Association, was cleared today of charges of professionalism made by officials of the Central A. A. U. because he had written articles on athletics for a newspaper. Loomis agreed to donate the money he had received to the purchase of a trophy which will be contested for in an A. A. U. meet.

QUAKER CREW TO BE BUSY.

Oarsmen's Schedule for Season Will Be a Trying One.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 20.—John Arthur Brown, Chairman of Pennsylvania's Rowing Committee, tonight gave out the Quakers' boating schedule. It is as follows:

April 12, with the United States Naval Academy, at Annapolis; 'Varsity, second 'Varsity, freshman, and probably the "tacker" crew of 150 pounds or under, all to be rowed at the Henley distance of 1 mile 550 yards.

May 17, Childs Cup race with Princeton and Columbia on Carnegie Lake, at Princeton. There also probably will be races for second 'Varsity and freshman crews.

"From what I hear," said Mr. Brown tonight, "the American Henley undoubtedly will be the best regatta of the year. Annapolis, Princeton, Columbia, Syracuse, and the Union Boat Club of Boston, made up of ex-Harvard 'Varsity men, all will be in the fray.

"Also, we hope," continued Mr. Brown, "that Cornell may be able to send down its 'Varsity crew, and that Yale and Harvard will be represented by their second 'Varsity crews. In the case of Cornell, it depends much upon what the Ithacans have done in the early season.

"If any other crew wants to come into the Childs Cup race at Princeton, we shall welcome it. In other words, we shall row anybody, anywhere, if the scholastic requirements do not interfere."

TIGERS SET CREW DATES.

Princeton Oarsmen Have Four Events on Schedule.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 20.—Princeton will meet all her traditional crew rivals in the 1919 crew schedule as given out today by the Board of Athletic Control. Princeton will have only one home race, the Childs Cup race on Lake Carnegie, May 17, in which Pennsylvania and Columbia will be her opponents.

The Tiger eight will row the Navy and probably Harvard on the Severn in the opening race of the season, April 19, and two weeks later will row Yale at New Haven. The last race of the season will be against Cornell at Ithaca, the big Red crew having rowed here last year. While the schedule contains only four regattas it is thought to be one of the best ever arranged for the Orange and Black crew.

The schedule:

CUBS BEAT 'VARSITY CREWS.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 20.—The Harvard freshman crew sprang a surprise this afternoon by defeating the first three eights of the university squad. The yearlings rowed a game and fast race, and after the first quarter mile of the Henley distance had opened up a lead which they held until the finish.

Crew B, stroked by Captain Whitman of the 'Varsity, finished second, a length and a half behind the winners. Crew C was third and Crew A a hopeless last, because one of its oarsmen caught a crab.

19 GAMES FOR PRINCETON.

Tiger Baseball Team Will Open Season April 12.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 20.—The 1919 Princeton baseball schedule was announced today. Princeton will meet practically all of the teams that had places on the 1917 schedule, and will, as usual, meet Harvard and Yale in the usual series of games. The Tigers will also play Penn twice. The season will open with the Swarthmore game on April 12.

The schedule:

April 12, Swarthmore at Princeton; April 16, Villa Nova at Princeton; April 19, Columbia at New York; April 23, Holy Cross at Princeton; April 26, Syracuse at Princeton; April 30, Lafayette at Princeton; May 3, Cornell at Princeton; May 7, Virginia at Princeton; May 10, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; May 14, Fordham at Princeton; May 17, Harvard at Princeton; May 21, Dartmouth at Princeton; May 24, Harvard at Cambridge; May 28, Georgetown at Princeton; May 31, Yale at New Haven; June 4, Colgate at Princeton; June 7, Pennsylvania at Princeton; June 10, Rutgers at New Brunswick; June 14, Yale at Princeton.

LEWIS AND ZBYSZKO READY.

A record crowd is expected at Madison Square Garden this evening, where Ed (Strangler) Lewis and Wladek Zbyszko will wrestle to a finish, catch-as-catch-can style. The promoters report unusual interest in the match, as there has been a heavy demand for the tickets.

The grapplers are said to be in superb shape. Lewis will rely chiefly on his dangerous headlock, which has caused the downfall of many grapplers who have faced him in the past. Zbyszko will use his toe hold, which is his favorite method of attack. George Bothner, himself a veteran of many mat bouts, has been selected to referee the bout.

A fall has been guaranteed by the management. It has been announced that if the bout fails to result decisively admission money will be refunded. This guarantee is calculated to restore interest in wrestling and eliminate the tediousness that has attended bouts in the past.

Inasmuch as no limit has been placed on the match, it is planned to have Lewis and Zbyszko take the mat promptly at 9 o'clock. This, it is expected, will give the combatants plenty of time to reach a decision before midnight.

RENZ RETURNS TO N. Y. A. C.

Transfers A. A. U. Registration When Club Lifts Championship Ban

Eddie Renz, the New York A. C. walker, is the first athlete to take advantage of the Mercury Foot's rescinding action on the championship ban. Renz, ignorant of his organization's decision to lift the ban April 1, applied Tuesday for a transfer of registration temporarily to unattached. This would permit him to compete for the two-mile walking championship at the Seventh Regiment A. A. games April 5. Winged Foot officials notified its athletic members by mail of the restoration of championships with the club members. Upon receiving his letter Renz immediately applied to be retransferred to the New York A. C., whose emblem he will carry in the two-mile-walk test.

Pool Champion Wins at Angle Game

J. Howard Shoemaker, holder of the national amateur pocket billiard championship title, scored a victory last night over Sam Estabrook in the amateur three-cushion carom billiard tournament at the Rational Recreation Academy in Brooklyn. The score was 30 to 27, after sixty-eight innings of close play. Both contestants made high runs of four points.

SHOEMAKER SCORES EASY CUE VICTORY

Titleholder, in Fine Form, Defeats Maloney, 125 to 19, in Amateur Pool Tourney.

J. Howard Shoemaker, national pocket billiards champion, scored the most impressive victory of the annual title tournament at the New York A. C. yesterday when he defeated J. J. Maloney of the Bronx, in the afternoon session, by 125 to 19. This is the most one-sided result that the tournament has yet produced.

The title-holder was in better form than in any of his previous matches. All shots seemed alike to him and he executed with unerring accuracy. His position play was almost uncanny and when, infrequently, he did appear to overplay a shot, Shoemaker quickly recovered his stroke on a deep cut or long table shot. Maloney, in the face of the title-holder's remarkable form, made a feeble effort. That he was affected by his rival's display was evident for he missed badly and in the twelve innings scratched seven times. Shoemaker scratched five times.

Shoemaker started the game by taking the opening four frames. In his early efforts the champion included a cluster of twenty-seven points, which was marked by the greatest display of ability for the tournament. In the opening frame he pocketed all of the balls. This dose he repeated in the sixth and seventh frames, when Maloney failed to get a single point. In the ninth frame the title-holder again cleared the table and from this frame he continued in a run of twenty-eight points, which is the record for the tournament. Shoemaker was halted within two points of victory after this spectacular performance, but the necessary brace of tallies came easily in the twelfth frame. Shoemaker also had runs of 24 and 19. Maloney's best runs showed eight and seven. This was Shoemaker's third victory in four games.

William Tilt of the Calumet Club, former title-holder, annexed his fourth victory in the evening match when he disposed of Cecil Munoz, Amateur Billiard Club champion, by the score of 125 to 119 in nineteen frames. Tilt has not yet lost a game and is leading in the standing. Munoz has won three games and lost two.

Both players were off form and several times missed easy shots. Tilt went to the front when he took the opening frame of fourteen points, and remained in the lead up to the seventeenth frame. Here Munoz went out in front by 110 to 106, but the Amateur Billiard Club player's leadership was shortlived. Tilt took the eighteenth frame by thirteen points to one, and completed his string in the following pyramid.

Tilt had two high runs of 13, and Munoz had runs of 10 and 9.

AFTERNOON GAME.

J. Howard Shoemaker—14 13 12 13 5 14 14 4 14 13 12 2—125. Scratches, 5. High runs, 28, 27, 24, and 19.

J. J. Maloney—0 1 2 1 9 0 0 10 0 1 2—19. Scratches, 7. High runs, 8 and 7.

EVENING GAME.

William Tilt—14 11 5 6 6 9 10 4 2 8 13 0 8 4 11 7 2 13 6—125. Scratches, 14; high run, 13.

Cecil Munoz—0 3 9 8 8 5 4 10 12 6 1 14 6 10 3 7 12 1 8—119. Scratches, 8; high runs, 10 and 9.

BALCH AND AUGUSTUS WIN.

Special to The New York Times.

BELLEAIR HEIGHTS, Fla., March 20.—De Witt Balch of Cincinnati will meet E. H. Augustus of Cleveland in the final of the Belleair golf championship tournament tomorrow.

It was a case of the East against the West today in the semi-finals, and the West came through in both matches. Augustus defeated T. A. Ashley of Boston by 3 and 2, and Balch put out Hamilton K. Kerr of Greenwich by 4 and 3.

FIRST GOLF AT LAKEWOOD.

Spring Open Tournament Will Begin There April 24.

Dates for the Spring open golf tournament of the Country Club of Lakewood have been chosen, according to an announcement received last night. The time selected is April 24, 25 and 26, the same as those decided upon in, the Spring of 1918, the last meeting at Lakewood.

Frank Barton, of the Marine and Field Club, captured chief honors when the golfers last met at Lakewood, defeating Pierre A. Proal of Deal in the final. The usual program will be in order, prizes being offered for as many sixteens as fill. As these dates are the earliest yet for a tournament in this section, Lakewood will open the season hereabout.

AUSTRALIANS HERE TO DISCUSS TENNIS

Lt. Wilding, H. Y. Bradden, and W. F. Dunlop Will Attend Executive Meeting Today.

Men prominent in international tennis and the affairs of the Australian Tennis Association are expected to attend the meeting of the Executive Committee of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association this afternoon and evening. Those who have been invited include Lieutenant E. A. F. Wilding of Christ Church, New Zealand, brother of the late Anthony F. Wilding; H. Y. Bradden, former member of the Davis Cup Committee for Australia, and William P. Dunlop, former Vice President of the Australian Association.

Lieutenant Wilding is returning home after service with the British air forces, and Mr. Dunlop also is homeward bound from service overseas. Mr. Bradden is a member of the Australian Trade Commission in this city. When their presence became known George T. Adee, President of the U. S. N. L. T. A., invited them to meet the Executive Committee of the National Association at dinner this evening to facilitate an exchange of views with reference to tennis affairs throughout the world.

The Executive Committee will consider the applications for sanctioned tournaments this season and such other business as may be brought to its attention. Aside from adoption of the schedule there are comparatively few matters down for discussion, as the meeting follows closely upon the annual meeting.

Edwin F. Torrey of Clinton, Secretary of the National Association; Alfred H. Chapin of Springfield, the Treasurer, and Craig Biddle, member of the Executive Committee, arrived yesterday from Palm Beach to attend today's session, which will be held at the Waldorf.

AWARD TENNIS TOURNEYS.

Western Championship Will Be Decided at Kansas City.

CHICAGO, March 20.—The annual Western tennis championships and sectional doubles, which have been held in Chicago for the last twenty-nine years, were awarded today to Rockhill Tennis Club of Kansas City, Mo., for July by officials of the Western Lawn Tennis Association, governing body for Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, and Missouri.

The Michigan State tournament was set for Aug. 4, at the Detroit Tennis Club. The National clay court tournament, which has been awarded to the South Side Tennis Club of Chicago, opens July 14.

LAGONIA ESSAYS BIG TASK.

Will Strive for Three Titles in A. A. U. Boxing Championships.

Sam Lagonia of the Bronxdale A. C., State and district amateur boxing champion at 158 pounds, will endeavor to gain three championship titles at the annual Metropolitan A. A. U. championship tournament, which will be held in Madison Square Garden Concert Hall March 27 and 29. Lagonia has entered for the 158 and 175 pound classes and the heavyweight division.

Only once in the history of local A. A. U. boxing has a competitor been successful in annexing triplicate championship laurels. John Gaddi, St. Bartholomew A. C., carried off the titles in these three classes at the championship tournament held in conjunction with the 250th anniversary celebration of Newark, N. J., in 1916.

Ortiz Wields a Winning Cue.

A. Ortiz defeated H. Frisch last night at Thum's Billiard Academy in the three-cushion metropolitan championship tournament of the A. A. B. A. by the score of 35 to 30 in 80 innings. Each player made a high run of 3.

PAYS $3,500 FOR SUNFLASH.

Cane Gives Top Price of Sale for Peter Volo's Son.

The record price of $2,175 set on the opening day was topped twice at the closing day's session of the annual Blue Ribbon Horse Sale yesterday in Madison Square Garden. W. H. Cane, a newcomer to the harness racing world, set the price mark for the sale when he gave up $3,500 for Sunflash, a two-year-old bay colt by the champion Peter Volo, 2:02. Mr. Cane gave his address as the Woolworth Building, but was practically unknown to the regulars who flocked about the ring. It is understood he is acquiring a collection of stake trotters, which will be trained by Will Dickerson, a local trainer. Sunflash was consigned by the Allendale Stock Farm, Lexington, Ky.

Mr. Cane injected another of the day's leading bids into the auction when he was carried to $1,500 in a spirited contest before Brisac, a black stallion, was finally knocked down to him. Brisac has a mark of 2:06¼ for a mile track. He was bred by the Allen Farm, Pittsfield, Mass., and was consigned by S. A. Pickering of Pittsburgh.

Miss Dewey Watts, a four-year-old trotting mare by Lord Dewey-Gingle Watts, brought the sum of $2,700, the second highest price of the sale. An agent of S. A. Fletcher of Philadelphia, owner of the Laurel Hill Farm, bought in the animal, which has a mark of 2:06¼. It is said she will be used for breeding purposes.

High prices and spirited bidding marked the closing day, and this was taken to indicate a revival of interest in harness racing.

Colts by San Francisco, 2:07¾, attracted top-notch prices, Tareyton, a brown colt, consigned by Leo Oettinger, was purchased by R. C. Laebury for $1,050, while Silk Frisco, a bay colt, consigned by the Walnut Hall Farm, went to $1,350 before it was knocked down to W. H. Cox.

GIANNINI TO COACH COLUMBIA OARSMEN

Named to Succeed Jim Rice, but His Appointment Is for This Season Only.

Eugene J. Giannini, for many years rowing coach and director of athletics at the New York Athletic Club, was appointed yesterday to coach the Columbia University 'Varsity and freshman crews for the 1919 season. The appointment was made by the university Committee an Athletics after a long session. His selection was unanimous.

It was stated after the meeting that Giannini would assume charge of the crews on Monday, and that in the meantime they would continue to row on the machines in University Hall. Giannini will have as his assistant Fred Plaisted, who was first assistant to Jim Rice for five years and who has been acting as head coach since the candidates for the crew were called out six weeks ago. It will be Giannini's task to develop a sprinting crew for the Child's Cup race at Princeton on May 17, the only one in which the Blue and White 'Varsity eight will row in this year. In view of his experience in developing short-distance crews at the New York A. C. it is the belief of the committee that he will be highly successful in this project.

In making known Giannini's appointment the committee stated, through Levering Tyson, graduate manager of athletics, that no action had been taken with reference to next year, and that the appointment of the former New York A. C. coach at this time was for the balance of this season only.

Giannini was coach of the New York Athletic Club crews and physical director of the club for twenty-five years. He began his rowing career under Bob Cook in 1887, learned the principles of good rowing at this time, and has stuck to them ever since with marked success. One of his crews made up of business men held the record of the Philadelphia Henley course, which has been rowed over by all the college crews.

Giannini rowed No. 9 in the Dauntless Boat Club crew which won the senior eight-oared race in the Harlem regatta. In 1888 he joined the New York Athletic Club and stroked the eight-oared crew which won in the Harlem regatta in the Fall of that year. After that he stroked the four which was first in the Downing Cup race in the People's Regatta at Philadelphia. He also rowed No. 6 in the winning eight in the race for the Sharpless Cup in the People's Regatta. He was Captain and rowed No. 6 in the eight-oared boats which won the national championship in 1891 and 1892. He coached those crews which were the famous "chippie" crews of the New York A. C.

Both in single and double sculls Giannini made a splendid record, and in rowing of all kinds had to his credit between thirty and forty vitcories when he retired from competition to accept the position as rowing coach and athletic director of the club in 1893.

As a coach and trainer, both on land and water, Giannini was a success from the beginning. He has coached thirteen victorious crews in the national regattas of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. These winning crews have included five senior eight-oared shells. He developed sixteen novice eight-oared combinations, of which twelve have won junior races in various regattas, and his crews have won as many as six races in one regatta.

Mordecai Brown to Manage Team.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 20.—Terre Haute will accept a franchise in the Three I Baseball League next Sunday, according to Chairman John Cleary of the Chamber of Commerce Baseball Committee, who today announced that Mordecai Brown, former Chicago National League pitcher, had been signed as manager.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The decision of the British Government to withdraw its support from the sterling market supplied an event yesterday which promises to be of great influence in shaping international trade and financial developments during the remainder of the reconstruction period. It could be said that the abrupt alteration of the process which had been in operation for nearly three years came as a surprise to the banking community. The decline of the sterling cable rate from the quondam "pegged" price of about 4.76½ to 4.70 therefore reflected the unexpected news as well as the actual intention of the British Treasury authorities to let the market take care of itself. While the decline was substantial and was accompanied by no indications that it might not go further, it was noted in banking offices that relief more than apprehension was expressed over the proof supplied that an important effort was being made to get the market back to a normal basis. The removal of the sterling "peg" confirmed the impression obtained from the similar development in case of French exchange at Paris a few days ago that the leading financial minds of Europe were centring their attention upon means to dissolve the costly measures used for so long to stabilize the financial operations of their Governments. The belief that the franc and sterling markets have been freed from restrictions with one purpose among others of discouraging imports is considered in the financial district as secondary to the intent of removing artificial methods in finance. Doubtless, in view of sentiment toward reopening the markets, the British Treasury action would have been less of a surprise had it not been for dispatches from London in the last day or two stating that a plan for removing support from sterling was not being contemplated by the officials. Yesterday's rates were the lowest reached since December, 1915, when the market was moving up from its former minimum quotation of 4.48.

The stock market was reactionary, but it was difficult to say whether the decline of sterling quotations had any particular influence. There were other developments of a purely domestic character which had a more intimate relation to speculative activities. Also the irregular character of trading throughout the week had shown that a tendency in the downward direction might as easily be brought about as a renewal of the advance. Prices did not display any real weakness, however, and the railroad issues showed to only a moderate degree the effect of the highly confusing situation at Washington. The Street was called upon to contemplate an unusual situation of the Railroad Administration announcing a new decision to postpone improvements and extensions which have not been started, and also to end work already under way, where it could be done without danger to travelers and freight, at the same time that another Government department was seeking to have steel prices reduced to a level where Government buying might be stimulated. The railroads are the largest customers of the steel mills in normal times and it had been expected that they would be among the first to take advantage of lower quotations. Lack of available funds through the failure of the Senate to act on the railroad bill is the reason for curtailing railroad outlay, but the dearth of money promised to be relieved in part by the plan of the War Finance Corporation to sell $200,000,000 of its bonds. Altogether the railroad situation appeared to be fuller of perplexities yesterday than for some weeks past. Local traction stocks and bonds, particularly those of the Interborough Consolidated Corporation, declined sharply. The movement was based on fears of more serious developments than had occurred since the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company went into the hands of the courts. Call money was firm at 6 per cent. most of the day.

A Better Outlook for Investors

Peace conditions have already improved the earnings of many corporations that were seriously affected by the war. That these earnings will continue to increase with the return to normal conditions is confidently expected.

Since security prices in some cases have not as yet reflected these improved earnings and prospects, we are still able to offer strong securities at war-time prices.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Structure Stable.

The strong understructure of yesterday's stock market was pretty much in evidence all the way along. The net result of the day's trading was a lower price level, but with such news as the bears had at hand to facilitate their operations, a really large decline might have been expected. The removal of support from the sterling exchange market became known early in the day and contained elements that on occasion could have been of influence in unsettling securities. The fact that steel men and Government officials had not completed the proposed new price schedule after practically two days' labor was something else to encourage the bears. The Railroad Administration's plan to curtail extensions and improvements was a matter to affect unfavorably both railroad and steel stocks. And late in the day sharp drop of traction issues was not a cheering event. In spite of this combination of developments the market could hardly be described as generally weak.

The Granby Consolidated Mining Company's dividend is another one to feel the current sluggish copper market. The Directors declared the quarterly payment of 1¼ per cent., in contrast with 3½ per cent. three months ago. The dividend will be paid May 1 to stockholders of record April 18.

The Drop in Quicksilver.

Information that the New Idria Quicksilver Company Directors had passed the dividend due at this time drew attention in the financial district yesterday to the big break in the price of quicksilver since the signing of the armistice last November. In that month quicksilver was quoted around $125 a flask. The quotation today is around $70 a flask. When the armistice was signed the demand for this metal, which was essential to many war manufactures, dropped off steadily. The New Idria Company is reported to have cut production down by half and to have a large stock of quicksilver on hand.

French Tonnage Rate Lower.

The easing off in the ocean freight rate to France, which has been evident for several days, was marked yesterday by reports of quotations in some quarters as low as $45 a ton, with a fair amount of space being offered. This compares with recent quotations of $55, $60, and $65 a ton. While the rate has been quoted lower, it is still asserted in shipping circles that there is far from enough tonnage available to handle all of the business being offered. The slight improvement in the situation is attributed in some part to the weekly allocations of vessels being made by the United States Shipping Board.

Japanese Agree on Rates.

Information received from Yokohama indicates that two of the important Japanese steamship companies, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha and the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, have reached an agreement regarding the business they do in South America. It is reported that one of the particular points in the agreement calls for a 10 per cent. rebate to be paid to shippers, half of which is to be paid every six months. It is also understood that the two lines agree that the present freight rates, which are about $90 to $95 a ton, will stand.

Mexico's Finances.

Word received here that José Ives Limantour, former Minister of Finance in Mexico during the Diaz administration, was returning to Mexico, presumably to aid in a readjustment of Mexico's tangled financial affairs, was greeted with satisfaction yesterday by American interests having property in that country. Some of the most notable accomplishments in Mexico's financial history stand to the credit of Limantour, and it is believed that his return, provided it is in an advisory capacity, will do much to smooth the path toward the re-establishment of Mexico's credit not only in this country, but throughout the world. Limantour has the trust of the bankers of France and England, and through his European affiliations it is believed Mexico might eventually be able to raise a loan abroad. During his sixteen years as Minister of Finance Mexico never defaulted on any payments, and he left the office in what was considered splendid condition. One authority on Mexico said yesterday, speaking of Limantour: "If he gets the power he will establish credit by compliance with international obligations."

Nothing definite has been decided by the Directors of the Wright-Martin Aircraft Corporation as to the course which will be pursued in the immediate future. It is admitted that the company cannot expect to go on doing exclusively airplane work. There would not be enough, it is said, to keep the big plant in New Jersey going. There has been some talk that the company might be liquidated. This, however, has never been formally considered by the Directors. The company has received many suggestions as to the course which should be pursued, among them some dealing with new lines of business. It will probably be some time before final word is passed by the Directors and their suggestion made to the stockholders.

Owing to the many attacks by bandits which have been made upon paymasters of companies operating in Mexico several organizations are preparing to have the payroll carried by airplane from the main office to the various field camps. Returned soldiers who have been in the flying service will act as pilots of the machines. Whether this will entirely circumvent bandit raids on paymasters is a question. The resourceful Mexican bandit may decide to be as progressive as the companies themselves and take kindly to the sport of hunting paymasters with anti-aircraft guns.

The decline in Maxwell Motors stocks yesterday attracted attention because it came in conjunction with reports that the company was taking steps toward a reorganization. Plans, it is said, are being worked out by controlling interests in the organization which will provide for taking over the Chalmers company, whose plant is now being operated by Maxwell Motors under a lease. It has been suggested that if a new company is formed it would have three classes of stock the same as those of the present Maxwell Company. New cash capital, it is believed, would be needed in any reorganization plan. No dividends are now being paid on the Maxwell stock. The common declined 2¾ points yesterday, the first preferred 3½, and the second preferred 2⅞.

Steel Price Fixing.

One of the chief topics of interest yesterday was the conference in Washington between the representatives of steel manufacturers and the Industrial Board of the Department of Commerce relative to a stabilization of the industry by agreement on lower prices. One of the chief concerns was with relation to the smaller steel companies. Reports were circulated that some high cost companies might be forced out of business if a drastic cut should be made. The news which came during trading hours was meagre, but it served to put a damper on any speculative enthusiasm in the steel stocks. They were steady through the day, considering the uncertainty of the situation.

When the committee representing the Copper Export Association returns from Europe at the end of this month it is expected to report that there is a large need for copper in European countries but that it will not develop buying immediately. It has been pointed out by a representative of one of the copper companies that the metal will be needed in Europe for electrical equipment. In the reconstruction work it is believed Europe will take up the latest improvements in the way of railroad building and the like, and in all of such work copper will be needed in enormous quantities.

STERLING EXCHANGE ON AN OPEN BASIS

The British Government has ceased to support British exchange in the New York market, according to a statement issued by J. P. Morgan & Co. yesterday. The statement said: "We have received instructions from the British Government to suspend purchases of sterling exchange for (British) Government account." Mr. Morgan, who himself made the announcement, said, in commenting on it, "I presume this is simply another step of the kind all governments have been taking designed to permit business to resume its normal course."

The rate at which J. P. Morgan & Co., acting for the British Government, has maintained sterling exchange is $4.76 7-16 to the pound sterling for cable transfers. On the announcement of the withdrawal of support the rate declined to $4.70, for cables, with no quotation during most of the day for sight drafts on London. The market was very active and more or less feverish. At the formerly established rate of $4.76 7-16 the discount on British credit here was slightly more than 2 per cent. At yesterday's low level of $4.70 the discount was nearly 3¼ per cent. This is the lowest rate at which actual business has been transacted since the Fall of 1915, when sterling exchange went as low as $4.50 to the pound, representing a discount of 7½ per cent., and necessitating "pegging" operations by the British and French Governments.

The announcement yesterday was a surprise to most bankers. Early in the week, when it became known that the French Government was taking steps to remove the artificial restrictions on its exchanges, it was reported both here and at London that similar action would be taken by the British Treasury authorities, but unofficial but supposedly inspired cable reports from London denied this most emphatically. Yesterday, however, even before Mr. Morgan made his announcement, it was apparent that something unusual was going on in the foreign exchange market, for it was discovered that there was no substantial or organized support to the quotation for sterling. In the muddle which followed, some very low quotations were reported, but so far as was learned by inquiry among leading banks and dealers, these extremely low quotations were temporary quotations and nothing more.

Discuss British Motives.

The most general reason given for the action of the British Treasury corresponds to the explanations offered by French fiscal officers now in this country for the removal of restraint on franc exchange: the British Government is anxious to see business returned to a normal basis. Both England and France are desirous of curtailing unnecessary imports into their countries. At the same time, in both countries there are those who demand that the artificial restrictions on trade be removed. Now, say bankers, the financial authorities in both countries are preparing to take off the licensing restrictions on imports and allow the discount on their exchanges to govern the trade movement. As far as is known here, the licensing systems in England and France have not as yet been abandoned, but it is expected they soon will be.

Under financial arrangements with the United States Government, both England and France will be in position to draw some credits from our Treasury as long as the peace treaty is unsigned, or until the huge authorization is unexhausted. There is approximately $1,000,000,000, it is said, still available for credit grants to the Allies, and yesterday it was said that such an amount would more than cover the needs of the Allies for a long time to come. Thus, purchases for Allied Governments will not be affected by the market rate for exchanges, because the United States Treasury will be able to supply credits here for their use. The private importers abroad, though, will be affected as they will be forced to pay more for imports the lower exchange rates go. In this way a declining exchange rate acts as a tariff barrier, and in the opinion of international bankers here, this will automatically tend to checks imports into Britain and France.

The situation as regards private importers in those countries is said to be more acute now than it is likely to be in the future. It is expected that conditions will be straightened out within a short time and that exchange rates will not go as low as some of the alarmists have predicted. As a matter of fact, bankers were rather well pleased yesterday that sterling held as well as it did and this was accepted as an augury of a much easier readjustment to normal than was generally anticipated a short time ago. If this readjustment were made, it was said, future financing between the United States and Europe would soon settle down to dealings between individuals in all countries, and would see the early elimination of Governments in commercial operations.

The situation in the exchange market, it was explained, is very different now from what it was in 1915 when England and France first began to stabilize their exchanges in this country. Then the United States, as a nation, was neutral and it was obviously impossible for the belligerent Governments to obtain credits from the United States Government, which became possible only after our entrance into the struggle. Thus, at that time, it was of vital importance to the belligerent Governments doing business with America to keep their exchanges as high as possible, because all settlements had to be made in the open market. Now, on the contrary, the Governments can finance themselves by arrangement with our Treasury and only private interests abroad will be adversely affected by the declining exchanges.

MINISTER NIETO HOPEFUL.

Thinks Conferences with Bankers Led to Better Understanding.

Rafael Nieto, acting Finance Minister in the Mexican Cabinet, who was said on Wednesday to be on his way back to Mexico, but is still in New York, issued a statement yesterday giving some details as to the purpose of his trip here. It was said yesterday that he will leave for Mexico within a few days.

"I am returning to Mexico," said the statement, "with the impression that my conferences with the International Committee of Bankers have been successful in securing a better understanding and co-operation between Mexico and her creditors. The matters in reference to Mexico's foreign debt will take some time to settle, and I have never presumed that they could be solved within a few weeks. The conferences have only begun and will be continued after further preliminary studies of the questions involved are completed."

COTTON DROPS ON REPORT.

Federal Ginning Figures Cause Bears to Force Prices Down.

The early trading in the cotton market yesterday was influenced mainly by the publication of the Census Bureau's final ginning figures, which showed 11,848,242 running bales and 12,022,601 gross bales for the 1918-1919 season. This was somewhat larger than had generally been expected, and the trade was inclined to sell on the figures, which were made public just before the opening here.

Wall Street houses, apparently believing the ginning report of the utmost importance and of considerable bearishness, were the aggressive sellers, and succeeded in getting prices down 30 to 50 points from the opening, which was strong.

After that the market rallied a little and held rather well at the improved levels. The business was not brisk and trading was devoid of its usual snap on report days. The commercial crop is still worrying the bulls, as it is certain to be above 13,000,000 bales when linters are included, and a good many bullish positions have been predicated on a gross crop of not more than 12,500,000 bales.

Against this larger-than-expected crop, however, there are offsets which promise to make a lively market later on. The removal of import restrictions in England and France, as indicated by the turn in the foreign exchange market, may mean a lively demand for cotton for export for a time, unless exchange on London and Paris moves too adversely to those centres. In addition, there is the probability of an opening up of trade with the Central European countries and also with the neutrals.

At the close of the market prices for near months were close to where they had left off the previous day. Far months, however, were considerably lower, losses ranging from 25 to more than 50 points.

Niagara Power Companies' Income.

The combined income account of the Niagara Falls Power Company and the Canadian Niagara Power Company, for last year, shows total operating revenue to have been $5,016,366 as compared with $3,225,115 in the preceding year. The net income increased from $2,195,804 in 1917 to $3,240,875 last year. After all deductions the surplus for last year was $1,901,683.

Harriman Deposits Show Growth.

The Harriman National Bank, which celebrated its eight anniversary yesterday, reports a growth in its deposits of 900 per cent. since the formation of the institution on March 20, 1911. On that day, when the Harriman National Bank received its charter, its deposits were approximately $4,100,000. Yesterday an officer of the bank announced the deposits were about $40,100,000.

TRAVIS GIVES PLAN FOR NEW STATE TAX

$30,000,000 MORE NEEDED

Controller Would Meet War Deficits Without Further Levy on Incomes and Realty.

State Controller Eugene M. Travis, outlining in a statement last night a system of taxation whereby he thought the loss of $11,000,000 tax and the deficit due to emergency appropriations during the war amounting to $19,000,000 would be made up without increasing the State's direct tax on realty, declared that he eliminated from consideration the question of State income tax, because he felt that the present Federal income tax with the proposed increases to cover at least six years makes such a State tax inadvisable at the present time. The Controller said the present condition of State finances is due not to waste, but to the people's own desire for improvements which have resulted in, funded debt exceeding $268,000,000, with an annual interest obligation, in round numbers, of $13,000,000. Mr. Travis's statement said:

"The Inheritance Transfer Tax law could be amended so as to yield at least $3,000,000 more annually. New York does not tax bequests to benevolent, educational, and kindred institutions of other States, nor is a tax imposed upon the estates of non-residents in respect to money or intangibles physically present within the State. Other commonwealths insist upon such a tax, and it is time that New York should follow suit. The present investment tax is permissive, but it is difficult to compel owners of intangibles to contribute as they should for the support of the State. If the present law were made mandatory and suitable penalities provided, at least $4,000,000 could be added.

"If this State should adopt an annual tax on motorists similar to that imposed in all others, at least $2,500,000 revenue could be secured from this source.

"Many hotels and popular restaurants will reap a large profit from traffic in nonintoxicating substitutes, and a tax on this business would easily produce at least $6,000,000 annually. Again, corporations organizing here for the first time pay comparatively less for this privilege than in any other State, and a slight increase in the present rate would produce an income aggregating $2,000,000 annually.

"The stock transfer tax yielded more than $5,000,000 last year, and at least $1,000,000 more could be added without increasing the present rate, if a tax were imposed on shares of stock borrowed and loaned, and also upon their original issue. In addition, over $12,000,000 more revenue could be secured from the present manufacturing and mercantile corporation income tax, if partnerships and general business organizations were included in the scope of this law.

"The tax on banks last year, amounting to $5,500,000, was retained by the communities while the tax on trust companies and the surplus of savings banks aggregating $4,000,000 was kept by the State. If this rate was increased one-quarter per cent. it would yield at least $2,375,000 more.

"Finally, additional income of at least $2,000,000 annually could be secured if the law limiting the exemption of bonds to Federal, State, and municipal securities was amended. This would mean the taxing of every serial registered or coupon bond issued as an investment."

CANADIAN PACIFIC REPORT.

The gross earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for the last year show a total of $157,537,698, the largest ever reported by the company in its history. The gross is an increase of $5,148,365 over the figures of 1917. The surplus after charges was $24,324,875, as compared with $33,848,192 in the preceding year. Of this amount the portion available for dividends on the common stock was at the rate of 10.97 per cent., whereas in the 1917 report, earnings equal to 15.89 per cent. were shown.

The reduction in net earnings after a record gross business was largely attributable to the increase in operating expenses, which were more than $17,000,000 greater in 1918 than in 1917. Special income fell off by more than $2,500,000, but this account was able to show a slight surplus after payment of the 3 per cent. dividend to the common stock. Operations of the railroad proper exceeded the 7 per cent. contribution by nearly 1 per cent. Dividends paid on both the preferred and the common shares were unchanged from the previous year. The surplus last year was $2,532,372, as against $15,334,215 in 1917.

Great Falls Power Co. Report.

The Great Falls Power Company in its annual report for last year shows gross earnings of $3,563,936 and net earnings of $2,107,774. The total net income was $2,220,799. After depreciation charges there was a balance of $1,593,395. The surplus, after dividends, was $547,135.

Setting Capital Free

Expansion of business is often restricted because of this condition. It is our business to aid such corporations in turning fixed capital into liquid capital, thus providing additional working funds, eliminating floating indebtedness, permitting the financing of a larger turnover and enhancing the earning power of the corporation.

We purchase outright first mortgage bond issues which are the obligations of industrial, manufacturing and mercantile concerns having sufficient real estate assets and a satisfactory record of earnings, in amounts of $250,000 upward. Our plan provides the desired capital immediately and permits repayment out of current earnings.

We shall be pleased to explain our plan in detail, if you are interested, and will appreciate a letter from you. We assure prompt decision and experienced co-operation.

The Jefferson Railroad Company

First Mortgage Bonds

The Jefferson Railroad Company offers to extend the above mentioned bonds so that they shall mature April 1, 1929, (subject to redemption at 105% and accrued interest on any interest day on thirty days published notice) at interest at the rate of 5½% per annum, payable semi-annually on the first day of April and of October in each year at the office of Erie Railroad Company, in the City of New York, N. Y., without deduction for any taxes which the Railroad Company is bound to pay or entitled to deduct therefrom, the present mortgage security of said bonds to remain unimpaired.

The Jefferson Railroad Company,
By F. D. Underwood,
Vice-President.

Philadelphia, March 19, 1919.

Referring to the above notice, the extension privilege applies only to the holders of such bonds who shall deposit the same with us at our office, Fifth and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia, or at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., No. 23 Wall Street, New York City, on or before April 1, 1919.

At the time of making such deposit, the coupon due April 1, 1919, will be cashed if presented with proper income-tax certificate.

Upon such deposit, temporary receipts will be issued exchangeable for bonds of an equal principal amount, with the Extension Supplement and coupon sheet attached, when prepared, and there will be paid in cash the sum of $20 for each $1,000 bond. The investment yield of the extended bonds will thus be approximately 5¾% per annum.

Copies of the Extension Supplement may be had on application at our office.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Prices were reactionary at the close of a moderately active market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Final quotations were slightly above the lowest levels of the session but the net losses in a majority of the active issues ranged from a fraction to a point. The market movement throughout the session was irregular. The selling in the afternoon was general and included both industrials and rails.

To the Stockholders of BROOKLYN RAPID TRANSIT COMPANY who have not deposited their shares:

The Committee is advised that, having postponed depositing their shares until after its certificates of deposit had been listed on the New York Stock Exchange, many Stockholders found it impracticable to make such deposit during the few days that intervened between the date of listing and March 3rd last, when the period terminated during which the Committee had announced that it would receive stock under its Deposit Agreement of January 2, 1919. It has, therefore, been decided to extend until April 21, 1919, at 3 P. M., the time during which deposits will be accepted without penalty.

Mercantile Trust & Deposit Company, of 115 Broadway, New York City, is the Committee's Depositary, and People's Trust Company, of 181 Montague Street, Brooklyn, its Sub-Depositary, from each of which, as also from the Committee's Secretary, copies of the Deposit Agreement may be had.

To the holders of First Mortgage 5% Gold Bonds, due April 1, 1919, issued by the above Company:

In view of the approaching maturity, April 1, 1919, of the above bonds and of the conditions and complications affecting street railroad companies in the City of New York, the undersigned, at the request of the holders of a large amount thereof, have organized as a Committee for the protection of the interests of all holders of said bonds who may become parties to a Protective Agreement which will be filed with the Central Union Trust Company of New York, the Depositary named therein.

In the judgment of the Committee the interests of the bondholders require concerted and immediate action for their protection, and holders of bonds are therefore invited to deposit their bonds promptly with the Depositary.

All bonds must be deposited in bearer form and must bear the coupon due April 1, 1919. Certificates of deposit will be issued by the Depositary transferable on its books.

Copies of the Protective Agreement may be obtained upon application to the Depositary or from the Secretary of the Committee.

Treasury Department.
Pittsburgh, Pa., March 1, 1919.

Consolidated Mortgage Bonds of VANDALIA RAILROAD COMPANY to a total cost of $154,550.00 will be purchased April 1, 1919, at the Agency of the Company, The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, New York City, under the following provision of the mortgage:

"Sealed proposals for the sale of said bonds will be received at the Agency of said Railroad Company in the City of New York up to the close of business on the business day prior to the day of making such purchase, and bonds offered at the price which, exclusive of accrued interest thereon, shall be the lowest percentage of the principal thereof, will be accepted and paid for at not exceeding par and accrued interest. Should bonds of different holders be offered at the same price, the number of such bonds purchased shall be on a pro rata basis, as nearly as practicable, in proportion to the whole number of bonds offered at the same price."

Proposals to sell bonds to the Sinking Fund must be in the hands of The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, New York, before three o'clock P. M. on Monday, March 31, 1919, and bonds accepted must be delivered on April first, or security furnished on that day, if required, that delivery will be made within ten days.

MONTPELIER, Vt., March 20.—The House today sustained Governor Clement's veto of a bill which would have given women the right to vote for Presidential electors. The Senate had voted to pass the measure over the Governor's veto.

ALLIES BUILD IMPORT WALL.

Policy Expected to Help America in Foreign Trade Field.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Imposition by the French Government of an import embargo similar to the British is regarded by Government officials here as evidence that the Allies have completed their plans for industrial reconstruction and are proceeding to put them into effect.

Great Britain and France have established a pool in this country to control whatever purchases they need to make, and Italy is co-operating with them to a limited extent. As a result trade experts do not think there will be much sale for American finished products in the European countries for some time to come, it being the announced policy of the Allies to do without those articles which they cannot manufacture at home. Basic materials still will be obtained in the United States and probably much machinery, into the making of which technical skill and scientific knowledge enter, but it is believed the great bulk of American goods will have to be marketed elsewhere.

A distinct advantage for the United States is seen in the policy of the Allies, who necessarily must curtail their competition in the foreign field in order to take care of their home population. The Allies' dependence on this country for basic materials and machinery to start their commercial life anew may develop a new rôle for American capital in financing European industries, reversing the condition which prevailed until the war began.

America has more surplus gold than any other country, officials say, and can relieve the European scarcity by taking industrial bonds at a profitable rate of interest or Government bonds at a lower rate, in either case contributing to a revival of business, which would mean greater value for the millions of foreign securities now held in the United States.

GEORGIA COAST & PIEDMONT RAILROAD COMPANY

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to a Final Decree entered in the District Court of the United States for the Eastern Division of the Southern District of Georgia, on March 8, 1919, in a certain cause in Equity pending in said court entitled "David Loewenthal, Plaintiff, against Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company, Defendant; Columbia Trust Company, Complainant in Cross Bill, against Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company, Defendant," I, J. W. TALBERT, in and by said Final Decree appointed to be the Special Master therein referred to, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder or bidders at the general office of Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company in Brunswick, Georgia, upon the property to be sold on May 6, 1919, at 1 o'clock P. M. (Eastern Standard Time) the property in said Final Decree described and therein directed to be sold, the following being a brief description of said property to be sold at said sale:

All and singular the entire line or lines of railroad constituting the property of Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company, in the State of Georgia, extending from the City of Darien, in McIntosh County, Georgia, northwestwardly through the Counties of McIntosh and Liberty to Collins, in Tatnall County, Georgia, and also all the line or lines of said railroad as extended including the line or lines of railroad extending from the City of Darien in McIntosh County, Georgia, in a general southerly direction to the City of Brunswick in Glynn County, Georgia, and along the routes authorized in the Charter of said Railroad Company as now existing, including any and all branch or subsidiary line or lines; together with all lands acquired and used for said railroad or for any purpose in connection with the construction, maintenance or operation thereof, and all the rights of way, water or riparian rights, easements, roadbeds, tracks, docks, piers, wharves, bridges, viaducts, culverts, switches, turnouts, sidings, turn-tables, fences, depot grounds, station houses, station grounds, yards, terminal property, freight houses, warehouses, engine houses, car houses, fuel houses, sheds, machine shops or other shops, water tanks and all other structures, erections and fixtures of every kind and rights and all such real and personal property, rights of way, easements, and appurtenances, as may be germane to or necessary for or in connection with the construction, operation or maintenance of said several lines of railroad, now owned and possessed by said Railroad Company; also all the locomotives, engines, cars, rolling stock of every kind, tools, machinery of every kind, rails, spikes, joint fastenings, timbers, ties, superstructure and material of every kind necessary to be used in or in connection with the construction, maintenance and operation of said railroads, now owned and possessed by said Railroad Company; also all tools, implements and machinery, instruments, furniture, safes, books, accounts, maps, field notes, surveys and charts belonging to said Railroad Company and used or intended to be used, or capable of being used, in connection with the construction, completion, operation or equipment of said railroads; also all materials and supplies of every character owned or possessed by said Railroad Company, designed to be used or capable of being used in or in connection with the construction, completion, equipment, use or operation of said railroads, or any portion thereof, together with all and singular the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto belonging, or in any wise appertaining; and also all the rights, powers, privileges and franchises of or belonging to said Railroad Company and also the tolls, income, rents, issues, profits and avails thereof.

Also $568,000 face value of First Mortgage Forty-Year 5% Gold Bonds of the Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company, dated March 1, 1906, maturing March 1, 1946, secured by the Mortgage or deed of trust to the Morton Trust Company, Trustee, dated March 1, 1906.

For a more particular description of the property to be sold and of the terms of sale, intending purchasers are hereby referred to said Final Decree and to the record in the above-mentioned cause wherein said decree was entered.

As more fully provided by said Final Decree, to which reference is hereby made:

I. Said sale will be made without valuation, appraisement, redemption or extension.

II. The right is reserved to the Court to adjourn or postpone said sale and to direct the Special Master to proceed with the sale without further notice or advertisement on any date to which the same may have been so adjourned.

III. Any party to said cause or any holder of bonds issued under the Mortgage of said Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company dated April 1, 1912, (said mortgage being hereinafter referred to as the First Mortgage and said bonds as First Mortgage Bonds) may bid or purchase at such sale.

IV. Said property will be sold subject to any lawful taxes or assessments upon said property and subject to the lien of the mortgage or deed of trust of the defendant Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company to Morton Trust Company, as Trustee, dated March 1, 1906.

V. The Special Master will receive no bid from any one offering to bid who shall not first deposit with the Special Master as a condition precedent to his right to bid and as a pledge that such bidder will make good his bid in case of its acceptance by the Special Master and confirmation by the Court the sum of $30,000 in cash or by certified check upon any national bank or trust company in the State of Georgia or of the City of New York, acceptable to the Special Master and made or indorsed payable to his order, or, in lieu of said deposit in cash or by check, $300,000 face amount of First Mortgage Bonds in bearer form, bearing coupons appertaining to such bonds maturing April 1, 1916, and subsequently.

In lieu of the deposit of First Mortgage Bonds and coupons with the Special Master, the Special Master may accept the Certificate of the Columbia Trust Company of New York that it holds subject to his order the amount therein specified of First Mortgage Bonds in bearer form, accompanied by the coupons therein stated.

The deposit received from an unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him when the property has been struck off. The deposit received from any successful bidder will be held by the Special Master subject to the orders of the Court and upon confirmation of the sale will be applied on account of the purchase price of the property.

The Special Master will not accept any bid for the property offered for sale less than the sum of $300,000.

VI. In case any bidder, after the acceptance of his bid by the Special Master, shall fail to comply within a period of twenty days with any order of the Court requiring or relating to the payment of the balance of the purchase price, then the sums deposited by such successful bidder whether in cash or by check or represented by First Mortgage Bonds, will be forfeited as a penalty for such failure and will be applied to the expenses of a resale and toward making good any deficiency or loss in case the property shall be sold at a less price on such resale, and to such other purposes as the Court may direct. If the Court shall not confirm any sale the deposit made by the accepted bidder will be forthwith returned to such bidder.

VII. The purchaser or purchasers on the confirmation of the sale by the Court shall make such further payment or payments in cash on account of the purchase price as the Court may from time to time direct. So much of the purchase price as may not be required by the Court to be paid in cash may either be paid in cash or any purchaser may satisfy and make good such residue of his bid in whole or in part by turning over to the Special Master to be cancelled or credited First Mortgage Bonds and coupons thereunto appertaining. In lieu of so turning over to the Special Master First Mortgage Bonds and coupons the Special Master will accept the Certificate of Columbia Trust Company of New York, that it holds subject to his order the amount therein specified of First Mortgage Bonds in bearer form and accompanied by the coupons therein stated. A purchaser will be credited on account of the purchase price for First Mortgage Bonds and the coupons thereunto appertaining turned over in part payment of the purchase price such sum as would be paid in cash upon such Bonds and coupons out of the proceeds of sale if the whole amount of the purchase price had been paid in cash. The Court reserves the right to resell the property sold upon such notice as it may direct at the risk and cost of the purchaser in case such purchaser shall fail or omit to make any payment on account of the purchase price within twenty days after the entry of any order requiring such payment.

VIII. Any purchaser and his successors or assigns shall have the right to elect not to take or accept any of the property or franchises struck off to him by written notice to the Special Master given at any time prior to the execution and delivery of the deeds or instruments of transfer from the Special Master provided for in said Final Decree. No such election by the purchaser shall diminish or affect the purchase price of the property.

As provided in Article XXXII of said Final Decree any purchaser and his successors or assigns will have the right for the period of six months after the delivery of the Special Master's deed, to elect whether or not to assume or to adopt as part of the property embraced in such deed, any lease or contract made by the defendant Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company appertaining to the property purchased by him.

IX. Upon confirmation of sale and the payment of the purchase price by any purchaser, his successors or assigns, or upon making such provision for the payment thereof as the Court may approve the Special Master making the sale will execute to such purchaser, his successors or assigns, a deed or deeds or other proper instruments conveying, assigning and transferring the property sold to such purchaser (except such part thereof, if any, as such purchaser, his successors or assigns shall have elected not to take in accordance with the provisions of Article XXXII. of said Final Decree.) Upon the production of such deed or deeds and assignments or transfers, or of a certified copy or copies thereof, the grantee or grantees therein named will be let into possession of the property so conveyed or transferred. The purchaser, his successors or assigns, shall, after such delivery of possession, hold, possess and enjoy the property conveyed and transferred and every part and parcel thereof, free from the trust and lien imposed thereon by the First Mortgage, and free from any claim, right, interest or equity of redemption of, in or to the same by or of the defendant Georgia Coast & Piedmont Railroad Company, its successors and assigns, and by or of the creditors and stockholders of said Railroad Company, and by or of any party to said cause, and all persons, partnerships and corporations claiming by, under or through said Railroad Company, its creditors or its stockholders, or any party to said cause; subject, nevertheless, to the conditions that the Court may retake and resell the property conveyed or transferred in case such purchaser, his successors or assigns, shall fail within the time limited to pay any balance of the purchase price remaining unpaid.

X. By said Final Decree the Court reserves for future adjudication all questions not disposed of by said Final Decree.

For further particulars reference is hereby made to said Final Decree and to the record and proceedings in said cause on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the United States for the Eastern Division of the Southern District of Georgia.

Dated, March 14, 1919.
J. W. TALBERT,
Special Master.

Gray Goods Prices Steady.

While a pretty fair business was done in gray goods in this market yesterday, trading was not active enough to bring about any change in prices. Among the printcloth sales made during the day were 39-inch 80 squares at 14¾ cents, 39-inch 68-72s at 11 cents, and 38½-inch 64-60s at 9¾ cents. Sheetings were none too active, but there was further trading in 36-inch 5.50s at 8 cents. Business in fine-yarn goods was about on a par with Wednesday's. Active buying of the clothing styles continued.

The dress goods market is practically cleaned out of tricotines for prompt delivery, and another supply will appear only in small quantities. There are two reasons given why deliveries on this fabric must be delayed. One is that the material is a "slow weave fabric," and the other has to do with the conditions among the yarn spinners. With Government regulation of the wool supply, the spinners were not in a position to meet the demand that sprang up almost overnight for the yarn out of which tricotines are constructed.

Show Silk Manufacture.

J. H. & C. K. Eagle, one of the largest silk manufacturers in the country, are now displaying a film showing silk manufacturing from the culture to the finished product. The show is being put on in an improvised auditorium in the Eagle Building. The pictures were originally taken in order to instruct employes of the concern in more efficient methods of handling the production operations and proved so interesting that the concern decided to cut out a few of the more technical features and show them to those interested in the silk industry.

Sport Shoes Sell Better.

One of the features of the trade in men's shoes of late has been the improvement in the demand for footwear designed for sports use. Particularly good has been the call for golf and tennis shoes, and this is attributed both to the return of thousands of the younger men from France and to the taking up of golf again by many of the older men who refrained from the sport during the war for various reasons. There is also a picking-up reported in the call for shoes especially designed for hiking, and it is predicted that a revival of that form of exercise will result from the return of the men from France.

Quality Goods Are Wanted.

There is one outstanding feature of the apparel trade in both the men's and women's branches and that is a demand for higher quality goods. The explanation for this demand that carries most conviction is that the public was very much dissatisfied with merchandise that was made "at a price." When prices were advancing up to their present levels the majority of manufacturers attempted to keep down quotations by substituting inferior materials and workmanship. The result was much poorer merchandise that buyers were dissatisfied with and after their experience would not purchase again.

Adjusting Sponging Disputes.

Woolen men are looking forward to the plan to be adopted for settling sponging disputes with a great deal of interest. Rejection of goods by buyers after they turned out to be unsuitable was made quite a practice even though there was little or nothing wrong with the material. Under the plan contemplated, an impartial party will judge each case in dispute and, whether the buyer wants the goods or not he will have to take them if they are not imperfectly manufactured. On the other hand, it is believed the mills will not be tempted to pass out imperfect goods and will take more care in their manufacturing methods.

Japanese Raw Silk Prices Firmer.

The raw silk market at Yokohama continues strong, and prices have advanced further on good buying for American account. Tram stock is quoted at from 1,430 to 1,450 yen, with high-grade silks scarce and hard to get. The visible supply has been reduced to about 23,000 bales. The Canton market is a little firmer, due to American buying of the sixth crop silk. Some business has also been done there in new crop silk for forward delivery. The Shanghai market is steady for steam filatures and tsatlees, but tussahs have again declined. At Milan the chief activity is on the part of speculators who want to reel silk to sell to the Government at schedule prices, which are above the market. The local market continues to improve, with buyers paying premiums for quick deliveries of certain silks.

Want Deliveries Advanced.

So active has become the consumer demand for the better grades of silk hosiery that wholesalers are daily getting letters and telegrams requesting them to ship Spring goods due the retailers before the delivery dates specified in the orders. With the mills hard pressed to ship the goods when due, most of these requests have to be refused. Fancy hosiery is especially in demand. Among these are clocked effects, deliveries of which are considerably retarded by a shortage of hand clockers. While machine clocking would solve the problem, it is not considered the proper thing for the grades of goods in question. Early deliveries are a feature of the Fall business taken, many orders specifying shipment on July 1, or as soon thereafter as the merchandise is ready.

Her Plan Was Successful.

A new variation of an old game was recently worked successfully on a local retail store, with the result that the woman who was back of the scheme got an expensive dress free. She represented herself to the clerk as a Mrs. Blank of a certain Southern city, tried on the dress, had it fitted, and then asked that it be charged and sent to the address she gave. Before the alterations were begun the credit office was queried on the charge. The account in the name given being in good standing, the charge was O. K.'d. Several hours afterward the woman returned to the store and said she would call for the dress the next day instead of having it sent. However, she sent a messenger, to whom the dress was delivered. The fraud was not discovered until the customer whose name was used was billed for the dress.

Argentine Farmers Refuse to Plant.

BUENOS AIRES, March 20.—Agrarian strikes are spreading in Argentina, according to reports received here from several provinces. The farmers are refusing to plow their ground or to plant because of the low prices of agricultural products.

DEMAND FOR GOOD WOOL.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 20. — Good grades of domestic fleece wool were in demand at the third day of the present series of Government wool auctions which are being held at the Manufacturers' Club. Good prices were obtained for fine delaine wools, and they were stronger than was noticeable on the opening day, when similar wools were offered. All told, 218 lots were put on sale, of which 54 lots were withdrawn.

James Lees & Sons Company were the largest buyers of fine delaines, taking 213,781 pounds at prices ranging from $1.53½ to $1.65½ on a scoured basis. The American Woolen Company and Charles J. Webb & Co. were not as active as they were on previous days. The total purchases of the American Woolen Company totaled 141,750 pounds, consisting of 8,948 pounds of domestic fleeces and 132,809 pounds of territories. Charles J. Webb & Co. purchased 47,965 pounds of domestic fleeces, 46,331 pounds territories, 2,373 of Australian, and 11,916 pounds of scoured. The 20,000 pounds of Australian wool offered was quickly disposed of.

The auction will close tomorrow with a sale of carpet wool. The offerings will be about 4,300,000 pounds of greasy carpet and 350,000 pounds of scoured wools.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Statistics made public today by the War Department showed that the Government has on hand or contracted for 487,190,540 pounds of wool remaining to be disposed of. Wool purchased or contracted for amounted to 722,450,168 pounds, valued at more than $500,000,000. It included 10,000,000 pounds of domestic clip yet to be delivered, 4,000,000 pounds to come from South America, and 94,000,000 pounds contracted for with the British Government.

Are Pleased to Some Extent.

While they are not pleased with the 10 per cent. luxury tax that has been levied on manufactured furs, local furriers find some consolation in the ruling of the Internal Revenue Department that cloth coats and suits trimmed with fur are not to be taxed unless the value of the fur is the chief value of the garment. Were the tax to include trimmings, it was asserted yesterday, it would probably result in the abandonment of fur garniture by the cutters-up. This would mean the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the trade, as trimmings of this kind have been in high favor for several seasons.

PECULIAR problems crop out every day in our clients' demands upon our organization. That we have little difficulty in solving these problems is due to the close personal attention of an executive to each particular case.
Since 1903 we have learned many things to the benefit of our clients in connection with discounting receivables and in many other connections closely or remotely similar.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Heavy trading in apartment house property was the feature of yesterday's realty market. The most important transaction involved Spencer Arms, a twelve-story structure on the southeast corner of Broadway and Sixty-ninth Street, which was purchased for investment by Samuel Borchard from the 140 West Sixty-ninth Street Corporation, Udo Fleischmann President. The structure, which is one of the finest of its kind on the west side, covers about six lots, and contains 100 non-housekeeping apartments in suites of 2, 3, and 4 rooms. It has a rent roll of $140,000 per annum and is fully tenanted. The property adjoins St. Stephen's Church on Sixty-ninth Street and with a two-story building on the south, the apartments have an entirely unobstructive view.

Spencer Arms was held at $1,100,000, and the transaction was all for cash. The Wood Dolson Company, Inc., negotiated the sale.

Two Upper West Side Apartments in $800,000 Sale.

Two upper west side apartment houses, held at about $800,000, were purchased yesterday by the Grand Concourse Realty Company, of which Michael Kaufman is President. The transaction involves Ardsley Hall, a ten-story structure, occupying a plot 100 by 125, on the southwest corner of Ninety-second Street and Central Park West, which was purchased from the Bank of Savings. The property was taken over by the bank in foreclosure proceedings five years ago on a first mortgage judgment, and the auction is said to have wiped out a second mortgage of $150,000.

The second house purchased is known as Green Court, a six-story elevator structure at 1,809 to 1,817 Seventh Avenue, southeast corner of 111th Street, arranged for six families on a floor, and fronting 100.11 feet on Seventh Avenue and 110 feet on 111th Street. Title to the house is held by the Long Beach Auto and Storage Company, which acquired it in August, 1917. The property was held at $300,000, and returns an annual rental of about $35,000. A. Blumenthal negotiated the transaction. Recently the same buyers acquired from Frederick Brown the Switzerland Apartment, 151st Street and Riverside Drive. A resale of Ardsley Hall to an investor is reported pending.

Edward W. Browning Buys Four Apartment Houses.

Edward W. Browning, operator and builder, has added to his recent acquisitions on the west side three six-story apartment houses, covering a plot 112 by 119, at the southeast corner of Bradhurst Avenue and West 146th Street. The properties were sold by the Bradhurst Realty Company, Harry Aaronson President, through W. & J. Huston & Son. They contain eighty-five suites, renting for $23,000, and were held at $150,000. Mr. Browning pays all cash above the mortgage.

On the east side Mr. Brown purchased from the Moss Estate, Inc., H. E. Rogers President, the Andrade, a six-story elevator apartment house at 139-141 East Thirtieth Street, on a plot 40 by 98.9. William A. White & Sons were the brokers. The house returns $15,000 annually in rentals, and was held at $75,000.

Zagat Buys Rosemary.

Paul Henry Zagat, President of the City Real Estate Improvement Corporation, bought the Rosemary, a seven-story elevator apartment house, on plot 50 by 100.8, at 4 and 6 West Ninety-third Street, from Charles H. Smith.

Portman Active.

In addition to his sale of the block front on Morris Avenue to Joseph Shenck, I. Portman resold the five-story apartment house on plot 38 by 100 at 643 Fox Street to a client of Philip Shapiro. He also sold a five-story apartment house, on plot 38 by 100, held at $45,000, at 1,098 Simpson Street, to J. Sonkin, through A. H. Levy. He also bought the five-story house, on plot 75 by 100, held at $90,000 and renting for $14,000, at 1,707 Nelson Avenue.

Shenck in Several Deals.

Joseph Shenck sold to the Benenson Realty Company the Pleasant View, a six-story apartment house, held at $275,000 and renting for $35,000, at 601 West 160th Street, northwest corner of St. Nicholas Avenue. From I. Portman, through Kaplan & Blackmer, Mr. Shenck bought the four five-story houses, held at $250,000 and renting for $38,000, comprising the block front on Morris Avenue between 181st Street and Clement Place; and from Joseph Harrison he bought the six-story house, 80 by 100, held at $100,000 and renting for $15,000, at 531 to 538 East 175th Street.

Private Dwellings.

George S. Baker sold the five-story dwelling with extension, on lot 20 by 100.8, at 333 West Eighty-sixth Street, near Riverside Drive. The adjoining house, 331, was recently sold to a client of Horace G. Knowles, who planned to alter the premises for use as a sanitarium.

Two Loft Deals.

Charles Hansle, builder and operator, bought the eight-story fireproof loft building, 25 by 90.11 feet, at 22 West Fourth Street, from the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, through H. C. Forbes.

The Bank for Savings sold the six-story store and lofts, 50 by 100 feet, with extension 25 by 100 feet, at 476 and 478 Broome Street, to the Redwood Realty Company, through Isaac B. Wakeman. The property is reported to have sold for about $95,000 and rents for $14,800.

Samuel I. Gordon, through Abram S. Jaffer, attorney, bought the six-story tenement, on plot 26.10 by 85 feet, at 50 Pike Street.

Isear Buys Apartment.

The Isear Realty Corporation bought for cash the six-story apartment house, on lot 80 by 100 feet, held at $135,000, from a client of Reeves & Todd. Louis Wertzner and Henry Schumacher were the brokers and Morrison & Schiff represented the buyers.

Church Sells Holdings.

Tenement Deals.

J. Leslie Palmer bought the five-story double flat, on lot 25 by 100 feet, at 7 East 112th Street, from Charles Galewski, who acquired the property earlier in the week.

The Port Jervis Land and Improvement Company sold the five-story triple flat, on lot 25 by 100 feet, at 426 West 124th Street, near Amsterdam Avenue, to Pauline Kohner through Harry Sugarman.

Buys Hunts Point Palace.

Robert E. Simon bought the Hunts Point Palace Building, occupying a plot 140 by 150, held at $450,000, fronting on Hunts Point Square and Southern Boulevard, with a right of way on 163d Street, from a client of Kendall & Herzog through Leitner, Brenner & Starr. The building, which is a part of the Bronx Community Building, contains a hall, banquet rooms, offices, palm and roof gardens, and adjoins the Cecil Spooner Theatre, owned by the Shuberts.

The Bronx Market.

Sager & Shapiro and Max Monfried bought the five-story apartment house, 50 by 100, held at $60,000 and renting for $9,300, at 797 Crotona Park North, from the Hunts Point Realty Company. Samuel Cowen was the broker.

The factory building on the west side of Rider Avenue, opposite 139th Street, running through to Canal Place, was sold to a client of James Montgomery & Son for occupancy. The same brokers sold the two private dwellings at 376 and 378 135th Street to an investor.

The Henlee Real Estate Corporation (Louis Wolff, President,) bought a plot, 100 by 100, on the east side of Grand Boulevard and Concourse, 50 feet south of 192d Street, held at $40,000, from A. Oldrin Salter, on which a modern five-story building, to cost $120,000, will be erected. London & Davis represented the purchaser and Salter & Steinkamp the seller.

Samuel Barin, operator, bought for cash, from a client of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, the northwest corner of Simpson and Home Streets, two five-story apartment houses, 80 by 100, held at $125,000 and renting for $15,000.

Frederick Brown bought from Edward M. Burghard, through George Lodge, the twenty-one three-story and basement dwellings at 839 to 871 and 877 to 883 Whitlock Avenue, each on a lot 25 by 100. The houses are located between Longwood Avenue and Tiffany Street, and are arranged for three families.

The Dominick estate sold the two-story brick house, on a plot 25 by 68, irregular, at 2,226 Valentine Avenue, through Joseph P. Day, in conjunction with C. E. Gates.

Brooklyn.

The Alco Building Company sold the one-family semi-detached brick dwelling at 2,051 Sixty-third Street, Mapleton Park, to Max Freier for occupancy. Realty Trust negotiated the sale.

Delia Powell sold the vacant plot, 75 by 100, on the east side of Delamere Place between Avenues J and K to a client of Bulkley & Horton Co.

Teresa Monahan sold the two-story and basement brownstone one-family house at 504 Tenth Street to Elizabeth Wakefield for occupancy. Augustus J. Rinn sold the two-story brick dwelling at 354 Sixth Street. Both sales were negotiated by F. C. Sauter.

Frank H. Warder sold the three-story building with store at 1,319 Avenue J, on plot 20 by 100, to an investing client of Samuel Galitzka.

Queens Borough Sales.

F. Lister of Brooklyn purchased a plot immediately north of the Queensboro Bridge plaza in Long Island City with a frontage on Hunter Avenue and extending through the block to Academy Street. The plot has approximately 50 feet frontage on both streets. It is immediately adjoining one of the important apartment house developments in Long Island City. The sellers were the G. Payntar estate, S. Remington, the Hunter estate, and George Clay.

A. Sauerbrey has sold to the Steinway Theatre, Inc., a plot 25 by 90 on the west side of Steinway Avenue south of Jamaica Avenue. The theatre company owns a large theatre adjoining.

Staten Island.

A syndicate of Staten Island business men have bought a tract of land known as Irving Park, in the Grymes Hill section of Staten Island. The land, which has frontages in Richmond Turnpike, Louis Street, and Howard Avenue, will be improved with a number of cottages. Cornelius G. Kolff negotiated the transaction.

Max Bache purchased the Post estate at South Beach, S. I., consisting of thirty-two acres and having large frontages on Sand Lane, Richmond Avenue, and Old Town Road. The tract will be immediately developed into building sites. Mrs. Bertha King Bartlett and Mrs. Helen Minturn Post, in whose family the property was held for nearly a century, were the sellers, being represented by Scott, Gerard & Bowers.

Suburban Sales.

Robert M. Cone bought a house on Fern Street, New Rochelle, N. Y., through Olcott and Egger. The same brokers sold a large plot in Beechmont Park, New Rochelle, to Mrs. B. C. Hinman, who will erect a dwelling on the property.

George P. Monak bought a dwelling on a large plot on Ridgeway Avenue, West Orange, N. J., from Albert Diecks, and will remodel the property for occupancy.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. leased in 270 Park Avenue a large suite, consisting of seventeen rooms and six baths to C. P. Stuart, President of the American Marine Insurance Company. This completes the renting of the largest apartment house in the world. The building contains 105 large apartments, with a total rental of $775,000, making an average rental for each apartment of $7,500. The stores bring the total income of the building close to $1,000,000 per annum.

Recent Buyers.

Lambs Club Leases Country Place.

The Lambs Club has leased the Commodore Tyson estate at Riverside, Conn., for five years, for use as a Summer clubhouse. The property, which has a frontage of 1,000 feet on the Sound, has one of the finest bathing beaches on the Connecticut shore. The house, which is to be used by the club members, has recently been refurnished. George Boles negotiated the lease.

Commercial Leases.

Adolph Lewisohn closed negotiations for the lease of the two-story taxpayer on the west side of Broadway, between Eighty-six and Eighty-seventh Streets, to the United Cigar Stores Company, for a period of twenty-one years, at an aggregate rental approximating $1,100,000. L. J. Phillips & Co. negotiated the lease.

Joseph M. Fishel leased the entire building at 503 West Broadway for a long term of years to F. Bertolli & Co., through Horace S. Ely & Co.

Helen Walter leased the two four-story and basement dwellings at 245 and 247 West Twenty-fifth Street to Frank Silberman for a long term of years at an aggregate rental of $50,000. The lessee will alter the premises for commercial use.

Instruction.

MEN AND WOMEN.

I want to hear from bookkeepers, cashiers, school teachers, office workers, stenographers and all capable men and women, either with or without bookkeeping experience, who are ambitious to get into higher accounting positions paying

The readjustment of commerce and industry to a peace basis, the reconstruction and reorganization of American business along more efficient lines, the more scientific analysis of costs to meet domestic and world competition and the necessity for accurate income and excess profits tax reports to the Government have created thousands of new and attractive opportunities for permanent positions in the higher accounting field.

At present we can supply only in a very limted way students and members to fill the numerous requests being received for cost accountants, auditors, junior and senior accountants, comptrollers, &c., &c. Government and business demands have exhausted the available supply of trained men and women.

So, our organization, having the largest staff of accounting and business efficiency experts in the world, is making every possible effort to help meet this unusual situation, and to that end I will interview men or women who desire to qualify for these positions by taking individual home training. This can be done without interfering with their present employment.

APPLICANTS WHO ARE ACCEPTED

Address for interview, giving age, position, education and telephone number, A. C. S., Post Office Box 63, Times Square Station.

Wills for Probate.

CONNICK, ANDREW J., (March 10,) 328 West 72d St., makes the following bequests: $1,000 to George Schindler for faithful services; $5,000 to his daughter, Helen Connick; $5,000 to another daughter, Mary C. Hughes, and $15,000 for the maintenance of a son, James Connick, an invalid. The will then directs that a trust fund of $250,000 be created for decedent's wife, Kate R. Connick, and the income paid to her during her life. She also gets all the personal effects. The principal of this trust fund, including any other residuary part of the estate, is to be divided among the children on the death of their mother.

GWYNN, JOSEPH K., former Secretary of the American Tobacco Co., (Feb. 25,) 465 Central Park West, leaves to his wife, Marie Louise Gwynn, all his personal effects and $20,000 and the income from the residue of his estate during her life. On her death the deceased directs that from the principal shall be paid $10,000 to Anna Gubner, a servant; $50,000 to the Agricultural College of the University of Missouri "to erect a school of domestic science in memory of Marie Louise Gwynn," and $5,000 for the painting of a portrait of the latter to be hung in the assembly hall of said school; $5,000 to the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary of this city, $7,500 to the Presbyterian Hospital, and $5,000 to the Women's Hospital. To a nephew, Joseph K. Gwynn of Crestwood, Ky., is left $25,000, and $10,000 each to his brothers, the Rev. W. B. Gwynn of Crestwood, Ky.; Frank Gwynn of Kansas City, Mo., and his sisters, Mrs. Ruth Jenkins of Elizabethtown, Ky., and Mrs. W. R. Silvey of Clarendon, Texas. After these bequests the will leaves the residue of the estate to these brothers and sisters.

SMITH, CHARLES ARTHUR, (Aug. 30,) of Forked River, N. J. Deceased sets aside a trust fund of $165,000, the income from which is to go to his wife, Margaret Smith. Specific bequests, ranging from $5,000 to $15,000, are made to several friends. From a trust fund under the will of his father, which the deceased had the right to dispose of, he bequeaths $10,000 to the Metropolitan Throat Hospital, at 351 West 34th St.; $5,000 each to the Presbyterian and the Methodist Churches at Forked River, N. J., and $15,000 for a building to be known as the Charles A. Smith Memorial, at Forked River, to be used for the benefit of the inhabitants for educational and social purposes.

Applications for clerk, first grade, will be received until 4 P. M. on April 4. Candidates must be at least 14 years of age and not more than 18 on or before the closing date for the receipt of applications. The subjects and weights of the examination will be: Arithmetic, 4; handwriting, 3; letter, 3. A qualifying physical examination will be given. The salary range is from $300 to but not including $600 a year.

United States

The Commission announces for April 22 an examination for engineer draftsman, for men. Five vacancies in the Engineer Department at large, four at Washington, D. C., and one at New York, at $1,500 to $1,800 a year, will be filled from this examination. The entrance salary within the range stated will depend upon the qualifications of the appointee and the importance of the duty to which he is assigned, certification to fill the higher-salaried positions being made from those attaining the highest average percentages in the examination. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on education, experience, and fitness, 60; drawing and lettering (engineering), 40.

The minimum requirements are four years' high-school training or its equivalent, and at least four years of engineering experience of which not less than six months was drafting experience. The completion of each of the second, third, and fourth years of an engineering course in a college or university of recognized standing will be equivalent to one year of the general engineering experience. Applicants must have reached their twenty-second birthday on the date of the examination.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Air pressure is now above normal in all parts of the country, except in the south plateau and South Pacific States, where it is relatively low. The highest pressure, 30.86 inches, is over Western Minnesota.

Rains fell within the last twenty-four hours along the Middle Atlantic and New England Coasts and in Southern California and snows at points in Nevada, Wyoming, and South Dakota.

The temperature will fall Friday in the region of the Great Lakes, the Ohio Valley, and Tennessee, and Saturday in New England, the Middle Atlantic, and East Gulf States.

Winds for Friday and Saturday along the North and Middle Atlantic Coasts will be fresh north, with overcast weather; South Atlantic Coast, gentle to moderate variable, except strong north on the North Carolina Coast; generally fair.

FORECAST—TODAY AND SATURDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, New England, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Friday and probably Saturday; cooler Saturday.

3 A. M.	36	46	4 P. M.	50	60
6 A. M.	37	44	6 P. M.	42	58
9 A. M.	43	46	9 P. M.	47	58
12 M.	48	53	11 P. M.	44	53

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 42; at 8 P. M. it was 59. Maximum temperature, 60 degrees at 3 P. M.; minimum, 41 degrees at 7:30 A. M. Humidity, 66 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 40 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.31 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.25 inches.

Education Notes.

Two checks amounting to $225,000 from the War Fund and Public School War Chest have been sent to the United War Work Campaign, $5000 each have been sent to the American Committee for Relief in the Near East, the Committee of Fatherless Children of France and the Free Milk Fund for France.

The New York State Modern Language Association will hold a meeting on March 29 in Students' Hall, Barnard College. The morning session will include "Class Room French and the War," by Professor William Milwitzky, Barringer High School, Newark, N. J.; "The Future of German Instruction in America," by Professor Calvin Thomas, Columbia University; "Handicaps in the Teaching of Spanish. How to Overcome Them," by Professor Edith Fahnestock, Vassar College; "The Use of Phonetic Symbols in Teaching French Pronunciation," by Professor Anna W. Ballard, Teachers College, Columbia University. The general discussion will be led by Dr. Charles F. Wheelock, State Education Department. At the afternoon session addresses will be made on "The War and the Modern Languages," by President Alexander Meikeljohn, Amherst College; "The Outlook for Modern Language Instruction After the War," by Professor David Snedden, Teachers College; "American Summer School as a Substitute for Study in Europe," by Professor Lillian L. Stroebe, Vassar College; "The Place of Italian in American Schools and Colleges," by Ernest H. Wilkins, Professor of Romance Languages, University of Chicago. There will be a symposium on "German in the High Schools," and a general discussion led by Dr. James Sullivan, State Historian.

A recent report made by the investigators from the Board of Education stated that the building which the High School of Commerce occupies at present is inadequate and also is a veritable firetrap. The first step of a campaign to obtain a new building will start this week. It will consist of sending letters written by the pupils in the Business English classes to prominent men in the city.

The executive committee of the Elementary School Men's League has written to City Superintendent Ettinger expressing its regret at the language used by the Mayor with reference to him.

STURDY ENGINEERS BACK FROM FRANCE

AERO UNITS ALSO ABOARD

17th Squadron, Which Bombarded German Aerodromes, Arrives—Three Other Ships In.

Four ships with troops came in yesterday. The Navy transport Dakotan, from St. Nazaire March 7, brought in 53 officers and 1,789 men; on the transport Maumee, which left Brest on March 6, were 2 officers and 102 men; the Anchor liner Italia, which touched at Marseilles on her way from Naples, brought 20 officers and 889 men, and on the army transport Moccasin 33 casuals came in.

On the Dakotan arrived the hard-working 27th Engineers, who built bridges to reach the fleeing Germans, kept roads open, built railways, and did other military engineering many times under fire. There were 44 officers and 1,349 men under Colonel Oscar B. Perry. He said his command had lost but 6 killed and 31 wounded. The 27th Engineers were organized at Camp Meade Oct. 23, 1917, and it was said they represented nearly all nationalities and all branches of the mining industry.

Colonel Perry was chief engineer with the Guggenheim forces, but he sacrificed his high salary to go to Plattsburg in the Summer of 1917. In the Fall of that year he organized the first company of the 27th with men who had worked in the Guggenheim mines in North and South America. Company A was the first to get across and it operated with Pershing's First Army. Other companies followed as they were organized, and the whole command did not get into concerted action until the Argonne fighting. The special work which the 27th was to do was mining and tunneling under the enemy, but there was little of that sort of work to do, as the Germans were being pressed back too rapidly, and accordingly it turned to the other work.

They were in the big drive at St. Mihiel and they followed up the Marne drive. They were also in the Argonne battle. At the latter place they constructed fifty-five trenches of various kinds, their work being carried on under fire. They have returned with three regimental citations and the names of three great battles on their flag.

Lieutenant Robert Burrage of Boston, Mass., was cited for reconnoissance work at Bilosnes on Nov. 1 when he took a patrol into the German trenches and killed three of the enemy, returning with only one of his own men wounded.

Lieutenant Howard L. King, 559 West 164th Street, Manhattan, was attached to B Company. On Oct. 4 at Apremont his company had to build a bridge over the Aire River. They were under direct enemy artillery fire the whole time.

It took three days to complete the work, but they did it with the loss of four killed and sixteen wounded. Lieutenant Wilder Lahy, 48 Woodruff Avenue, Brooklyn, of Company F, spent most of the eight months he was in France in bridge building. Lieutenant C. J. Hampel of 211 West 107th Street was also engaged in bridge building.

Besides the Engineers, the 137th Aero Squadron, commanded by Lieutenant J. T. Heckel of Rochester, and the 17th Aero Squadron under Major S. B. Eckert of Philadelphia, returned. The 17th did most of its work with the British at Cambrai. Its record is sixty-five enemy planes. Seven of the fliers were decorated. On one occasion a combat group flew over Dunkirk and bombed the German aerodromes, destroying many planes, and killing, it was estimated, 30 enemy pilots and 120 men.

Four men died on the voyage, three of pneumonia and one of accident. Corporal George Herbsleb of the 17th Aerial Squadron, who lived at 3,834 Fairmount Avenue, Philadelphia, was killed March 17 by falling through an open hatch which had been left open by a working party in violation of rules.

The officers and men who returned on the Italia were from fifteen different casual companies, mainly recruited from camps in the south of France. They were commanded by Lieut. Col. Oscar H. Fogg, who went to France as a Major in the Ordnance Department, and was promoted in rank and made head of the Construction and Maintenance Department, with headquarters at Tours.

The Maumee, which had explosives on board, went to anchor in Gravesend Bay, and her troops were taken to Hoboken on an army tug. The soldiers were casuals belonging to the 37th and 83d Divisions, which come from Ohio, and numbered 102 men. The two officers aboard were Lieutenant L. J. Arata of 2,306 Avenue U, Brooklyn, and Lieutenant E. L. Morris of Bellefonte, Penn.

CROSSES FOR MEN OF 27TH.

Presentation by Major Gen. O'Ryan to be Same as Overseas Ceremony.

Crosses won on the fields of Flanders are to be presented to thirty-one officers and enlisted men of the 27th Division next Sunday at 3 o'clock in the sheep meadow in Central Park. By direction of General Pershing the decorations will be pinned on the winners by Major Gen. O'Ryan, and the ceremony will be identical, so far as military arrangements go, with the presentation of tokens of valor made on overseas battlefields.

Before the decorations the 2d Battalion of the 107th Infantry, comprsing Companies E, F, G, and H, will be reviewed. The medal men will then form in a long line, national and regimental colors six paces to the fore, while General O'Ryan, with Colonel Mortimer D. Bryant, commanding the 107th, pass down making the investitures. During the ceremony of award the battalion will form a three-sided square about the men being decorated.

Following the presentation of the Croix de Guerre to Lieutenant J. Gilmore, 106th Infantry, and Privates Michael J. Ressner and James Gallagher, both of Battery F, 105th Artillery, the following officers and men will be awarded the Distinguished Service Cross:

107th Infantry—First Sergeant Harold Greene, Company H; Sergeant Harry C. Hull, Company H; Sergeant George Rowe, Company I; Sergeant Frank E. Dee, Company I; Sergeant Philip Garey, Company I; Corporal Merritt D. Cutler, Company I; Corporal Abel J. Levine, Company H; Corporal Albert C. Westfall, Company G; Private, (first-class,) Frank H. Kenny, Jr., Company H; Private George K. Hagemeyer, Company M, and Mechanic Edwin W. McLaughlin, Company I.

108th Infantry.—Major Paul Daly, 18th Infantry, (attached); Lieutenant Edwin A. Dennis; Private De Witt W. Crandall, Sanitary Detachment; Private Max Norton, Sanitary Detachment; Private Mahlon C. Ward, Company F.

It was announced yesterday that the War Department had granted permission for the cadets of the Military Academy at West Point to act as a guard of honor in front of the official reviewing stand at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street. The cadets will arrive on Tuesday morning and will march up Forty-second Street to Fifth Avenue, swinging up the avenue at about 9:30 o'clock. After a conference yesterday between police officials and members of the Mayor's Committee, police and traffic plans for the parade were announced as follows:

All traffic will be diverted from Fifth Avenue between Fifth Street and 120th Street after 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning. Police lines will be strictly maintained from that time until the last of the returning troops have passed up the decorative thoroughfare. No encroachment will be permitted either on the roadway or the sidewalk at any time.

All of Fifth Avenue except between Eighteenth and Twentieth Streets and Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth Streets and Fortieth and Forty-second Street, will be open to the public between the curb line and the building line.

No persons will be permitted by the police to stand on either side of Fifth Avenue between Eighteenth and Twentieth Streets, which has been reserved for the convalescent soldiers of the hospital at Greenhut's.

No persons will be permitted to stand on the west side of Broadway between the north side of Twenty-third Street and the north side of Twenty-fifth Street, or on the east side of Fifth Avenue for at least fifty feet on either side of the Altar of Liberty and the Arch of Victory at that point.

The public will also be excluded from both sides of the avenus in front of the Public Library, and the marchers will there file past the wounded veterans of the world war, the Spanish war veterans, and the remnant of the Grand Army of the Republic, which will be located at vantage points there. No spectators will be permitted on the sidewalk between Seventy-ninth and Eighty-fifth Streets.

Police Inspector O'Brien of the Traffic Division, who will be in general charge of the 10,000 men along the line, requests that persons desiring to cross Forty-second Street at Fifth Avenue do so by using the shuttle subway service to Times Square and the Grand Central Terminal or else one of the nearby streets designated for limited traffic uses.

These traffic streets have been designated by the police as follows: Eastbound traffic, Sixteenth, Twenty-second, Twenty-sixth, Thirty-second, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-eighth, Forty-fourth, Fiftieth, Fifty-eighth; west-bound traffic, Fifteenth, Twenty-first, Twenty-seventh, Thirty-third, Thirty-fifth, Thirty-ninth, Forty-third, Forty-ninth, and Fifty-seventh Streets.

No persons or vehicles will be permitted to cross Fifth Avenue anywhere except at the points noted.

Persons holding grand stand tickets must approach the section of the stand in which they are to be seated through the cross street indicated on each ticket. No spectators will be permitted west of Madison Avenue between Fifty-ninth and 110th Streets until 9:30 A. M. except those provided with grand stand tickets. After that hour the public will be allowed to occupy the easterly sidewalk of the avenue except where the West Point cadet guard of honor will be located.

Plans for the Brooklyn parade on Monday of 15,000 men, including the Brooklyn contingent of the 27th Division, were completed yesterday, when announcement was made that all Brooklyn stores would be closed until 1 o'clock Monday. All public schools also will be closed. Brig. Gen. James C. Robb, commander of the 2d Brigade, N. Y. G., will be Grand Marshal, and the line of march will be from Bedford and Atlantic Avenues, through Bedford Avenue to Park Place, to Flatbush Avenue, to Prospect Park Plaza, to Prospect Park West, and to Fifteenth Street. Governor Smith and Mayor Hylan are among those who will review the parade.

MINEOLA, L. I., March 20.—Military police at Camp Mills today took into custody a civilian who was roaming about the barracks where the men of the 27th Division are quartered, and who was suspected of being a ticket speculator. The M. P.s are trying to put a stop to the actions of scalpers in securing tickets to the parade of the 27th on Tuesday in New York. The man arrested today is being detained by the military authorities. He had two tickets for the parade when arrested and a large amount of money. Half a dozen New York detectives are to be on duty at the camp tomorrow to aid the military police.

Governor Proclaims Day of Welcome to the 27th

ALBANY, N. Y., March 20.—In a proclamation issued tonight Governor Smith fixed Tuesday, March 25—the day on which the members of the 27th Division will parade in New York—as "a day on which proper observance be made throughout the State in honor of the returning heroes of the 27th Division." It is not a Statewide legal holiday.

The Governor's proclamation in part reads:

"It is right and proper that a day should be so set apart in honor of the magnificent victories of our armies in the cause of humanity to which the members of our former National Guard, which largely composed the membership of the 27th Division, contributed their full measure.

Captain Stephen Bobo, who commanded the Red Cross detachment which served with the 27th Division throughout the fierce fighting in Flanders, announced yesterday that the unit would be included in the organizations which are to march in the divisional parade next Tuesday. In addition to Captain Bobo, eighteen men, six of them New York soldiers, relieved from their commands and assigned to duty in the Red Cross unit, were cited for exceptional courage before the division left France.

"During our operations in France," wrote Major Gen. O'Ryan in a letter dealing with the work of the detachment, "the Red Cross unit attached to the 27th Division did much to add to the comfort of the men, but the real test of its efficiency came when our troops became actively engaged. At that time the Red Cross, often under heavy fire, rendered great assistance both in the care and transportation of the wounded, and saved many lives.

Captain Bobo, according to officers attached to headquarters, joined the 27th Division on the day it landed in France, and immediately "put the Red Cross on the map with the division." He is a native of Memphis, Tenn., according to the citation he received, which sets forth a commendation for "personal courage and great devotion to duty frequently demonstrated during battles and engagements in which this division participated, and for exceptional capacity for work and energetic action in all that related to the activities of the American Red Cross."

Private Leo Smith, Division Headquarters Troops—For gallantry and determination in delivering rations to front line units under heavy enemy shell fire—this in the battle of Vierstaat Ridge, Belgium, Sept. 1, 1918.

Private R. J. Foley, 105th Field Artillery Hospital Company—For untiring zeal and courage under fire in carrying supplies to and evacuating wounded civilians from the towns of Sahale Minaresse and St. Souplet during the progress of our advance through these towns—this immediately prior to the battle of Le Selle River on Oct. 15, 1918.

Private Joseph Mendola, 108th Infantry; Private A. M. Petero, Company C, 102d Engineers, and Private L. Smith, Division Headquarters Troops, were also cited for valor performed in relieving distress under fire in the towns of Sahale Minaresse and St. Souplet.

Home Association Sends 1,500 Statuettes to France.

Major S. Fullerton Weaver, sent from France by Major Gen. Robert Alexander to arrange for the homecoming of the 77th Division, said yesterday that the only information he had received concerning the date the division would arrive in New York was contained in the cable message from Major Julius O. Adler, D. S. C., which had been filed on Wednesday at Sable Sarthe, France.

"I must regard that message as official," said Major Weaver, "and it informed me that the indications were that the first units of the 77th Division would arrive in New York about April 15, and that the entire landing period, it is believed, would not take more than a week. As to information that the 77th Division would not sail until April 24, I know absolutely nothing beyond what was published in the newspapers. In that article it was stated that the division was at Château Villian. The division left Château Villian many weeks ago."

Major Weaver said that circular letters are being distributed by the 77th Division Association to merchants all over the city explaining the 77th Division Employment Bureau, and asking the merchants to indorse its slogan, "New York Jobs for New York Soldiers."

Mrs. J. Lloyd Derby, Assistant Secretary of the 77th Division Home Association, has arranged to ship to France 1,500 grave markers to be placed over the resting places of 77th men who made the supreme sacrifice. The markers are to be of bronze, ten inches in height and four inches wide, and are figures of the Statue of Liberty, the divisional insignia.

A special meeting of the division's home association will be held this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the clubroom of the 305th Infantry Auxiliary, 189 Madison Avenue, for the purpose of discussing the proposed divisional clubhouse. It will be attended by former commissioned officers of the division, as well as by the officers and directors of the various auxiliary organizations of the division.

In discussing the clubhouse, Dr. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity, who is Chairman of the Divisional Home Association, said yesterday that a temporary clubhouse at least was assured. He said that a property under consideration would afford ample space, and fitted with showers and other comforts, probably would be available for the men by the time they returned.

State's Welcome to Troops.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 20.—A resolution extending a welcome to the men of the 77th Division and 165th Infantry, who are to return soon from overseas, was unanimously adopted by the Assembly today. The resolution was introduced by Minority Leader Donohue.

WANTS WORLD FREE TRADE.

George Haven Putnam, President of the American Free Trade League, made public yesterday a cablegram of greeting to the organization from the Cobden Club of England and also the text of a memorandum which has been addressed to the Peace Conference by the Cobden Club emphasizing the importance of cancelling tariff barriers in the readjustment of international relations.

The cablegram said that the Cobden Club expresses the conviction that free trade is an essential factor in securing and maintaining the peace of the world.

> The great purpose of the conference, that to which, by common consent, every other purpose is to be subordinate and auxiliary, is the settlement of international relations on such a foundation as will give to the peoples of the world a reasonable hope and assurance of the future maintenance of peace among them. It is our earnest conviction that the universal adoption of the principle and practice of free trade would greatly contribute to the attainment of this purpose.
>
> We do not propose to justify this conviction by an appeal to economic doctrine. We believe, indeed, that the material requirements of life among the peoples of the world would be increased, and their satisfaction made more stable and secure, by the common adoption of a policy of free trade between them; but we are not, at the moment, concerned to prove this. What does concern us, and what we think closely concerns the conference, is the kind of relationship between nations which a policy of trade protection, adopted by each against the others, assumes, and which actually creates and keeps in being.
>
> It will not be denied that this policy, in practice, sets up artificial barriers between nations; that it restricts their intercourse; that, to the extent to which it is successful in accomplishing its object, it divides and disunites their interests; and that it has been a fruitful source of illwill between them.
> It is, therefore, a hostile relationship which a policy of trade protection assumes as existing between the peoples of the world; and it is a hostile relationship which it actually creates and keeps in being. In the unions of previous independent States composing the Federal Republics of the United States, Switzerland, and Brazil, this has been recognized and acknowledged. Among the fundamental conditions of these federations the abrogation of this policy of trade protection against each other on the part of the component members was included; and once abrogated no attempt has ever been made, or desire expressed on grounds of trade, to revert to it. Within the area comprising the union trade protection has been given up, and trade has not suffered; while the bonds of peace and affection have been strengthened.

The memorandum was signed on behalf of the Committee of the Cobden Club by Francis Mowatt, Chairman; T. Fisher Unwin, Treasurer; J. A. Murray Macdonald, Hon. Secretary; F. J. Shaw, Secretary.

COX ON GERMAN ART.

Paper Prepared by the Painter Read at Academy's Meeting.

A paper on "German Painting," prepared by Kenyon Cox, the artist, who died on Monday, was read yesterday by Robert Underwood Johnson at a meeting of the American Academy of Arts and Letters at the Chemists' Club, 50 East Forty-first Street. Mr. Cox was to have read his paper at yesterday's meeting. It was to be the second of a series of four addresses on "The Failure of German Kultur."

In the graphic arts, Mr. Cox had written in his paper, Germany had produced two artists of something approaching the first rank, Durer and Holbein. While Germany might boast of two masters of almost the first order, she had none of the second or even the third rank, the paper continued.

After relating the foreign influences on the two Germans, Mr. Cox had written: "Nowhere in German art will you find anything like the noble serenity of the Greeks; nowhere anything like the spontaneous and abundant outpouring of beauty which marks the Italians; nowhere the clarity, the logic, the elegance and the restraint of the French.

"Wherever the sublime, the beautiful, or even the tasteful is attempted German art is still-born. It is difficult to tell which is more fatal to it, the lack of inspiration or the lack of taste, and still more difficult to tell which is the most distressing, German classicism, German romanticism, or the German attempt at luxuriance and frivolity.

"German scholars have been studying Greek sculpture for more than a hundred years, and may be said almost to have made the science of classical archaeology their own. Whenever any part of that science is discussed the authorities quoted as final will almost certainly be found to bear German names. It would seem that if any modern people should have a true appreciation of Greek art that people should be the Germans. Yet the effect upon a sensitive mind of every German restoration of an antique statue, and still more of every German attempt at the imitation of classical sculpture, is a kind of terror lest one should be forced to believe that Greek art was really like the German interpretation of it."

KRYPTOK GLASSES THE INVISIBLE BIFOCALS

MANY years ago the Kryptok Co., Inc., engaged us. They were not ready for national advertising. For several years we co-operated in making various types of advertising for the use of the local oculist, optometrist and optician. We sent sales messages to these men through the mails, by the thousands.

About three years ago the Kryptok Co. asked us to build a complete marketing plan, embracing everything from trademark to consumer-appeal.

We didn't build this plan in a day, a week or a month. We built it as thoroughly and as accurately as an engineer would build a factory plan. And why not? The investment finally made would build several factories.

We held a conference with the active officials of this company. We asked them to tell their story first. They told us the inside of their marketing history—then their hopes, their ambitions, and their ideas as to how to attain them. For hours we asked questions. We went away with their point of view. But we were not satisfied—we must know the other side.

So, for weeks, our Commercial Research men interviewed the retail trade and the profession. They studied the methods of competitors and of kindred lines.

Then we built the Plan—but not merely to visualize the possibilities of one year. It covered a program of many years. They accepted the plan and engaged us to execute it.

For one year it was carried out and business increased tremendously. Then the war interfered with the production of the right quality of glass. Kryptok lenses had to measure up to a standard, and so the output had to be temporarily curtailed.

For a few months the advertising was stopped, while the glass problem was being solved. Then the advertising started again, and on a still larger scale. In The Saturday Evening Post of March 22nd is a one-page advertisement, which is one of a series appearing in many magazines each month.

Write for a copy of our booklet, "Putting the Advertiser on the Witness Stand." It tells what twenty of our customers think of our service. We would be pleased to explain our methods to executives.

What's New?
Men ask us that question every day now. There's an exclusiveness in being the first to wear a good new style, that appeals to New Yorkers.
The low $35 price on many of them is another good reason why you should be interested.
